EPPS'S COCOA.
(Breakfast.)
Grateful, comforting.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us, ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

DISEASES OF MEN.

The importance of the nervous system, its power over life and death and the direct bearing which it has on human happiness is thoroughly recognized; its capabilities, moderate uses, the danger of overtaxing it, whether through thought, study or intense mental application or by the excessive indulgence of the appetites and propensities, are proper subjects for consideration. When the nervous system is deranged it is absolutely necessary to promptly seek advice from an expert who, for a long series of years, has devoted his whole time and attention to this study, and who, from his experience and practice, has learned to discover at once the cause and as promptly apply the remedy, thus avoiding the painfully slow feeling after the truth, so common to the inexperienced and so annoying to the patient, who very naturally wants to know without delay what is the matter, the extent of the derangement, the probabilities of recuperation and the time required.

A striking example of the value of experience and practical observation, as well as the usefulness of the prompt application of suitable remedies, is found in the important statement coming, both from home and abroad, that a very large proportion of those who suffer from mental disturbance and absolute insanity permanently recover who are placed under treatment within a year after the first symptoms have manifested themselves.

If the brain has become exhausted by intense mental application, depriving it of the power of connected thought, it can only recover its strength by being properly fed and nourished by the use of certain systematic methods. It is precisely the same with the nerves that preside over organic life. The value of this branch of medical practice can scarcely be overrated for it reaches marriage, the perpetuation of family names, the securing of hereditary titles, and the retention of estates in the same family.

From a long and large experience in this direction, I have been able to command by my success the thankful appreciation of some of the first families in the city and nation; and I can communicate much that pertains to the over exercise of every department of the nervous system and the means of recovering its powers, whether of brain, appetite, propensity or passion.

HENRY A. DANIELS, M. D.,

Without any gum or artificial stiffenings, as is the case with the expensive foreign grenadines, this light, cool and elastic texture will neither crease nor damage by rain or salt water.

This article does not only recommend itself by cheapness, but also by beauty and durability.

Lovely suits are made from it, trimmed with fringes and ruches of the same material.

A VETO OVATION.

Tammany's Reception Last Night to Governor Robinson.

"OMNIBUS" REJOICINGS

Brilliant Scenes at the Wigwam and in Union Square.

THE GOVERNOR ON HIS POLICY.

Heavy Doses of Flattery by Local Lights.

A NATIONAL FRAUD DENOUNCED.

The Republican Neglect to Reapportion New York.

Governor Robinson, who arrived in town yesterday afternoon, was serenaded at the Everett House by the democracy last night. The ovation, for such it was, was in every way gratifying to the guest and his hosts. The district leaders of the party were on hand in strength and the programme previously arranged was carried out to the letter. The whole upper end of Union Square was crowded from curb to curb, and hundreds could hear and see nothing but the whiz and sparkle of the sky rockets speeding upward. When the speech making was in progress the people on the outer rim of the crowd answered, in echo, the cheers and applause of those more fortunate in the vicinity of the stand. The appearance of the neighborhood was brilliant, and not since the night of the late lamented carnival has such a crowd gathered there. The windows of the hotel and the adjoining houses framed scores of faces, and when a rocket flashed near the houses it was noticeable that the roof cornices were ornamented with rows of human faces. The vicinity of the hotel was crowded long before the hour announced for the serenade, and many, attracted by the rockets from Tammany Hall in Fourteenth street, started down to the Wigwam where the clans were to assemble, and were treated to an entertainment not on the programme.

AT TAMMANY HALL.

A little after seven o'clock the committees began to arrive at Tammany Hall. The front of the building was gayly decorated with flags, which were flying from every window. As the people came more and more and it grew darker fireworks, consisting of rockets, bombs, flower pots and red and blue fire, were set off in the street in front of the hall and in the vacant lot on the opposite side of the street. A large detachment of police from different precincts were on hand under the command of Captain Allaire, of the Eighteenth precinct. These kept order in front of the hall. A number of district associations were present, the members wearing blue badges. Soon after Grafulla's Band appeared on the balcony and played a number of selections. Meantime the hall was gradually filling up. The Procession Committee, with red badges and rosettes, accompanied by Mr. Thomas S. Brennan the Grand Marshal of the evening, took their places on the platform. The District Associations filed in and filled the hall and galleries. When the band momentarily ceased, loud calls were made for Mr. Ambrose H. Purdy. Mr. Brennan then in a few remarks introduced Mr. Purdy, who, after detailing the order of the procession, spoke of the recent Legislature and the work there. He said:—

"WE HAD THE GOVERNOR."

The men whom you sent to the Legislature were of good blood and game, and they fought your cause bravely. The republican majority would have pounded the life out of us if we had not fought bitterly for our rights. Fortunately for New York, fortunately for the democracy, fortunately for the rights of the people, although they had a majority in the Assembly and the Senate, we had the Governor. You all know what Governor Robinson has done for us. We asked for a reapportionment, but it was refused us by the Legislature; we asked for an excise law, but it was refused us; and when they tried to legislate our friends out of office, the Governor said, "When you give New York and Kings what the constitution grants them, then and not till then will I sign the bills before me"—and he kept his word. Mr. Purdy then spoke of the liquor dealers and the unavailing efforts that were made to pass a just excise law. He said that the liquor interest paid a large proportion of the revenue of the government. The democracy, said Mr. Purdy, have labored to pass a law that would relieve these men of the obloquy of the unjust law that now presses hardly upon them, but at the next election we will go to the ballot box and call on every liquor dealer to vote for the party that has labored for them. I am, however, a temperance man myself.

THE VETO AS AN INSTITUTION.

Mr. Purdy was greatly applauded, and the band played again, after which Mr. Thomas F. Brady, a member of the recent Legislature, was introduced, and after alluding to the object for which they were assembled he said:—If ever there was a measure having no claim to popular support, if ever there was an attempt made to cripple our city, it was in that infamous measure known as the Omnibus bill. It struck at the very bone of the democracy of the city. It was passed in the Legislature by a strict party vote, but the Governor saved the people from that bill. In honoring Governor Robinson to-night you honor the man who stood between the people and every attempt to oppress them, and who will ever stand up for them. He believes that he is the chosen representative of the people, and he believes in the veto. It is an institution with him.

THE PROCESSION.

At the conclusion of Mr. Brady's address the committee left the platform and led the way to the street, where, by this time, a throng had gathered so dense that it was with great difficulty that the marshal, Mr. Brennan, organized the procession. His direction was that the policemen should head the procession, followed by the band, then came the color bearers, and the committee immediately behind. Following them the people were to march eight abreast, but when the procession was finally formed and had taken up the line of march there were fully twenty men abreast. The band struck up a march which was composed and dedicated to Tweed under the old régime, and the immense crowd kept step to the familiar old tune. The route of the procession was through Fourteenth street to the west side of Union square, around the Lincoln statue and up to the plaza at Seventeenth street, and thence to the stand which had been erected in front of the Everett House.

AT THE EVERETT HOUSE.

In front of the entrance of the Everett House a small platform had been erected, and upon it, long before the arrival of the rank and file, the leaders had assembled. Among those present were Senators Schoonmaker, St. John, Lamonte, Kennedy, Jacobs and Wagstaff, Lieutenant Governor Dorsheimer, Mr. John Kelly, Assemblyman Ecclesine, Richard J. Morrison, Richard Croker, Alderman Purroy, Peter Mitchell, Jacob Seebacker, Dr. Nagle, George W. Morton, John A. Foley, Commissioner Brennan, Judge Duffy, Congressman Willis, ex-Congressman E. R. Meade, ex-Judge Deiflendorfer, Thomas Dunlap, Alderman Lewis, Colonel E. L. Gaul, Augustus Schell, Anthony Eichoff, Alderman Gilon, Peter B. Olney, Thomas Shields, Charles F. Harvier, Judge Campbell, H. Woltman, George W. McGlynn, Frank Spinola, Police Commissioner Nicholls and a host of other lesser note. The platform was festooned with velvet and half a dozen silk flags fluttered from the upright poles. Two great fluid lights, one at either end of the platform, were lit and with the hue of gas jets along the southern line of the plaza made a brilliant illumination. Two hundred policemen detailed to preserve order did most efficient service before the crowd arrived, but after the band and a small squad of men composing the committees from Tammany Hall came from Fourteenth street the police became hopelessly demoralized, broke line and were lost in the crowd. From the first assault of the crowd the police did not recover during the night, and the crowd which came marching into the square after the band finally drove the officers to the boards of the platform. The man in charge of the fire works managed to keep a little spot in the middle of the crowd, and while the band serenaded the Governor the crowd amused itself with the police. As was stated the plaza was crowded with one solid phalanx of human beings after the arrival of the committee from Tammany Hall, so that when the delegation from the First district arrived via Fourth avenue it seemed as though they would be unable to get near enough to pay their respects to the Governor. The leader of the delegation, however, appreciating the helplessness of his followers, called for them to follow him, and he charged his spirited horse into the crowd. The delegates filled up the gap behind him and marched past the stand in something like order.

THE GOVERNOR APPEARS.

After two or three false alarms the Governor appeared, accompanied by Mr. Augustus Schell and Mr. Henry L. Clinton. For a long while the cheering of the crowd postponed the speechmaking. Finally Mr. Schell rapped the crowd to order and said:—

THE PROCEEDINGS.

Mr. Augustus Schell called the meeting to order and said:—

FELLOW CITIZENS AND DEMOCRATS—We have met this evening to do honor to the distinguished Governor of the State of New York, Lucius Robinson, whose private worth and public official character deserve, as they will receive, our hearty commendation. (Loud cheers.) Mr. Clinton, on behalf of the democracy, will now address Governor Robinson. (Cheers.)

MR. CLINTON'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Henry L. Clinton addressed Governor Robinson as follows:—

The pleasant duty has devolved upon me, as the mouthpiece of the organization representing the democratic party in this city, to express to you their appreciation of the great public services you have rendered the people of this State since your accession to the high office you now hold. From the administration of the first Governor of this State to that of your immediate predecessor no man ever brought to the discharge of the duties of the office more honesty of purpose or a more invincible determination to do right than yourself. And I may, with equal propriety, add that but few, if any, of your predecessors ever had the opportunity to do as much good in so short a period as has fallen to your lot. We know [illegible] faith in the institutions of our country. You have shown by your works your devotion to the great principles which constitute the basis of a republican form of government.

GETTING TO "BUSINESS" AT ONCE.

The patriots of the Revolution incorporated in our national constitution the principle that the Executive of the nation should submit his nominees for office to the Senate of the United States for approval or rejection. The same principle is embodied in the constitutions of the various States. The State Senate may approve or reject the nominations of the Governor. Although the Senate may abuse this great trust, as did our State Senate during the recent session of the Legislature, yet such abuse furnishes no reason nor excuse for overthrowing or setting at defiance the requirements of the constitution. The principle that nominations to office on the part of our Mayor should be subject to the approval or rejection of the Board of Aldermen, which now constitutes our municipal legislature, has, with but few notable exceptions, formed a part of our municipal organic law.

A PLEA FOR THE ALDERMEN.

A departure from this principle in the short period of two years resulted in most disastrous consequences to the city, in the imposition of burdens too grievous to be borne—burdens the desolating effects of which will extend far beyond the present generation. One of the chief innovations of the infamous Tweed charter consisted in empowering the Mayor to appoint all the heads of the various departments without confirmation by the Board of Aldermen. Commencing with the violation of the principle imbedded in the constitution of the United States, in the constitutions of the different States of our Union, and which ought always to be one of the prominent features of the organic law relative to the government of cities, a system of wholesale plunder—of municipal robbery—was organized, by which our city and county debt (according to the report of the Joint Committee of the Common Council and the Board of Supervisors) between the 1st day of January, 1870, and the 14th day of September, 1871, was increased about forty-nine millions of dollars.

EVIDENTLY A SHAMEFUL THEORY.

The theory that the Mayor should appoint the heads of departments, without confirmation by the Board of Aldermen, is that the people of our city are incapable of self-government, and cannot be relied upon to elect Aldermen who will wisely exercise the power of confirming or rejecting the Mayor's nominees. The combination known as the Tweed Ring, composed of republicans and democrats, almost laid this city in ruins. A fierce, unrelenting war, begun in 1870 by democrats in this city against municipal corruptionists and public plunderers—a war which in less than two years was crowned with triumphant, glorious victory—proved the capacity of the citizens of this great metropolis for self-government.

THE WELCOME VETO.

You, sir, by your timely vetoes, have shown that you fully understand the condition of our metropolis and appreciate the rights of our citizens. You have shown that, come what may, you will obey the mandates of the constitution, and not swerve one iota from the obligations of your oath of office. It was in vain that a republican Legislature invited you to violate your oath to obey the constitution of our State, and put the seal of your approval to an act (the so-called Omnibus bill) which on its face seemed to favor retrenchment, but which in practice would have largely increased municipal expenditure; an act destructive of the best interests of the city, calculated to throw many of the departments into inextricable confusion, and which, in its leading provisions, was palpably, flagrantly unconstitutional.

A CRUCIAL TEST.

It was thought by our republican friends that you would foist upon our citizens a system of unwise, disastrous and unconstitutional legislation (of which this bill formed a part), in order that you might punish a city which, according to the views of republicans, proved its incapacity for self-government by rolling up for you last fall a majority of over 51,000.

TACTICS OF BAD REPUBLICANS.

The republican party, which has stolen the Presidency, in effect proclaims the doctrine that, although they cannot go behind the returns of corrupt and infamous returning boards they can go behind the constitution? With them the mandates of returning boards are sacred; the requirements of the constitution are entitled to no respect. That constitution commanded a republican Legislature in 1876 to make a new apportionment. In that year the constitution was trampled under foot. In 1877 the republican majority in the Legislature continued to defy the constitution which they had sworn to support. The lame and impotent attempt made at the end of the session to seem desirous of passing an Apportionment bill simply made the violation of their sworn duty the more glaring. You, sir, have accomplished for the State of New York that which Jackson and Webster achieved for the nation.

Turning to the large concourse of people present, Mr. Clinton continued:—

Fellow democrats and fellow citizens permit me to introduce to you Governor Lucius Robinson, the protector of the public interests; the defender of the constitution; the Andrew Jackson of the Empire State.

GOVERNOR ROBINSON'S RESPONSE.

MR. CHAIRMAN AND FELLOW CITIZENS—No words can express my gratitude for what you have so kindly said, or my appreciation of this great popular demonstration. I would be more than mortal were I unmoved at such a tribute. But I know, and rejoice to know that it has a higher and better significance than mere personal compliment to myself. When on the 1st of January I took the oath to support the constitution and discharge my official duties to the best of my ability, I did not regard it as an idle ceremony without meaning. I knew that it imposed upon me obligations to be absolved by nothing short of death. In the few words which I then addressed to the people I stated some of the leading principles which lie at the very foundation of our government and which are essential to its life. Among other doctrines—"The support of the State governments in all their rights; the preservation of the general government in its whole constitutional vigor; absolute acquiescence in the will of the majority; economy in the public expenses; the honest payment of our debts and the sacred preservation of the public faith."

These principles are fundamental in the democratic party. Its grandest achievements have sprung from its fidelity to them, while every marked departure from them has been invariably followed by disaster. In assuming the duties of the high office which I hold, with no personal ambitions to gratify, I resolved that, come what might, I would, to the full extent of my ability, carry out these principles. To my sincere and earnest endeavors to do this I ascribe all the success I may have achieved thus far in my administration.

SPECIAL LEGISLATION.

With this resolution it was impossible that I should act otherwise than as I have. When wasteful and needless appropriations were presented for my approval I could not and did not hesitate to withhold it. When local and special acts were passed, directly contrary to the letter and spirit of the constitution forbidding such legislation, no course remained but to cut them down by the exercise of the Executive veto. That course I followed. Acts entailing upon the people the evils of local or general extravagence, indebtedness and mismanagement I felt that I had no right to approve. Duty to my office and my oath forbade me to indorse anything of expenditure or enactment not necessary to the successful and economical administration of the government.

Having passed all my life within the limits of this State, and lived its best years within the city of New York, I am no stranger to the interests, the circumstances and the needs of the city and its people. I have long been proud of its enterprise, its strength, its vast industries, its varied charities, its commerce drawn from every quarter of the globe and the countless activities which have made it the metropolis of the Western World. In common with all good citizens I have regarded with indignation the evils of its government too well known to need repetition here. I have rejoiced at the recent and successful efforts of its people to overthrow the authors of those evils, and I shall sympathize and aid in every attempt to restore to the city the constitutional right, enjoyed by every other locality in the State, to govern itself.

LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT.

If there is one principle more than others accepted of all good men it is that of local self-government. To the vicious practice of legislative tampering with the city government for personal or political ends I never have been and never will be a party. Its evil effects have reached their natural climax. For two years a partisan majority in the Senate and Assembly have openly denied to the city of New York its proper representation in the legislative halls. In contempt of their oath of office they have wilfully refused to fulfil their constitutional obligation to reapportion the legislative districts in accordance with the population of the various localities. I need not tell you that this course is fraught with danger to our system. It is nothing short of crime against our highest law. I need not remind you that in days gone by, when men were needed to shelter with their breasts and blood the State and nation from the violence of war, the city of New York has been called on to measure its quota by numbers greater than its population. You will remember, too, that in all drafts for public money, in all adjustments of taxation, New York has never lacked assessment for her full proportion. It is only when the point of representation is reached that doubts arise as to the propriety of granting full measure to the city.

This petty injustice cannot last. The day of release from the incubus of bad laws will surely come. Under a wise, pure and honest system of city government we shall soon experience relief from the confusion and local anarchy builded on the present heap of three thousand laws. In that day New York will realize a future of which her people and the Empire State may well be proud.

To the principles I have stated I shall adhere to the end of my administration. Reared in them from early youth, I cannot yield them now but with my life. Although nominated and elected to my present office by democratic votes, I know no more sacred truth in our government or in the democratic faith than that which makes a public officer from the moment of his election the servant of the whole people. To them, and not to a party only, am I responsible for the administration of my high and holy trust.

FRAUD AND CORRUPTION.

I do not forget that the path before us is shadowed by difficulty. I recognize with sorrow the light regard for the most solemn obligations of the constitution, which has become the curse of American politics. I cannot ignore the fraud and corruption of the hour, which, passing from the circle of small things, has at last laid hold upon the highest place in the nation. We must recognize and meet this evil. The pathway of fraudulent elections is the highway to national death. If the Republic is to endure we have looked for the last time upon the inauguration of a national Executive who was never elected.

To remedy these evils and to sustain the principles I have already stated is the duty of all good citizens. Especially will the democratic party prove false to its old traditions if it fail to labor to this end. I can have no higher ambition as the Chief Magistrate of this great State than in some small degree to assist in so noble a work.

Fellow citizens, I thank you once more for the magnificence of this ovation. It will inspire me with strength to keep on in the line of administration thus signally approved, and its memory will grow green within my heart while life endures.

SPEECH OF LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR DORSHEIMER.

Lieutenant Governor Dorsheimer addressed the audience after Governor Robinson had retired and said they had assembled there to pay a tribute of respect to a democratic Governor who had well deserved the thanks of the democracy of New York. The republican party beaten in the State and beaten in the nation (Cheers), thought to regain strength by producing dissensions among the democracy, even in the stronghold of the democratic party.

A VOICE—"They can't do it."

This was sought to be done under the pretence of reform, and it was to be done by placing power in the hands of republican officials. But there was one thing the democracy of this city stood pledged to, that the municipal authorities should govern New York free from interference at Albany. (Cheers.) Mr. Dorsheimer then showed how the simplicity and honesty of the municipal government of the city had been perverted by fraud until it was placed in the hands of an organized band of thieves, who carried the small debt of the municipality to the proportions in which it now stands—the most serious obstacle to the prosperity of New York. Governor Robinson had, however, carried out the pledges which the democratic party had kept, as far as they could, that the local government should not be interfered with by the Legislature, and Governor Robinson threw the weight of his influence against any attempt in that direction. The result of this was that for once in many years past the democracy found no law upon the statute book affecting the charter of their city. For once New York was free from the government at Albany; free to govern their municipality by the laws to which they have been accustomed. He would not pretend to say that the municipal government of New York was perfect, but he preferred that any improvements in it should come from democrats. (Cheers.)

Mr. Dorsheimer concluded by urging democrats to stand on guard, so that at the end of four years they might see that the President who was elected should be inaugurated.

THE FINAL ADJOURNMENT.

At the conclusion of the Lieutenant Governor's speech the assembly dispersed, but as the band continued to play several popular airs a throng of enthusiastic democrats remained around the front of the hotel to listen to the music and to offer and receive congratulations. Finally, about eleven o'clock, a procession was formed, and, preceded by the band, several hundreds of the Tammany men marched to the "Wigwam" in Fourteenth street and then dispersed.

GROGSELLING AS A CRIME.

MEETINGS IN NEW YORK AND BROOKLYN FOR THE RIGID ENFORCEMENT OF THE EXCISE LAW.

The organization known as the "Society for the Prevention of Crime" held a meeting last evening in the Church of the Disciples (Dr. Hepworth's), corner of Madison avenue and Forty-fifth street, and there was another meeting for a similar purpose held in Brooklyn. Chancellor Howard Crosby spoke in both places on the same topic.

THE OBJECT OF THE SOCIETY.

"The object of the society," said Dr. Crosby, "is to assist the authorities in enforcing the laws and preventing crime. We feel that besides the government we must have the moral support of the people. Our purpose is to work up that moral support. We have just now taken up the subject of the groggeries in New York, have resolved to put them down, and are determined to do it. All these groggeries, to the enormous number of 10,000 in Brooklyn and New York, are contrary to law—the law of 1857, which prohibits the sale of any liquor to be drunk on the premises, except beer and ale, and also excepting hotels. There is no radical prohibition in this. It is not the old prohibitive law of Maine. It is revived by us here in New York for the suppression of the traffic that is carried on here in this city by 10,000 men, contrary to law. These grogshops are 10,000 fountains of crime of all kinds and pauperism in all its forms. Here are these rascals," continued the Doctor, "robbing poor people, debauching the young and filling our prisons, in defiance of the plain letter and spirit of the statute, and our aim is to stop them. We do not want any religious sentiment introduced into this movement. It will stand and win by itself. The plan we are working on is spreading very rapidly and is having its effect upon those who would have a spirit of radicalism infused into the temperance movement. Many of the temperance speakers of this class are now favoring our plan. The great majority of our people—all taxpayers, high and low—are interested in this movement, and they are simply to be aroused to secure its triumphant success. The movement has extended to nearly every city in our State, and in New Jersey they have discovered the existence of a law as good as ours. We are going to have 40,000 names on our books before long, and each man will give us $1 a year, and that will constitute an army and a fund big enough to fight this battle with. We are not going to make distinctions in politics or in religion. The Jew or the atheist is as welcome in this army as the Christian. We have only one object in view, and that is, down with the groggeries."

THE CHURCH OF THE DISCIPLES.

The meeting at the Church of the Disciples was not so fully attended as the friends of the cause seemed to expect. Vice President R. H. Shannon presided. The Secretary, Theodore Bourne, stated that letters had been received from Hon. John Jay, ex-Governor Hoffman, Bradford L. Prince and Messrs. Seward and Choate in response to invitations to attend the meeting.

Ex-Judge E. D. Culver examined the statistics of crime and pauperism in this city and Brooklyn, and took the ground that most of these evils arose from the sale of intoxicating drinks. He argued that 6,000 tippling shops in this city sold liquor illegally and that their proprietors were liable to prosecution for violation of the law of 1857. The law of 1870, under which these 6,000 sellers profess to have licenses, has been pronounced to be in conflict with the law of 1857, which stipulates the character of persons who may obtain licenses; hence those who sell under the law of 1870 sell unlawfully. The main object was now to put down these unlawful sellers, and not to interfere with hotel keepers, grocers and drug stores, which were licensed to sell under the law of 1857.

Rev. Dr. Abraham R. Van Nest said the object of the society was the greatest that ever actuated our community. He asked the people to enlist in the cause as they would in any other good work. The way to prevent the evils of intemperance was by damming up the stream that caused them—the sale of liquor. He believed that the wise and respectable people of the city were in favor of this reform.

G. B. Milliken gave his experience in organizing temperance associations. In Flushing, where, he said, there was a bar for nearly every inhabitant, a few temperance men had adopted only one method to carry out their object of suppressing drunkenness—that was the enforcement of the law and making every transgressor subject to its penalties. After some resistance the purpose was accomplished, and now Flushing is free from drunkards.

Rev. Mr. Merritt said it was necessary to have in this great work the earnest co-operation of the press of New York. When the press is aroused the people will be aroused, and when the people are aroused we are sure to have their sympathy. But it was not only sympathy they wanted, but money, and he appealed to those who favored the cause, who were in favor of the prevention of crime and the reduction of taxation, to help supply the means to contest the matter in the courts.

Dr. Hepworth and Dr. Crosby followed.

THE BROOKLYN MEETING.

The Athenæum Hall, in Atlantic avenue near Court street, Brooklyn, was well filled. The meeting was called to order by Mr. H. B. Spellman, and Mr. Ripley Ropes was elected chairman. On accepting the honor he said:—I shall not decline. What right-minded man can decline to do what he can to curtail the abuse of the evil of liquor selling—an evil which is fraught with crime, degradation and misery? There is in the statute books of this State a law which has for several years been a dead letter. But the recent decision of the Court of Appeals has summoned that law into life and the friends of temperance see in it the means of strengthening the cause of temperance, and they have organized in several parts of the State for the enforcement of this law. That is the object of this meeting to-night which is preliminary to the formation of an organization here which shall "request" the Board of Police and Excise to enforce the law. Professor Robert Foster was then elected Secretary, after which Chancellor Howard Crosby, of New York, was introduced and spoke to the same effect as above reported.

Letters were read from Bishop Littlejohn, Father Sylvester Malone and Dr. E. S. Porter, whose engagements hindered them from being present. Father Malone's letter was especially vigorous in sentiment condemnatory of tippling and was received with great applause. Mr. H. B. Spellman read a series of resolutions in harmony with the spirit and object of the meeting, and then delivered a brief address in explanation of the law which regulates, or, as one of the audience remarked, makes tippling respectable instead of justifying it. Mr. Spellman traced the law from colonial times down to the present and answered questions put to him.

General Stewart L. Woodford made a telling speech encouraging the audience to unite to enforce the law, whether they agree with its provisions or not. They can all do this by making complaints of every groggery kept open in violation of law, and, if the police and excise officers and the magistrates fail or refuse to enforce the law, a remedy will be found for them at the ballot box.

SINEWS OF WAR.

The Rev. H. R. Nye made a brief appeal for money, and a collection was taken up. Messrs. H. B. Spellman, A. B. Capwell and Revs. S. P. Ingersoll, S. B. Halliday were appointed a committee to make arrangements for a meeting to be held in the Young Men's Christian Association Hall next Wednesday evening.

OLIVER COTTER'S TACTICS.

Brooklyn's Temperance Brotherhood of Christian Churches is still waging war against the liquor dealers, and their efforts to stop the sale of liquor on Sundays and reduce the number of saloons are being attended with success. The Brotherhood has lately adopted a new system of working, and last Sunday's effects so elated the members of the organization that it will probably be continued. Early in the morning Oliver Cotter, the Brotherhood's chief agent, collected together forty temperance warriors whom he could depend on. He then divided them into ten squads and assigned each squad to a certain portion of the city. When the squads again gathered together in the evening they had evidence against twenty-five saloon keepers. Mr. Cotter yesterday morning handed the names of the breakers of the law to the District Attorney for presentation to the Grand Jury.

A STOLEN CHILD.

THE CASE OF LITTLE MARY MASTERSON—RECOVERY OF THE CHILD—THE ABDUCTOR.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11, 1877.

On the 11th of April a little girl named Mary Masterson, who resided with her grandmother, Mrs. Ann White, at No. 630 Charles street, disappeared from her home. It appeared that an old woman calling herself Fannie Brown had for six days before this time lodged with the grandmother, who was poor and glad to get the twenty-five cents a night which Mrs. Brown paid. This woman told Mrs. White that she expected a sister to come in a few days, and, on the evening of April 8, a woman, whose name was learned to be Mary Emerson, called on Fannie Brown, but was refused lodgings by Mrs. White, who did not like her appearance. Mary went away, and Mrs. White noticed that she took particular notice of the little girl, and her grandmother, remembering the fate of Charley Ross, felt no little alarm. That night Fannie Brown did not return to her lodging house and the next day the child was missing. A search was at once instituted and the discovery made that the child had been seen in company with Fannie Brown. Mary Emerson was subsequently arrested as an accomplice and held in custody. Mrs. White was told that Fannie Brown had a brother living at Newark, N. J., where she at once went, but failed to ascertain anything regarding the abductor's whereabouts, the most thorough search being made there as well as in New York and Brooklyn. Mrs. Emerson stated that Fannie Brown had a husband and children living somewhere in Utah, and it was her intention to go there, taking the child with her to assist in begging and selling perforated cards to enable her to pay her passage. The fact being known to the authorities here that the woman had always resided in the slums of the city, and made her living by begging, little reliance was placed in the story, but it now appears to have been the truth.

THE ARREST IN ST. LOUIS.

On the 5th of June Chief of Police Jones received a letter from Chief McDonough, of the St. Louis police, stating that he had arrested Mrs. Fannie Brown for vagrancy, and that she had in her possession a bright little girl, about seven years old, who said her name was Mary Masterson, and that she lived in Philadelphia. Chief Jones immediately telegraphed back to detain the woman and child until he could send a detective on. On Friday evening Detective Umstead left for St. Louis, where he found the woman and child, both of whom he brought to this city. Arriving early this morning, the woman was locked up, and, on being questioned, acknowledged to having taken the child away. She said that in Unity, San Pete county, Utah, she had a husband and children living, and her name was Mrs. Collard. She desired to go on to see her family, but, not having the means to do so, determined to take the child along for company and assistance; that she had gone first to Baltimore and then made her way to Indianapolis, in which places, as well as on the cars, the child had been engaged in begging and selling perforated card boards, with crosses and other devices worked on them, to be used as book markers.

THE ABDUCTOR.

The woman is fifty-five years of age. She has the sneaking look of a criminal, and was very shabby and filthy in her dress and appearance. She says she is an Englishwoman. She and her husband joined the Mormons and went to Utah. There he married his brother's wife's sister, a much handsomer woman than his own wife, and turned his legal wife adrift. She wanted to go back to Utah, and determined to steal Mary Masterson to make her beg the money to pay their expenses on the way.

THE STOLEN CHILD.

The little girl is a bright, intelligent child, with dark hair and eyes. Her mother is dead. She does not appear to have been ill used, but says the woman sometimes slapped her when she would not beg. She cannot give a connected story of her wanderings.

FAILURE OF RAILWAY OPERATORS.

BOSTON, June 11, 1877.

There is a well-founded rumor on the street to-day that Mr. H. A. Blood, formerly general manager of the Boston, Clinton and Fitchburg Railroad and president and vice president of other roads, and Solomon H. Howe, formerly of the well known dry goods jobbing house of Howe, Pierce & Co., have failed, the former for $1,500,000 and the latter for $400,000.

Of the cause leading to the failure the Traveller says:—"When the Boston, Clinton and Fitchburg Railroad was started Mr. Blood was elected superintendent. Other roads, such as the Mansfield and Framingham and Framingham and Lowell, through his personal exertions, were built and became part of the Boston, Clinton and Fitchburg road. Following this consolidation came consolidation with the New Bedford and Taunton road, also through his personal effort. A little over a year ago it became evident that the road was too great a burden. Mr. Blood had put his all into the consolidated line. It was a question whether the road should go into bankruptcy or the stockholders obtain a grant from the Legislature to issue preferred stock. After a long hearing before the Railroad Committee it was decided to grant leave. Mr. Howe was the confidant and assistant of Mr. Blood, and had put all his money into the enterprise, and now both men are left bankrupts."

FATAL ASSAULT ON A WIFE.

TILTON, N. H., June 11, 1877.

Charles H. Payson, residing three miles from here, attacked his wife this afternoon, striking her three terrible blows on the head and shoulders and inflicting fatal injuries. Payson, who was intoxicated, was arrested.

CULPABLE CARELESSNESS.

BENNINGTON, Vt., June 11, 1877.

Yesterday afternoon a young man named Blow, while walking in a field near Bennington with two lady cousins of the same name, pointed an old shotgun at them, not knowing it was loaded, merely, as he says to frighten them. He discharged the gun, wounding one, perhaps fatally, in the breast, and the other slightly, in the back.

A BRUTE SENTENCED.

TRENTON, N. J., June 11, 1877.

To-day John Whitehead, who locked a child twelve years of age in the freight depot at Hopewell and attempted an outrage upon her person, was sentenced to five years in State Prison.

WEST POINT.

Exciting Scenes During the Cavalry Drill.

THE CADETS' TENACITY OF LIFE.

A Runaway, a Broken Girth and a Riderless Horse.

FAINTING FOR ANOTHER GIRL'S BROTHER.

Official and Social Movements of the Board of Visitors.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

WEST POINT, June 11, 1877.

"You can't kill a cadet or a government horse" is a proverb at the Academy, and it is founded upon the recollection of a long list of escapes that are truly marvellous. Another was added to the list to-day when the graduating class was going through the last of the military drills. This was a cavalry exhibition—school of the company—under direction of Colonel Eugene B. Beaumont, the present instructor in riding. The weather was charming, the ground was in splendid condition after the rain of yesterday and a large number of spectators had assembled to witness the spectacle, which is generally considered the most interesting and exciting of military exercises. When the seventy-five young men in their neat uniforms, with brass buttons glistening in the sunlight, gleaming sabres at their hips and mounted upon spirited and well groomed horses, drew up in line in front of the barracks, and facing the hotel, a quarter of a mile distant across the plain, they presented a pretty picture. After performing various tactical movements—wheeling right and left and forming and reforming into companies, columns and a dozen figures known only to the initiated—with a rapidity and precision that indicated long training under skilful teachers, they were again brought into line, and each drew his sabre. A blast from the trumpet and they set off across the plain at a trot, the horses prancing and neighing and the youthful riders bending first to the right and then to the left, slashing the gravel with their sabres as they went, as if striking at prostrate foes. Another call of the trumpet and the horses, as if moved by a common mechanism, break into a gallop, and the line, without a break, dashes forward, the riders making the gravel fly with increased rapidity. Around each gray jacket, like forked lightning, the gleaming sabre plays, the horses warm up to their work, and, with foaming mouths and distended nostrils, strive to escape the curb, and the hills re-echo with the mighty thud of their hoofs mingling with the stirring notes of the trumpet.

"My God!" exclaims a nervous spectator, "they will dash right into the river!"

But no. Just before the elder hedge, which with a light rail divides the plain from the lawn of the hotel, the shrill "Halt" of the bugle rises above the clangor, and the horses are with difficulty reined in. Turning about an order sends the company charging back to the other side of the plain. A few seconds to give the horses breath and once more the line whirls across. It is hardly well under way when the notes of the bugle ring out, "Charges as foragers," and with a yell that would do credit to a Comanche Indian each rider digs his heels into the foaming flanks of his steed, wildly brandishes his weapon and thunders madly forward at the top of his speed regardless of his fellows as if pursuing a routed enemy. The quality of the horses now tells. Some springing with the velocity of an arrow released from the bow bear their riders far in advance of the rest. Horses and men seem mad. Both catch their breath, both dilate their nostrils, and the flushed face of the man corresponds to the foaming mouth of the beast as they wildly dart across the field. Another half minute of this, and it will be impossible to restrain them from going over the heights into the river. But a few yards from the hedge are they, when the imperative voice of Colonel Beaumont translated through the trumpet brings the cadets to their senses, and the horses are, therefore, back upon their haunches.

A RUNAWAY.

But see, three of the lads go on at breakneck speed up the gravelled walk of the hotel lawn, disappear for a moment and again are seen flying like the wind along the walk which skirts the Plain and slightly in advance, two abreast. The horses have gone wild and ran away with their riders.

The spectators do not realize the fact for a moment, and fancy they are looking at a race as the three gray jackets flash in and out of view through the trees. Then the faces of the ladies blench and the men are nervous.

"What if they should be dashed against the trees?" says one.

"That's the only danger," responds an officer, "these lads cannot be thrown otherwise."

Clear around the Plain skim the runaways, and, as the troop ride back at a gallop, one of the three is whisked across their line. Will he not be carried in the opposite direction by his fractious and still unmanageable beast? After flitting twice around the Plain two of the horses are brought under subjection through the skill of their riders and rejoin the troop. Cadet McMartin, who rides the third, has a harder task before him. With a mouth hardened by constant riding and driving, the animal takes the bit between his teeth and fairly takes his own way. The stables are located down beside the river under the bluff, and in that direction the plucky cadet is carried at terrific speed. Just as the animal reaches the brow of the declivity, McMartin, with the agility of an acrobat smoothly trotting around a circle, swings himself lightly from the saddle in the direction the horse is going and planting his feet firmly against the turf as he alights he fairly drags the beast to a standstill without himself having received a scratch. Meanwhile the troop is drawn up opposite the barracks for another charge.

"I wish they would not have any more," mutter the ladies.

"Splendid exhibition!" exclaim the gentlemen, "More exhilarating than champagne!"

Again the long line gallops forward, again the bugle orders a forage charge, and with wilder cries than before they thunder forward.

A BROKEN GIRTH.

In the midst of the wild rush Faust, the splendid setter dog of Lieutenant Townsend, starts out from the line of spectators with a howl. Watching the exhibition with as intense an interest as any of his human companions his quick eyes caught through the dust and intervening objects a gray-coated form shoot from his horse and lie prostrate on the field, while his companions in the rear, unable to curb their animals, leap over him. Like a flash the spectators are on their feet and rushing to the unhappy cadet's assistance. Among the first to reach him are Mr. Blaine and Colonel Beaumont, and the others crowd around, while one of the troop is despatched for the doctor.

"What is it?" is the universal question, and some one says, "Hoppin appointed from New York, but living in Chicago." At this a young lady, who fainted dead at the first sight of the mishap, opens her eyes and mutters "Thank God it is not my brother!" There is in the assemblage, however, a sister of the unfortunate cadet and she is frantic. Inquiries reveal the fact that while he was cutting the ground and bending over for that purpose the girth broke, and his saddle slipping to one side shot him to the ground, where he fell upon his shoulder and head. He bleeds freely, and Dr. Robinson, who is on the spot in a minute, pronounces him only severely stunned.

ANOTHER EXCITING SCENE.

While everybody is watching and inquiring about Cadet Hoppin another exciting scene has been in progress close by. When the horse felt his rider fall he darted forward like a cannon ball; in a moment he was at the hedge in front of the hotel; without turning a hair he burst straight through the hedge, carrying before him the fence running beside it, and plunged up the lawn. Of the company seated upon the piazza, two ladies fell in a faint from fright. Two of Hoppins' companions who were riding beside him when he fell pressed on to catch the horse, one on either side. They followed through the break made in the hedge, and only a few feet behind. The runaway crossed the little lawn, and finding himself cornered by the hedge on the other side, cleared it at a bound, breaking away the fence on the outside of it at the same time. With a whoop the two pursuers lifted their horses over in fine style, and away the three coursed, leaving everything at the hotel in as great confusion as there existed out upon the plain.

All this excitement, however, lasted but a few minutes, for the runaway was soon caught, and the injured cadet was carried off in a carriage. He proved to be only stunned and bruised, and was able to walk out of the hospital this afternoon. The drill then went on for some time until every tactic had been exhausted.

MOVEMENTS OF THE BOARD OF VISITORS.

Upon the invitation of Professor C. W. Larned, teacher of drawing, the Board of Visitors proceeded to-day to the gallery, where the works of the cadets for the past year were on exhibition. They were accompanied by Lieutenant Thomas G. Townsend, of the Sixth infantry, one of the instructors, who gave them a great deal of information concerning the classes.

SOCIAL COURTESIES.

This evening the Board is at the home of Hamilton Fish, on the other side of the river, whither they have gone to lunch at his special invitation. The wives of the gentlemen composing the Board have gone to take tea and spend the evening with Mrs. Bigelow, wife of the Secretary of State, who lives some two miles south of the Point.

THE GRADUATING BALL.

The cadets are all in a flutter of excitement about the graduating ball, which will occur on Wednesday night, and the hotel here is filled with guests who have come to attend it.

AN OLD REGISTER.

In an old register of the hotel found in a dusty garret a few days ago is to be seen, under date of May 29, 1839, the names "U. H. Grant" and Fred T. Dent. They were superscribed when the future President came to enter as a plebe at the academy.

DISTINGUISHED ARRIVALS ANTICIPATED.

General William Sherman and the Secretary of War are expected to-morrow and General Hancock on Wednesday. The awards of diplomas will be made on Thursday at ten A. M., when an infantry review, parade and drill will come off.

WASHINGTON, June 11, 1877.

Secretary McCrary leaves here to-morrow morning for West Point, and will return on Friday.

THE NAVAL ACADEMY.

OPENING OF THE ANNUAL EXAMINATION—ORGANIZATION OF THE BOARD OF VISITORS—COMPETITIVE DRILL.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 11, 1877.

The Board of Visitors to the Naval Academy met to-day in the academic library. They were officially received at eleven o'clock with a salvo of artillery, and the chiefs of the departments were presented to the members by Rear Admiral Rodgers, after which they were received by the battalion of cadets. The Board then proceeded to the parade ground in front of Admiral Rodgers' residence, where the cadets passed in review as a battery of light artillery.

In the afternoon the examination of the different classes commenced.

ORGANIZATION OF THE BOARD.

At half-past two P. M. the Board met and organized for business as follows:—

President—Commodore J. W. A. Nicholson, United States Navy.

Vice President—Brigadier General W. H. Emory, United States Army.

Secretary—Master H. O. Rittenhouse, United States Navy.

Members—General Ralph P. Buckland, Ohio; Chancellor William G. Hammond, of Iowa State University; Right Rev. William Ingraham Kip, D.D., LL.D., Bishop of California; Professor J. F. Quimby, New York; Captain S. R. Franklin, United States Navy; Pay Director Joseph C. Eldridge, United States Navy; Hon. L. C. Houck, Tennessee; Hon. J. A. Leonard, Minnesota; Chief Engineer J. P. Sprague, United States Navy; Medical Director F. M. Gunnell, United States Navy.

Committees were appointed, and the Board adjourned to meet at half-past nine A. M. to-morrow.

COMPETITIVE DRILL.

At half-past six this evening a competitive drill for the honor of bearing the company flag took place on the campus in the presence of thousands of citizens and strangers, the attachés of the academy and the Board of Visitors, including the following judges:—Brigadier General Emory, Professor J. F. Quimby, Hon. L. C. Houck and General Ralph P. Buckland. About eight o'clock the contest closed, and the flag was awarded to the second of the four companies, commanded by Captain Omenza G. Dodge, and was presented to the Captain by Miss Annie Rodgers, daughter of the Admiral, amid the hurrahs of the other three companies.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Secretary of the Navy, with the chiefs of the several bureaus in that department, will probably leave Washington to-day for a tour of inspection of the Northern navy yards. Rear Admiral Howell, Chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, will be acting Secretary during the absence from Washington of Secretary Thompson.

THE RANGER.

The United States steamer Ranger, whose arrival at Gibraltar was announced in the HERALD of yesterday, on her passage from New York encountered two gales of wind, in which the vessel behaved well. After taking in coal and provisions she was to sail for Port Said, touching at Malta.

REPORT FROM THE SOUTH ATLANTIC STATION—ORDERS.

WASHINGTON, June 11, 1877.

Commodore Caldwell, commanding the South Atlantic station, under date of Montevideo, April 26, reports to the department that affairs in that locality are quiet. The Richmond, his flagship, was to leave for Rio Janeiro on the 30th of April, for the purpose of taking in provisions, preparatory to a cruise on the northern coast of Brazil. The Frolic was also at Montevideo. All on board both vessels were well.

ORDERS.

Lieutenant Allen G. Paul has been detached from duty connected with the Third Lighthouse district and ordered to the Hartford, at Hampton Roads, Va., in place of Lieutenant W. T. Swinburne, detached from that vessel and granted leave of absence for eight months, with permission to leave the United States. Masters William E. Delahey, William F. Low, Kossuth Niles and Ensign Julius C. Freeman have been ordered to examination for promotion. Master John B. Collins has been ordered to the Canonicus, at New Orleans. Mate Larkin F. Lee has been ordered to the Rio Bravo, at Brownsville, Texas, in place of J. McManus, detached from that vessel and placed on sick leave.

ARMY REDUCTION.

DISMISSAL OF PRIVATE SOLDIERS FOR LACK OF AN APPROPRIATION FOR THEIR PAY.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

NEWPORT, R. I., June 11, 1877.

Owing to the lack of funds twenty soldiers at Fort Adams, in this harbor, have been discharged, in obedience to orders from Washington. The various companies of the First regiment of United States artillery, General Vodges commanding, with his headquarters at Fort Adams, which are stationed in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Maine, have also been compelled to reduce their ranks in the same ratio. Soldiers, however, can remain at their respective posts if they are willing to re-enlist, but they will not receive their pay until the next appropriation for the army is available. But few, however, have accepted these terms, as they will not receive any pay for four months.

MILITARY VISITORS.

COMPANY D, NINTH REGIMENT N. Y. N. G., AT NEW HAVEN.

NEW HAVEN, June 11, 1877.

Arrangements have been completed here for the reception of Company D, Ninth regiment N. Y. N. G., which is expected to arrive to-morrow from New York city. They will be received by the National Blues, Captain H. D. Phillips, of this city. Mayor Shelton will review the visiting company and their friends and a dress parade will take place on the public square. In the evening there will be a banquet in the Union Armory. The officers of the Second regiment will join in the escort. At eleven P. M. the visitors will be escorted to the New York boat, on which they will leave for home.

STEAMBOAT BURNED.

DETROIT, Mich, June 11, 1877.

The steamboat R. N. Rice, of the Detroit and Cleveland line, was partially destroyed by fire last night. The loss is $35,000; insurance $25,000.

HOTEL BURNED.

AUGUSTA, Me., June 11, 1877.

The Mansion House was entirely destroyed by fire last night, together with the stables, in which six horses perished. The loss is $30,000; insurance $15,000.

A FEARFUL DISASTER.

Terrible Earthquake and Tidal Wave in South America.

THE SOUTHERN COAST DESTROYED

Twenty Millions of Dollars and Six Hundred Lives Lost.

Iquique, Arica, Cobija, Chanaveya and Other Towns Destroyed,

IMMENSE DESTRUCTION OF SHIPPING.

LIMA, May 20, 1877.

Unfortunate Peru! The terrible scenes of the earthquake and tidal wave of 1868 have been repeated with infinitely more damage to property, although with less loss of life. Owing to the distracted condition of the country the consequences will also prove to be more considerable. The revolutionary movement becomes secondary in importance to this great assault of the elements, and it appears as if Providence has signalled out Peru as a special object of wrath.

As was communicated to the HERALD, the upheaval of the sea in Callao on the night of the 9th inst. gave rise to serious fears that the effects might have been fatal along the southern coast, from whence these mysterious manifestations generally proceed, and, unfortunately, the conjecture has proved to be correct. Iquique, Arica, Molle, the guano deposits at Pabellon de Pica, Punta de Lobos and Guanillos, the Bolivian towns of Antofagasta, Tocopilla, Cobija and Mexillones were laid in ruins at half-past eight o'clock on the night of the 9th by a fearful shock of earthquake, which lasted in some places for nearly five minutes, and was immediately followed by an invasion of the ocean, by which the débris left of the earthquake was carried out to sea. Twenty millions of hard dollars will not cover the actual loss. At the guano deposits eleven large vessels were totally lost, with many persons on board, and the remainder of the loading fleet so badly damaged by collisions, &c., as to render it necessary to bring them to Callao for repairs. Even now some of the vessels which escaped are arriving, leaking, dismasted and forlorn. On shore the loss of life is estimated at from 500 to 600.

THE CAUSE AND COURSE OF THE EARTHQUAKE.

The earthquake was probably caused by an eruption of the volcano Ilaga, situated on the southern frontier of Peru and Bolivia, and its effects were principally felt between latitude 16 deg. and 24 deg. south. That is as far as we know at present. Leaving Callao, where the damage, as reported in my last despatch, was very considerable, Pisco is the first port of importance to the south, and here the sea contented itself with the destruction of a few huts along the beach. At Mollendo the railway was carried away for about 300 feet; since repaired. A curious phenomenon was noticed on the 14th in the sudden appearance of a violent hurricane from the south, preventing vessels from communicating with the shore and unroofing nearly all the houses of the little town. At Ilo the railway was also damaged, but not to a nygreat extent. Arica, the unfortunate, again is in mourning. While the townspeople were busily preparing some hasty defences against the threatened attack of the rebel ram Huascar, and throwing up sand bag batteries on the beach, the earthquake roared upon them—positively roared, for the noise was terrific. Shock succeeded shock; every two or three minutes the movement was repeated, and with such violence that it was impossible to stand upright without support. A quarter of an hour passed; the Custom House in great part, the railway station, the submarine cable office, the hotel, the British consulate, steamship agency and many private buildings were levelled to the ground. Owing to the early hour of the evening and the excitement attendant on the proposed attack of the Huascar, every one was out and stirring, and no lives were lost.

A FEARFUL TIDAL WAVE.

But as the shocks appeared to decrease in intensity and force the sea suddenly receded, and then in a massive wall of water from ten to twelve feet high precipitated itself on the shore like a raging monster destroying what little remained intact up through the town for the distance of four squares. The people had time to flee to the Morro, an enormous bluff overlooking the city, and there remained in fear and anguish until daylight. Eight separate and distinct times the wave receded and advanced. Its progress was only stopped at the foot of the hill on which the little church stands, which point is further inland than that reached in August, 1868. Four miles of the embankment of the railway melted away like sand before the attack of the water; locomotives, cars and rails were buried about by the sea as so many playthings and left in a heterogeneous mass of rubbish. The only casualty reported is the loss of three little children, who were in the trenches then being opened and in the hurry of escape left to the mercy of the waves. The United States steamer Wateree, stranded by the bore of 1868, was lifted up bodily and floated two miles north of her old position. The cable buoy was moved a quarter of a mile northward. Merchandise from the Custom House and stores were carried by the water to a point on the beach five miles distant. The damage done was greater than that of the previous calamity, as the new buildings erected since 1868 were of a more costly and substantial class. The next morning the scene was sorrowful. The shocks still continued; the sea was yet dreadfully agitated; the only two vessels in the bay, anchored far out, escaped injury, but all the launches and boats had been destroyed. Plunder had commenced; the evil disposed improved the occasion to rob the goods scattered along the beach, and the Prefect, to enforce order, was obliged to command his troops to fire upon the thieves. This occasioned a tumult in which several men were killed. From the interior supplies of food and clothing were sent down. Tacna and the other inland towns felt the shock but slightly. Even Arequipa, the chosen victim of earthquakes and cataclysms, was this time left intact. Her own special volcano, the Misti, left the honors of the fray to his distant brother on the frontier.

IQUIQUE IN RUINS.

The movement was experienced here at the same moment and with equal force. Its duration was exactly four minutes and twenty seconds, proceeding from the southeast, directly from the locality of the Ilaga. The houses built of very perishable materials, such as cane, laths, &c., tumbled down at the first onset of the enemy. Lamps were broken, and the paraffine scattered over the débris speedily lit a general conflagration. The firemen—three companies, the Italian, German and Peruvian—were immediately at their posts, although it was still difficult to maintain an upright position, shock following shock with dreadful regularity. In order to procure water the two best fire engines were stationed on the beach, and work began. Just then arose the cry, "The sea! the sea!" and the waves came rushing in in majesty. The engines were carried out with the reflux and the fire continued unopposed—three elements of destruction busy at one moment—fire, water and the earthquake. The affrighted people gave up all attempt at resistance, and left the city to its fate, flying to the neighboring eminences. The fire destroyed a large portion of the town; the earthquake levelled nearly all the rest and the water covered the ruins which it took out in its reflux. The buildings, which occupied four entire squares, were swamped and taken back by the waves. All the wharves are destroyed; the Custom House is gone; the nitrate stores have disappeared; the water condensers along the shore ruined, a most irreparable loss for Iquique, as no potable water is found there. Nearly four hundred thousand quintals of nitrate then in the stores at Iquique and the adjacent ports of Molle and Pisagua were destroyed. Fortunately small loss of life is reported—probably ten in all. The Grimaneza, a water boat, is stranded on the island in the harbor; a British bark, the Caprera, and a German bark, the Zoermis Voss, sank. Among the buildings destroyed are the railway station, the warehouses of the Tarapaca Company, the offices of the Associated Bank and of the National Bank, the business houses of Anthony, Tate, & Co., Gildemeister & Co., Richini & Co. and Ornoli's; the cavalry barracks, where a large number of mules and horses were drowned. The fire stations were lost, as well as the engines. All the coasting craft and small boats in the harbor were broken to pieces, drifting about in every direction. On board occurred the loss of life alluded to. The Prefect immediately began the work of reorganization. As in Arica, robbery of the goods lying in the streets was commenced, but an urban guard was formed of the citizens and such severe measures resorted to that the attempts were speedily checked. It was now discovered that the cable was injured, and the despatches sent to Lima and Arica for help and water principally were detained. The break in the cable is located between Iquique and Arica, and doubtless was caused by the movement. Away up on the pampas, eleven miles from Iquique, the splendid nitrate establishment, La Nueva Carolina, was completely destroyed. The town of Tarapaca, twenty-three leagues inland, and the villages of Pica, Matilla and Canchones were more or less ruined. The loss of life is reported as not being great.

HOMELESS PEOPLE.

The sufferings of the people in Iquique were great. The absence of water and the destruction of the principal stores contributed to the hardships of the situation. Tents were improvised along the side of the hills near the town, and the neighborhood soon resembled a vast encampment. It is estimated that the damage done in Iquique will amount to nearly four millions of soles.

At Molle, near Iquique, the deposits of nitrate belonging to Messrs. Gildemeister, and Ugarte, Zevalles & Co., will prove a total loss. Chanavaya, the little town at the guano loading deposit, known as Pabellon de Pica, with 400 houses, has to-day only two standing. Here, as at Iquique, the earthquake was followed by fire. As fortune would have it there were no fire engines in the town, and so the sea kindly took pity on the inhabitants, came in and extinguished the conflagration, but as it retired took off all that remained of the place. A little chapel was seen floating off on the waves, and afterward was found, broken into pieces, far to the southward. In one of the guano cuttings thirty laborers were buried by the falling earth and suffocated. Among the shipping the havoc was horrible. One captain states that the stern of his vessel was lifted from the water by the upheaval at an angle of 45 degrees, and he, for the instant, imagined that she was going down bow on.

The subjoined list, provided by Messrs. Grace Brothers, of Callao, gives the particulars of the effect on the vessels loading at Pabellon de Pica:—

THE SHOCK ELSEWHERE.

The shock of earthquake was especially severe in Chanavaya; in some places the earth opened in crevices of fifteen metres in depth and the whole surface of the ground was changed. At least two hundred people were killed; bodies were floating around in the bay, and a pestilence seemed inevitable. A small steamer, the Ballestas, was instantly despatched to Iquique for assistance, but the condition of that place was such that much attention could not be given to the demands of the afflicted. Still, a quantity of water, the principal necessity, and some provisions were embarked, with which the sufferers may be sustained for a little time. Few, however, remained, the great majority taking the road for Iquique, eighteen leagues distant, hoping there to find relief and shelter. Poor Iquique has enough to occupy her attention in providing for her own wants. At Guanillos, another guano loading station, the damage inflicted was fearful. All the guano cuts have fallen in, and here, as at Pabellon, all loading must be suspended for at least two months. It is rumored that the government proposes sending ships to load at Lobos de Apuera in the north, but the class of fertilizer to be obtained in that locality is so poor as hardly to warrant its extraction. At Guanillos the wave which succeeded the earthquake and completed the work of destruction was nearly sixty feet in height.

SHIPPING LOST AT GUANILLOS.

The following is the report of the shipping disasters at Huanillos:—

The North American ship Geneva, Captain McLoon, has been totally lost. She sunk in fifteen fathoms of water. Crew saved. The Geneva was loaded with guano and was ready for sea. She was to have sailed the following morning, the 10th inst.

The English ship Avonmoor, Captain Corfield—total loss. The captain's wife, three children, nurse and steward were drowned. Captain Corfield was saved though one of his children was killed in his arms. Captain Trick, of the bark Arctic, was on board the Avonmoor at the time, and was unfortunately drowned. The crew were saved on spars and planks.

The English ship Conway Castle, Captain Pike, was driven on shore and filled. She was thrown back from the shore by the receding wave and sunk in deep water. Crew and effects saved.

English ship Conference, Captain Williams, was totally lost. It is said that she was thrown on shore, and soon after was crushed under a mass of rock that fell. Crew saved in their boats.

The hulk Gabriel Castro, owned by Mr. Garvin, sunk with all on board, but the number is unknown. Unfortunately Mrs. Garvin is among the victims.

Norwegian bark Atlantic, slightly damaged.
English ship William Leivett, badly damaged.
English bark Arctic not damaged.
English bark Conqueror, badly damaged.
English bark Samuel, badly damaged.
English bark Eliza Campbell, badly damaged.
English ship Duke of Rothsay, damaged.
Norwegian ship Cleveland, slightly damaged.
Norwegian bark Ugglan, damaged.
American ship Resolute, slightly damaged.
English ship Governor Tilley, damaged.
Norwegian bark Goutold, slightly damaged.
English ship Sir John Lawrence, damaged.
English ship King Colric, slightly damaged.
German bark Lannarshagn, slightly damaged.
American ship C. F. Sergeant, slightly damaged.
Norwegian bark Eliza and Mathilde, slightly damaged.
German ship Herschel, badly damaged.
American ship Theobaldo, slightly damaged.
American ship Jeremiah Thompson, badly damaged; arrived in Callao on the 16th.
Italian bark Gallino Bonsignor, very badly damaged.
Italian bark Guisepe, slightly damaged.
English bark Canute did not sustain any damage.

On shore the Governor's building, water condensers, tanks, the wharf—in short everything, excepting a few huts at the back of the town, has been destroyed.

Punta de Lobos.—Two vessels went down, the Havre and Shamrock; fourteen injured.

MORE DESTRUCTION.

Antofogasta, Mejillones, Tocopilla and Cobija, towns on the coast of Bolivia, met with the same misfortunes of earthquake and tidal wave at the same time, and are in an identical condition with Iquique and Arica. At Antofogasta the atmosphere was illuminated by a red glare which was supposed to proceed from the volcano of San Pedro de Atacama, a few leagues in the interior. The sea completely swept the business portion of the town during four hours. The vessels in the harbor stood out to sea, and the steamer Amazonas, about to commence discharging when the movement took place, had a narrow escape from destruction. Several lives were lost.

Mejillones was visited by a tidal wave sixty-five feet in height, two-thirds of the town completely obliterated. Guano shoots, wharves, launches, boats, water distilleries, railway station, locomotives, cars and furniture all swallowed up by the insatiable enemy, the sea. What a fearful alliance—the ocean and the earth! Six people were drowned in Mejillones. At Tocopilla little or nothing remains of the town. A mine called La Peña Blanca, four miles to the southward, sank in, smothering two hundred workmen, of whom forty were Cornish miners. Cobija, the principal town on the Bolivian coast, has lost three-fourths of its houses. The wave, thirty-five feet high, swept along the main business street and left it as level as the desert. Wharves and launches no longer exist. The church spire was knocked over, and here the sea invaded blessed ground; the cemetery was entered, and almost as a body snatcher the water broke open the graves and washed out the corpses. All of these towns are in the greatest distress; water is wanted. Peru must attend to her own necessities. Bolivia can hardly send help to her suffering coast, so difficult is it of approach from the interior over the vast despoblado, and we are in hopes that Chili may have stretched a helping hand to the unfortunate. Chili has escaped without injury—more fortunate than she was in 1868. The northern ports of Peru suffered but little, although the sea was running remarkably high. Some sugar stored on the beach at Salaverry was wetted by the wave, but the loss is unimportant.

AT LIMA AND CALLAO.

The effects of the wave at Callao were detailed in my letter of the 12th inst. Here the earthquake, so terribly manifest in the south, was barely felt. On the evening of the 14th inst. Lima and Callao were visited by a very severe shock lasting twenty-two seconds, and causing general alarm but little damage. Fears were entertained that it might have been a second edition of the southern disaster, but telegrams from Mollendo announced that no repetition of the catastrophe had taken place. Nevertheless, so frightened were the good people of Callao that they emigrated almost en masse to Lima and Bellavista, fearful lest their town might be engulfed by the wave that generally follows these convulsions of nature. The captain of the Pacific Steam Navigation Company's steamer John Elder, a vessel measuring nearly four thousand tons, reports that when on the 9th, at half-past eight P. M., being twenty-three miles west of Antofagasta, coming north at full speed, his ship was completely stopped by the shock of the earthquake, and remained almost stationary for five minutes, the passengers believing that she had struck on a reef. Soundings were taken immediately, but no bottom found at twenty fathoms.

MEASURES FOR RELIEF.

As soon as all this lamentable intelligence reached the government the steamer Copiapó, of the South American line, was chartered, and, organizing a relief commission under the presidency of the Minister of Beneficencia, loaded the vessel with provisions, clothes, &c., together with 50,000 gallons of water, and she was despatched on the 16th for the South, where, doubtless, her stores will prove to be most opportune. One hundred thousand soles in silver coin, rather a rare commodity now, in this paper money country, were sent down to be distributed according to the judgment of the Minister—a commission of engineers, accompanying the expedition for the purpose of lending assistance and making a full report upon the extent of the disaster, which at present writing can only be generally estimated. It has been urged upon the government to recommend the rebuilding of the ruined towns on sites which may offer greater security, since this is the second instance of such destruction on the positions actually occupied. Subscriptions are being made in Lima and Callao for the relief of the distressed.

The foregoing is as complete a report of our misfortune as I can forward to the HERALD by this mail. The cable continues unserviceable, and the news from the ruined districts is scanty. For that reason no accurate statement of the loss of life can be now made, but it will probably not exceed six hundred. Property lost may be calculated at twenty millions of hard dollars, and possibly more, as the government is a large sufferer from the guano ships and nitrate. On the coast the damage done is much greater than that caused by the tidal wave of 1868.

REVOLUTION IN SOUTH AMERICA.

THE REBEL RAM HUASCAR—REVOLT, EARTHQUAKES AND TIDAL WAVES PERPLEXING THE PERUVIANS—THE ENGLISH AUTHORITIES AROUSED—THE AMERICAN STEAMER GEORGIA UNDER PROTECTION OF A MAN-OF-WAR.

LIMA, May 20, 1877.

The revolutionary news is not particularly exciting. The naval division, composed of the iron-clad Independencia, the corvette Union, monitor Atahualpa and purchased steamer Limeña, carrying an expeditionary force of 1,500 men, under command of the Minister of War, arrived safely at Mollendo on the 18th, after an immensity of trouble with the monitor, she proving unwieldy and almost unmanageable. The forces were sent up to Arequipa, and the fleet proceeded south in search of the rebel ram Huascar. This vessel, meantime, had visited several of the southern ports, coaling and sending couriers to the inland towns, but the people were so intent upon their own sad condition of affairs that little or no progress was made by the revolutionists. They sailed from Iquique on the 17th, alleging that their destination was Cobija, where they hoped to meet their leader, Don Nicolas de Pierola, who was expected from Chili to take supreme command. Neither Arequipa nor Tacna, both considered as dangerous points, have declared; the prefects report to the government that peace prevails and is likely to continue. It certainly does not seem to be a propitious moment to initiate a revolt on the ruins of half a country. In Lima and Callao people are so occupied in devising means to assist the unfortunate victims of the disaster that Pierola and his cause are almost forgotten. Still no one can prophesy regarding revolutions in Peru. Earthquakes are equally perplexing. The declaration of the government that it would not be responsible for the acts of the Huascar was received rather dubiously by the diplomatic corps resident in Lima, and an evasive reply returned to the effect that their respective governments should be made acquainted with the position assumed by Peru.

BRITISH INTERESTS.

The English merchants in Lima, alarmed at the boarding of two of the mail steamers by the insurgents from the Huascar, who demanded the official correspondence coming up from Chili, and which was decidedly refused, petitioned their Minister to send a man-of-war to the south to look after British interests. This the Minister promised to do.

The Shah is still in Callao Bay and Admiral De Horsey has been exchanging civilities with the President of the Republic.

AMERICAN INTERESTS—THE STEAMER GEORGIA.

At the request of the Chilian Minister, and for the alleged outrages committed in Chilian waters, the American steamer Georgia has been ordered by the government under the guns of the Peruvian frigate Apurimac, where she is likely to remain until some solution of the question be arrived at, despite the protest of the captain, who says that he has committed no crime against Peru. The authorities base their action on the comity due from one nation to another. The American Minister has been appealed to and is endeavoring to mediate. News has just reached us that the Huascar, in Pisagua, took coal forcibly from an English bark, the master making his protest before his consul. This may account for the sudden departure of the Shah from Callao Bay.

THE WRECKED SAN FRANCISCO—THE NICARAGUA CANAL—TROUBLE IN VENEZUELA AND ECUADOR.

PANAMA, June 2, 1877.

Colombian affairs are quiet, except some guerilla fighting along the Magdalena. General Correoso, who was expected in Panama on the 30th of May, is detained on the above account.

The State of Panama is quiet.

Central America is also quiet.

The British gunboat Albatross is at Panama, and the Swatara, United States Navy, at Aspinwall.

The health of the isthmus is excellent.

THE CONDITION OF THE SAN FRANCISCO.

The loss of the City of San Francisco was reported here by Captain Searle, of the Colima, on the 30th ult. The Mexican gunboat Mexico was at the River Dulce receiving cattle, and promptly proceeded to the relief of the City of San Francisco and conveyed the passengers and crew to Acapulco. The rock on which the steamer struck lies in the direct course of the steamers to and from Acapulco, and must have been passed over many times. A fisherman from the River Dulce, and now at Acapulco, states that he is perfectly acquainted with the existence of the rock and has been in the habit of going there to fish, leaving the river at six o'clock A. M. and arriving at the rock about ten o'clock. From the 9th of May and up to the day of the loss of the City of San Francisco the ocean had been in a state of excitement, rising suddenly four and a half feet higher than was known before and falling off about the same; hence it is quite possible that the ship might have been passing at the particular time when the tide was low. Two schooners had gone to the wreck from Acapulco. Only the spars were above water when the Mexico left, and the upper works were breaking up very fast and the freight was floating out of the hold.

THE UNITED STATES AND THE CANAL.

The following is a translation of a letter written by the American Minister to Central America, the Hon. George Williamson, to Señor Max Sonnerstern, Government Engineer of Nicaragua, on the canal question. It will explain itself:—

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, GUATEMALA, April 18, 1877.

MAX SONNERSTERN, Esq., Leon, Nicaragua:—

DEAR FRIEND—I have learned with surprise that the late Minister of Nicaragua in Washington has represented since his return that the Secretary of State was opposed to the interoceanic canal through Nicaragua. Such assertion is entirely contrary to the truth. I know personally that Mr. Fish was ambitious to celebrate with Nicaragua a treaty which would secure the construction of the canal, and that General Grant desired that the contract should be negotiated before the end of his administration.

The draft of the treaty which Mr. Fish submitted to Mr. Cardenas was so excellent in its form and substance and so completely assured the construction of the canal that there could not be the slightest doubt that it would be approved by all the maritime powers. Mr. Cardenas objected to this draft in various ways, and presented another so objectionable and with such "peremptory conditions" that he assumed the responsibility of proposing ulterior conditions, which are impracticable at present. Among these conditions of Mr. Cardenas was one that the United States should guarantee the sovereignty of Nicaragua over all her territory, and that Nicaragua should be permitted to build forts along the line of the canal. The United States would not do that for any nation, and none of the maritime powers would permit Nicaragua to control the canal by forts, however small or insignificant these might be.

I am persuaded that Nicaragua has lost a brilliant opportunity, and that the construction of the canal will be indefinitely deferred. Other routes less practicable may now acquire importance.

You may use this as you may think proper, in order to correct the false impressions which circulate in Nicaragua.

I regret sincerely the unfortunate result of the visit of Mr. Cardenas to Washington. Yours, &c.,
GEORGE WILLIAMSON.

VENEZUELA.

Considerable excitement, and what at one time threatened serious trouble, was occasioned in Caraccas during the last days of General Guzman Blanco's stay in that city. The sessions of Congress were unusually exciting, and several debates were characterized by exhibitions of great asperity of feeling between the adherents of the great political parties. On the 14th inst. a tumult was occasioned by some of the late President's friends in the Chamber of Deputies, and one of the sessions of that body was closed in great disorder. The instigator of the row shouted, "Viva General Guzman!" and afterward paraded the streets, accompanied by armed men, as though to intimidate the adherents of Alcantara. The troops of the State of Bolivia were marched into the town, a proceeding which was deemed entirely unnecessary, and is considered as an outrage on federal authority. Blanco was to have sailed for Europe by the steamer on the 17th, and with his departure it was hoped that public feeling would be calmer and peace and good order more assured. The government of Guzman Blanco resign power very unwillingly, although the late elections should have been sufficient proof of their unpopularity. Blanco acknowledged himself that his government was a dictatorship, and the election of Alcantara was a protest against that form of government and an evidence of the universal wish of the people for constitutional rule.

ECUADOR.

From Ecuador the news is bad. Priests are trying to raise a revolution, but it was discovered in time to prevent an outbreak on the 15th of May.

THE LAFAYETTE TRAGEDY.

Dr. Converse, County Physician of Hudson county, made a post-mortem examination yesterday on the body of Frederick Bauers who died on Sunday night at the Jersey City Charity Hospital from the effects of a pistol shot wound at the hands of Constable Koeble. It was found that death resulted from peritonitis, the bullet having entered the right side of the abdomen and penetrated the intestines about four inches above the groin, and three inches from the median line. Constable Koeble remains in the witness room in the First precinct station, and, while deploring the loss of life, expresses his readiness to meet a jury of his peers.

A ROTTEN TELEGRAPH POLE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

The telegraph pole in front of No. 223 East Fifty-seventh street is liable to fall at the first storm. Please call the attention of the proper authorities to it.

THIRTY-FOURTH STREET ROWDIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

The lots unoccupied corner of Thirty-fourth street and First avenue are occupied every Sunday for boxing matches and similar amusements by the rowdies of the district. The police have been notified, but have done nothing in the matter.

CROQUET AT CENTRAL PARK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

Why are gentlemen not allowed to play on the Central Park croquet ground? There is no such ridiculous regulation at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, and the amusement is extremely popular there. Why, then, can we not do likewise or have a special plot reserved for ladies?
IRREPRESSIBLE.

BEES ON BROADWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

Please call attention to the greatest nuisance in this city at the present time. It is impossible to go through certain parts of Nassau street and Broadway without being stung by the bees which are placed in front of the places which sell a drink called mead. It is no doubt very instructive to boys to see how honey is made, but it is very annoying to the pedestrian. I have been stung and know of several others.

WHO IS MARRIED?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

Notwithstanding the recent ventilation of the correct form of "Marriage Announcements" in your paper, the subject of complaint continues to be more unsatisfactory than ever, as three different forms are now used:—(1) The man to the woman; (2) the man and the woman, and (3) the woman to the man. According to the Episcopal Prayer Book the latter form only is correct; there you will find that the minister asks, "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" The ceremony proceeds and he pronounces them to be
MAN AND WIFE.

HOW IS THIS?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

A party calling himself Roe called at my place, inspected my scales and said that they must be sealed. I had them sealed and paid fifty cents a few days ago, after which a Mr. T. S. Kent called on me. He looked at my scales about one minute, for which he charged eighty-five cents, which I also paid. He refused to show any authority. Both Roe and Kent have their office at No. 178 Third avenue. Have they the right to call on business men and collect money whenever they feel like it, or is there a law to the effect?
S. OESTREICHER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

On January 24 one McCormick, purporting to be an inspector of weights and measures, called at my store and, having inspected my weights, &c., collected seventy cents and departed. A few days ago Mr. Kent called on me on a similar errand. In your complaint column of to-day I notice a similar case. Will some one inform us whom we should pay, or must we pay whenever the inspecter pleases?
ANOTHER SUFFERER.

A SIXTH STREET GROWL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

I would like to call the attention of the Health Board or the Street Commissioners to a stagnant pool of water in front of No. 204 Sixth street. A hole in the street causes the water from the Bowery Hotel to settle and stagnate in the centre of the street. If the Board of Health fails to do its duty I think that the attention of some oil prospecters might be called to it, for I have seen in the oil regions of Pennsylvania similar ponds from which much profit has been derived in the way of petroleum. We have during the winter had a child nearly dead with diphtheria from this same cause.

TRUCKS ON NINETEENTH STREET.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

Cannot the balance of the twenty-two trucks that still encumber Nineteenth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, be removed? Owing, no doubt, to my complaint that appeared a short time since five trucks were removed. I also desire to call attention to the gang who infest Nineteenth street, and practise the game of baseball daily to the annoyance and danger of residents as well as pedestrians. And can you inform me why it is that a "gang" of about twenty are allowed to "hang out" in front of a feed store and make Rome howl with their yells and drunken brawls, and when sober to annoy pedestrians at their pleasure?
SPECTRE.

THE COAL QUESTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

We have a law regulating weights and measures. Why can we not have one regulating the size of coal carts? Such a law would be of incalculable benefit to the public and to all honest coal dealers. As it is now the people are at the mercy of the dishonest coal men, and the honest retail dealers are being driven out of the business by the frauds, who sell at low prices and deliver from 1,400 to 1,800 pounds, instead of 2,000 pounds. Let us have a law requiring coal carts to be of a given measurement or size and inspectors of coal carts, whose duty it shall be to inspect and conspicuously stamp all carts which are of honest measure. Let the inspectors be empowered to measure carts and weigh coal at any time, and to confiscate those belonging to dishonest parties.
A COAL DEALER.

THE IDENTIFICATION OF PRISONERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

A word as to the identification of prisoners at the Tombs:—A well dressed man whom I never saw before comes to my place of business and succeeds in passing a counterfeit check. In the course of two or three months an arrest is made for the same offence, the prisoner is locked up and in a few days I am requested to go to the Tombs to see if I can identify my man. I leave my business and go, hoping, if the man who swindled me is brought before me, to be able to identify him; but, instead of the prisoners being brought out as they would appear in a place of business, they are brought out with nothing on but shirts and pants. It would be a hard matter to identify a man under the circumstances I have related were he dressed, and I shall waste no more of my time in visiting the Tombs for a like purpose so long as the present rules are in force. It is imposing on the merchants and screening the thieves and murderers. Furnish them with burned cork or masks and identification will go on just as rapidly.
A VICTIM.

ANSWER.

THE WORKING BOYS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

In your issue of yesterday a complaint is published by Master Fred Scholtz on behalf of the working boys of New York, asking you "Why they are not allowed to play baseball on Sundays in a large field where no harm can be done." This inquiry shows a great deal of ignorance on the part of the letter writer (even if he is a boy yet) as he ought to know that playing baseball on Sundays is a very great sin, that the public and unrestricted commission of such sins must be shocking to the moral sense of any American community, and that for this reason our wise legislators have passed laws to prevent young boys becoming great sinners by playing baseball on Sundays, and he ought to know, furthermore, that "the best police in the world" will execute these laws sternly and unflinchingly, even if they cannot make more by it than fifty cents, or a hat or a pair of shoes. The fact that beer and liquors are sold freely in the very same localities on Sundays, in open violation of the law, has nothing to do with the working boys' case. The rumseller possesses either political influence or money enough to make "the best police in the world" shut their eyes, and he can do as he pleases. If the working boys could secure either of these they would be allowed to play baseball on Sundays as well as on other days, and the religious people, although shocked by this youthful depravity, would quietly submit to it, as they are wont to submit to open violations of the laws, as well as to almost any outrages committed by our public officers, or so-called servants of the people—because this is a free country. Yours respectfully,
PROFESSOR.

CRYING FOR THEIR WAGES.

Trouble has again broken out among the employés of the New Jersey Central Railroad. The men received no back pay last Saturday and were notified that the payment of back wages would be suspended for three months. The men are accordingly loud in their complaints and a committee has been appointed to wait on Receiver Lathrop in reference to the matter. It will be recollected that, in accordance with the decree of Chancellor Runyon, the employés of the company were to receive their back pay in instalments in addition to their current wages.

OFF THE TRACK.

A freight train bound for Jersey City on the Erie Railway ran off the track yesterday morning, on the west of the Hackensack bridge. Travel was delayed for an hour and a half.

GIRLS IN SILK VS. GIRLS IN MUSLIN

Venus at the Washtub—Juno and Minerva in the Boudoir.

THE GOLDEN APPLE TO THE WORK GIRL

It came to the knowledge of a HERALD reporter yesterday that a company of fashionable young gentlemen, lounging in a certain well known club in Fifth avenue, fell into a very interesting discussion in regard to the relative beauty of the young women of New York, and as also the additional intelligence was vouchsafed that a heavy wager had been made between two members of the club, and that a committee of five had decided the question, the reporter went to one of the parties and asked for information in regard to the matter, in order that such an interesting arbitration should not be confined to the club, but be given to the public through these columns. One of the parties to the argument said:—

"The wager was made—the sum staked was $500—and a committee of five was appointed to decide the matter whose report should be final. Mr. ——, a commission merchant, ventured the assertion that, in the patrician neighborhoods of Fifth avenue, Madison square and the aristocratic streets intersecting them, were to be found the highest types of physical female beauty. This was disputed with much force by a friend of his, who claimed that the beautiful shop girls of the city were flowers of grace and possessed splendid forms and winsome faces. The discussion became so animated that a large group gathered in the drawing room, and at length a bet was made by the parties."

THE WAGER.

As the first party claimed that among the fashionable and high-bred ladies of the aristocracy the most perfect physical beauty was to be found, and the second that this condition—barring intellectual superiority—was to be encountered among the middle and lower classes, the bet above named was made and the money put up, with the proviso that the lucky man was to pay out of the sum a champagne dinner at the club, the participants to be named by the loser. A committee of five gentlemen was named, and it was understood they were to be guided in their arduous labors only by physical beauty, perfection of form, high health, and those nameless graces that go to make up the complete charm of womanhood. The manner of their going to work should be left entirely to themselves, the only stipulation being that a report should be made of their decision within one week after the formation of their committee.

SEARCHING FOR BEAUTY.

A HERALD reporter, before receiving any information from the committee, had to promise that the names of the gentlemen should not be given to the public. This request was obviously proper, it being apparent that any man of society in New York who should vote that female perfection existed out of la crème de la crème could never enter its gilded and sacred portals again. The search for beauty was commenced in a very rational manner, i. e.:—A certain number of the committee—three—took a carriage the day after the wager and made a round of calls on all their lady acquaintances in Madison square, Fifth avenue, and on as many of their fair friends in the aristocratic portion of Second avenue as was possible between eleven o'clock and their dinner hour. The result was, they enjoyed

A perfect feast of nectar'd sweets
Where no crude surfeit reigned.

FASHIONABLE BLONDES AND BRUNETTES.

There were blondes of the purest type, with great coils of golden hair that sat upon their shapely heads like sheeny crowns; they were dressed in the daintiest of spring and summer home-toilets of sea green and softest azure colors, golden bangles jingled around their white wrists and turquoise ornaments depended from their swan-like throats; they chatted of the Park and the races, of the gentlemen they knew and the dinners they had eaten the last season; of where they were going this summer and how many conquests they expected to make, and all this with such a merry humor that it was impossible to quarrel with the butterflies who threw the golden dust of their wings in their eyes. Then the beauty searchers found the brunettes, stately, magnificent, overpowering; enwrapped in their superb dark splendor, but casting the witcheries of their arts about the visitors and entrancing them by their mysterious beauty. These ladies, when not arrayed in dark, gauzy fabrics with scarlet silken sashes for a dash of color, were dressed in soft cashmeres of white or cream shades that were in artistic contrast with their black hair and flashing eyes.

It seemed, indeed, after the round of visits on the first day, that the committee could do no less than to give the palm of beauty to the graceful creatures the writer's pen has so imperfectly described; but branch No. 2 of the committee had yet to be heard from, and these two gentlemen had agreed to visit the bank note companies, the manufacturers of hoop skirts, light goods, and other large shops in which girls are employed.

THE WORKING GIRLS.

When they met in secret session the minority committee reported as follows to their fellow members:—"We have visited, by permission, the departments of two bank note companies in which women are employed, three hoop skirt factories and four large retail stores, and have examined with critical eyes the scores of beauties there challenging our respect as well as admiration. We think it well, however, to make no detailed comparison or report until a committee of the whole shall visit the hotels, laundries and other places suggested, in order that an intelligent estimate can be made of the relative styles of beauty."

QUEENS OF THE WASHTUB.

Among the hotel working girls and various public laundries in the city the whole committee on the third day made an interesting tour. Great was their surprise to find that the beauty congregated below stairs in our great hotels was almost beyond computation. All nationalities were represented—Irish, Germans, Swedes, Norwegians, Spanish, Mexican and Americans—of forms tall, short, broad and slight, with complexions "like rose leaves crushed on ivory," or tawny skinned, with just a tinge of the sunlight of Spain breaking through the dusk bloom of their cheeks; but nearly all with forms a sculptor would delight to seize upon as models. It is true their coiffures were not as elaborate as those of their Fifth avenue rivals, nor were they robed in silks and cashmeres; white throats were not enclosed with golden bands encrusted with rubies and diamonds, but their teeth were pearls, their lips bows of beauty, their skins untainted with powder or unstained with rouge; Nature herself had with a fastidious hand shaded their eyebrows, beneath which glowed blue eyes, black eyes, gray eyes, honest, frank, intelligent and loving. Labor, the divine mistress, had, as compensation for their hard daily toil, fashioned their forms in Cleopatra models, and each motion was like harmonious music. Their laughter was blithe and merry, and as they humbly toiled they warbled out sweet snatches of native songs.

The visit to several leading hotels and laundries was a revelation to the committee, and, at the end of the allotted week, the gentlemen were ready to make their report to the club and decide who had won the bet.

THE GOLDEN APPLE BESTOWED.

The report went on to say that the money should be awarded to the champion of the working girls. The decision was that, "although in grace, accomplishments and doubtless in most of the mental qualities that go to complete the charms of the sex the high born and well-bred ladies of wealth and fashion were superior to their humbler sisters who work in obscure places, still it was found that a routine of fashionable amusements, heavy dinners and late hours destroyed, in a great measure, the natural beauty of ladies of the higher classes, and that their manner of dressing themselves in absurd pull-back garments, their tight lacing, the quantities of false hair worn, &c. rendered them often ridiculous, ruined their health, and gave the palm of mere physical beauty to the young girls, whose cheeks were bathed in the early dews, the color of which was deepened by the virtuous morning air." In conclusion, the report said:—"The forms of the latter are graceful as the waving palm, and not too closely confined by the corset maii. Health bounds in their veins, and sweet contentment rests like a dove in their innocent hearts, making laughter bubble from their lips like a ripple of music. Therefore the committee decide that to the humble girls of New York the palm of beauty should be yielded."

There was a heavy champagne supper at the club last night.

THOSE DRESSES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

I am only a woman, and, of course, I know very little about newspapers and newspaper writing. But I flatter myself I do know something about ladies' dresses, and it makes me laugh to see what ninnies some of the sharp males who write for the papers make of themselves when they venture to touch such sacred things as female garments. Your two interesting lady correspondents in last Thursday's HERALD told us what all your readers of one sex, at least, were dying to know—namely, what the wives of our ex-President and our Minister wore at the splendid reception given at the American Embassy in London in Grant's honor. We cared more about that information than about the Turks and Russians, or even about the Mormons, grateful as we feel to the HERALD for its vigorous crusade against that scandalously unfair institution. Well, Miss Kate Field described Mrs. Grant's dress as follows:—

"Mrs. Grant's dress was canary colored, with overdress and high bodice of brown damask silk."

The spicy and sometimes wickedly disposed Olive Logan gave the following description of the same lady's attire:—

"Mrs. Grant wears a toilet of claret colored stamped velvet and cream satin, high necked, and with long sleeves."

The metaphysical Kate said of our Minister's wife:—

"Mrs. Pierrepont looked well robed décolletée in a dress of cherry and black silk, trimmed with embroidery and exquisite white lace."

The Ambassadorial dress is thus briefly described by the dashing Olive:—

"Mrs. Pierrepont is clad in an elaborate costume of scarlet and black."

Now, some Bohemians of the New York press, whose highly respectable good women, like their baked beef, are only served up with extra trimmings on a Sunday, and whose idea of a dress "décolletée" is gathered from Monday's washtub, have been making themselves funny over a supposed discrepancy in these—if I may coin a word—millinerial descriptions. One wiseacre hints that the writers could not have seen the ladies at all, and another squints at the possibility of their having changed their dresses during the evening. The truth is that the descriptions are not at variance, and, indeed, prove their own genuineness. Miss Field describes Mrs. Grant's colors as "brown and canary colored." Miss Logan puts them down as "claret and cream colored." Now, cream color is a shade of canary, and claret color of brown. Miss Field says that the material of Mrs. Grant's overdress was "damask silk," while Miss Logan says it was "stamped velvet." Every booby knows—no, I will not say that, for then these newspaper Bohemians would have been sure to have had the knowledge; but every one who knows anything of these materials knows that each presents a surface of alternate sunken gloss and raised dead color, and might, nine times out of ten in a ballroom, be confounded one with the other. As to Mrs. Pierrepont's costume, "cherry and black," says Kate, and "scarlet and black," says Olive, and I should like to find one woman out of every hundred in New York who could distinguish the difference between the shades of scarlet and cherry, unless the two were in contact. So, Mr. Editor, allow me to say that your correspondents' descriptions are self-evidently genuine, that there is no discrepancy between them, and that the critics who write about them had better follow Dogberry's example and write themselves down what he did. Ever yours,
MARY JANE.

QUAKER CITY GIRLS.

VISIT OF THE PHILADELPHIA NORMAL SCHOOL GRADUATES—A DAY OF HARMLESS DISSIPATION IN THE METROPOLIS.

A little stream of sunlight poured in from the Quaker City yesterday morning in the form of a bevy of merry, laughing girls, who were graduates of the Philadelphia Normal School. They left home at seven o'clock, and a special train on the Bound Brook road brought them into Jersey City at about ten. They were under the charge of their Principal, Professor George W. Fetter; Mr. Gratz, Chairman of the Normal School Board of Control, and quite a number of relatives and friends of the graduates accompanied the excursion, which numbered altogether about 300 persons, including twenty-three professors and teachers. Leaving the railway depot in Jersey City they proceeded immediately on board the steamer Communipaw, which had been engaged for their use, and was gayly decorated with bunting to harmonize with its precious freight. Instead of going direct to Fifty-ninth street the steamer stole a little time to turn the Battery and go up the East River as far as the bridge. And what a bright little sail it was! The girls scrambled over the decks and endeavored to look in all directions at once, in order that no sight worth seeing should be missed. Passengers upon other boats appreciated the royal load on the Communipaw and waved their hats and handkerchiefs lustily—a courtesy that was returned with commendable energy. There were many things in the vicinity of the Battery that delighted the visitors, and when they obtained a view of the great bridge, upon which some of the workmen were then transporting cables, they became seriously interested. Here the Communipaw turned about, and amid a clamor of shrieking salutes from other ferry-boats she retraced her course and passed up the North River once more, to the foot of West Fifty-ninth street.

RECEIVED BY THE NEW YORK SCHOOL.

The graduates and their friends landed here and were met upon the dock by President Wood, of the Board of Education; ex-Chairman Fuller, of the Normal School, and President Hunter, with a delegation of about twenty-five young ladies from the New York Normal College. After an interchange of greetings the visitors were escorted to Sixty-eighth street and thence to the college. On arriving at the latter place they entered the chapel, the main floor of which was occupied by about one thousand four hundred young ladies of the New York College, and the galleries were reserved for the guests and graduates. President Wood, in a few well spoken words, welcomed them to New York and the college, to which Mr. Gratz responded in a hearty manner. President Hunter then introduced Professor Fetter, who amused the fair audience considerably in an apt ten minutes' address.

LUNCH, THE PARK AND BROADWAY.

The juniors retired from the chapel after this, leaving the graduates of the two schools to mingle, kiss and compliment one another. The visitors were then shown through the college buildings, which they confessed to be superior to their own in Philadelphia. The next step was a collation spread in the chapel, after partaking of which the Philadelphia graduates bade their new acquaintances a fond adieu, and proceeded, amid considerable cheering, toward the Park. They were conducted past all the special objects of interest, and expressed unlimited admiration for some of the shrubbery and walks and statuary. Leaving the Park they walked down Fifth avenue to Thirty-fourth street, and from there rode in stages to Union square. Then they traversed Broadway for some little distance, visiting Stewart's retail store and other places. They appeared to tire of nothing, and, until they left for Philadelphia upon the fifteen minutes to seven train, never diminished their agreeable curiosity. It seemed for them a day of continual pleasure, and certainly no one who saw them but would be glad to repeat the welcome.

MERRITT'S MILLION.

ALLEGED DEFECTIVE SURETIES ON THE ADMINISTRATOR'S BONDS—THE PACIFIC BANK RELEASED FROM ITS RESPONSIBILITY.

Another hearing in the matter of the estate of John A. Merritt, the millionnaire cattle drover, who died intestate at Rye, Westchester county, last year, came up in the Surrogate Court at White Plains yesterday. In accordance with a citation issued by Surrogate Coffin on a petition of the claimant, William Wilson, alias Merritt, the administrators appeared in person and by counsel to show cause why their bonds should not be increased from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000. This application was made on the ground that the personal estate of the deceased, as shown by the inventory, amounts to over a million dollars, and the statute provides that bonds in double the amount must be furnished by the administrators. The application of the claimant also objected to the alleged illegal action of the Pacific Bank directors in becoming security for the President of that corporation, Jacob Campbell, one of the administrators of the Merritt estate, and also asked that other sureties be appointed in place of those whose justifying as such was predicated upon what they expect to receive out of the estate as cousins and heirs-at-law. S. H. Thayer, for the administrators, objected to the petition and submitted that it should be summarily dismissed, arguing that the party presenting it and calling himself the son of John A. Merritt had no standing in court and that no reasonable objection could be made to the bonds of the administration. Counsel added that the deceased's habits and mode of living were known of all men in the vicinity where he resided and that it was absurd for any person to assert that he ever had a wife or a child. The counsel said that the petitioner should bring witnesses to prove his preposterous claim before being allowed any standing in court.

INFORMATION AND BELIEF.

Ex-Judge Tappan replied, setting forth that the petitioner came there to assert his claim as a son and next of kin to the deceased, and that even the numerous cousins who are asserting their claims as being next of kin can only say so on information and belief. William Merritt sets forth that he is informed and believes that he is the son of the deceased and as such he has a right to ask that the bond of the administrators be increased. In regard to the bond of Jacob Campbell, he said that the directors signed it, while the law does not allow any corporation to sign a bond, and as a consequence the Pacific Bank was not responsible for a dollar of it. His client claimed to have an interest in the estate, and when the proper time comes will prove it, and then the cousins will have no valid claims and no standing in court. They were prepared to offer abundant proof that the person known as Eliza Wilson, the mother of the claimant, was the lawful wife of John A. Merritt, adding that on the morning immediately succeeding the death of Merritt she was called upon by a person who was present at court, and advised to "keep still," and that shortly after the funeral the claimant was also sought out by another party and requested to "keep quiet," that everything would be arranged satisfactorily.

Benjamin M. Stillwell, associate counsel for the petitioner, also argued in favor of increasing the bond, asserting that Jacob Campbell, one of the administrators, owes the estate $18,000, while Jared V. Peck, the other administrator, is also indebted to the estate of Merritt in the sum of $30,000. Counsel said that the Pacific Bank, with a capital of $400,000, signs a bond of $1,500,000 for its President, while in regard to Jared V. Peck, who justified in $220,000, he (counsel) was prepared to prove that he (Peck) was not worth ten cents. He also said that two of the women, who claim to be heirs at law, and who in signing as sureties for the administrators justified in the amount of $75,000 each, were common beggars, and have not got two shillings in the world, adding that their brother died in the County Poorhouse.

THE SURROGATE'S DECISION.

The Surrogate decided that the petitioner would have first to establish his interest in the estate before he would have a right to object to the administrators or their bonds. He thought it would be best to postpone the matter until the 22d inst., when the petitioner may offer evidence to support his claim.

The Surrogate subsequently, on the administrators voluntarily filing a new bond, released the Pacific Bank from its obligations as sureties for the administrators.

MURDER EXPIATED.

Execution of George Washington Fletcher for the Murder of James Hanley.

END OF A BAD LIFE.

A Fire Runner and Political Rough Completes His Career on the Gallows.

SURE OF SALVATION.

Last Hours of the Convict and His Final Strangulation.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11, 1877.

Corrupt and degrading political associations such as pervade the larger American cities have their natural result in the career of the wretch who expiated his crimes upon the gallows in this city to-day. He bore the name—Heaven save the mark!—of George Washington Fletcher. Born of a good, respectable family, with a brother an exhorter in the Methodist Church, he has been the black sheep of the flock. Obstinately repelling all good influences, he has deliberately followed a life of crime from boyhood up, and nothing so well shows the depths to which local politics in this city have sunk as the fact that this man was able defiantly to pursue the life he did merely because he had political friends whose dirty work he did. Secured immunity from punishment by the small fry ward politicians to whom his aid was valuable, this man was nurtured in the belief that for him the law could have no terrors that "influence" could not remove. The leader of a gang whose services as repeaters at the polls in the interest of a corrupt ring of so-called republicans, Fletcher found that he could defy the law and its officers. His history is a catalogue of offences against the law, but its sudden ending in the midst of his career, in the very prime of life, proves that justice does not always sleep in Philadelphia, even when a politician is the transgressor.

FLETCHER'S CAREER.

Fletcher was born in a portion of the city called Southwark in 1845. He was only eleven years of age when his innate cruelty of disposition showed itself in cutting off pigs' tails at a pork packer's yards. He was committed to the House of Refuge for this offence, was soon released and was a couple of years later engaged in a row with a colored boy named Robert Clayton, now living in Atherton street, near Fletcher's old home, and gave him a serious stab in the side with a knife. About this time the rebellion broke out, and Fletcher followed the First Pennsylvania Reserves to the Army of the Potomac, deserted and afterward became what was known as a "bounty jumper." At the close of the war he shipped in the navy, and was drawn to fill the Swatara's quota, one of the vessels which accompanied Admiral Farragut's fleet to Europe. On their homeward cruise he deserted from the Swatara at Antwerp. He swam ashore. He then made his way to Liverpool, from which place he worked his passage to Philadelphia on a merchant ship.

Fletcher and James Hanley had both been runners with the Marion Hose, of the old volunteer fire department, and on the formation of the paid department both secured positions. The two had been companions in boyhood, but had grown up very different in character, Fletcher having become a young "rough" and political "striker," and Hanley a quiet, inoffensive, sober and industrious young man. Fletcher and his chosen companions planned a series of robberies, but obtained amateur "kids" to perform the dangerous work, while they obtained the "swag" and divided the profits among themselves.

Fletcher's later career as a fireman was marked with acts of violence, one of which was the shooting of a companion named Stark, which occurred some time previous to the murder of Hanley. This case was settled, like many others in which he was involved, and never reached the courts.

OUT OF EMPLOYMENT.

Fletcher and his early companion Hanley appeared to continue on friendly terms until the spring of 1874, when Fletcher was arrested, charged with having committed an outrage on a girl about fourteen years of age, named Mary Elizabeth McHugh. On the 27th of April, 1874, the Grand Jury found a true bill against him on this charge, and he was tried three days after and acquitted, but the accusation cost him his position in the Fire Department. After losing his situation Fletcher was for a long time out of work. He complained greatly of his troubles and placed the entire blame on Hanley. He frequently made threats that he would kill him, and his desire for revenge increased as his repeated efforts to have himself reinstated in the Fire Department were unsuccessful.

On election day, November 2, 1875, the day before Hanley was murdered, Fletcher attempted to vote illegally at a poll in the First ward. Frank Wilcox, residing in Redwood street, interposed objections, whereupon the fireman rough levelled his pistol and fired directly at him, but the motion of a friendly hand caused the barrel to point downward, and the ball lodged in Wilcox's foot. That same day, with pistol in hand, Fletcher was scouring the vicinity of the "Neck" with the intention of killing one Antonio Hale.

HIS LAST CRIME.

Shortly before eight o'clock on the evening of the 3d Fletcher visited the engine house to which Hanley was attached. At the door he met one of the members named Pinker, of whom he inquired, "Is Jimmy Hanley up stairs?"

Pinker replied that he was.

"Then," returned Fletcher, "tell him to come down; I want to see him."

Pinker replied, "No, I won't, George, because if he comes down here there will be trouble between you and him."

Fletcher replied quickly, "Oh, no there wont; I saw him up town to-day and we made up."

"All right, then," said Pinker, "I will call him," and he then called up stairs. Hanley was reading a book, but laid it down and came down stairs immediately. The words, "How are you to-night?" passed between him and Fletcher, and they went toward the outside together in a friendly way.

Hanley leaned against the jamb of the door, and as a drizzling rain was falling Pinker asked him if he had not better put a coat on. Hanley said yes, and asked Pinker to get him one. The latter took a coat from the truck and advanced with it to Hanley, telling him where to place it again when he was done with it. Hanley had just raised his arms to pull the coat on when Fletcher drew a small pistol and fired. The ball entered Hanley's left breast, cut through the lung and passed into the heart, and, reeling back into the engine house, the wounded man exclaimed that Fletcher had shot him, and fell. Pinker and some of the other firemen lifted him and carried him up stairs to a lounge, on which he expired in about five minutes.

Fletcher was at once arrested. His trial took place a few weeks later, and, a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree having been agreed upon by the jury and a new trial refused, Fletcher on the 12th of February was sentenced "to be hanged by the neck until dead." The Governor fixed just one year ago for the execution, but through the legal delays and arguments in the Supreme Court the execution was postponed.

Since Fletcher's conviction the most strenuous efforts have been made to secure his pardon, mainly by politicians, in whose behalf he has often rendered important services at the polls. James H. Heverin, the prisoner's counsel, has also labored most faithfully in behalf of his client, not ceasing his endeavors to procure a pardon or a reprieve until within twenty-four hours of his death.

HIS LAST HOURS ON EARTH.

Recently the conduct of the condemned man has undergone a change under the ministrations of the Rev. I. J. Camp, the Methodist preacher, who has been in faithful attendance upon him. Fletcher leaves a wife and three children, aged respectively five, three and about two years, all of whom have been frequent visitors to him and have had a softening effect upon him. He has gradually come to be repentant for his crimes and to take comfort in the consolations of religion. Yesterday he was visited for the last time by his family, his counsel Mr. Heverin, Rev. Dr. Westwood, George H. Stuart and others. His last farewells are said to have been very touching.

Fletcher went to sleep about ten o'clock last night and slept soundly for five hours. His spiritual advisers were with him until he retired, and he prayed fervently with them. When he awoke this morning, at half-past three o'clock, he lit a cigar and sat on a stool in a thoughtful mood. He talked to Keeper Everly of his death, and said he was prepared to die. "In three or four hours," said he, "I shall be in heaven." Early this morning he was visited by Rev. Messrs. Camp and Pearce, and sang with them in a clear, loud voice, the "Crucified One," one of Moody and Sankey's hymns, commencing, "It is the promise of God full salvation to give," which seemed, of all sacred pieces, his favorite one. His voice rang out clear in the corridor, and the prisoners near him must have distinctly heard it, for his door was partly open. His brother-in-law, Mr. Sobey, paid his farewell this morning.

THE EXECUTION.

The Sheriff and his party arrived at the prison at eighteen minutes before ten o'clock, and upon being told that his counsel were among the visitors Fletcher sent for them. An affecting interview was the result, all of the party, including ex-Sheriff Leeds, coming out of the cell with their eyes full of tears. The scaffold was erected in the convict's corridor. At ten minutes past ten Fletcher was brought from his cell, and the dismal procession walked to the gallows. As Fletcher stepped on the fatal trap and faced the spectators below he bore a subdued expression, but displayed no sign of trepidation. A neat black suit gave him a somewhat clerical appearance, which was heightened by his attitude, his hands being peacefully clasped together, while his head slightly inclined as Mr. Camp prayed fervently that as God had permitted His Son to die for sinners and that whomsoever believeth in Him shall have everlasting life, so might His servant, George Fletcher, have his sins pardoned and be admitted to everlasting life.

Then the doomed man, still betraying no sign of wavering, shook hands with the clergymen, the Sheriff and others, and straightened himself up, while the noose was adjusted, his hands manacled behind his back, and the white cap drawn over his face. He was then left alone on the scaffold, and all but one of the supports under the trap door on which he stood removed. Rev. Mr. Camp then lifted his voice in a final prayer, saying, "Now, Lord, we commend the soul of George Fletcher to thine everlasting care. Lord Jesus, receive his spirit, in the name of the Father, Son and ———" He had progressed thus far when he was interrupted by the springing of the trap by the Sheriff, who, by pulling the rope, had pulled away the last upright, and Fletcher's body fell with a jerk.

STRANGLED TO DEATH.

The trap was sprung at eighteen minutes past ten. The neck was not broken, and the poor man died slowly by strangulation. At twenty-five minutes past ten, seven minutes after the fall, the pulse was beating 140 to the minute. It lessened rapidly, but it was not until thirty-five minutes past ten, or seventeen minutes after the fall, that the pulse and the heart ceased their action. The body was then cut down and taken to the deadhouse, where the physicians formally declared death to have resulted from strangulation.

LAROS TO BE HANGED.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 11, 1877.

The Supreme Court to-day affirmed the judgment of the Northampton County Court in the case of Allen C. Laros, who poisoned an entire family near Easton, and the probabilities are that he will be executed on the same day on which the Columbia county Molly Maguires and several other murderers are to expiate their crimes on the gallows. The murders which Laros committed have few parallels in the annals of crime for heartless atrocity. In March, 1876, he placed several ounces of arsenic in a pot of coffee, of which his father, mother, five sisters and brothers, a nephew and a boarder named Moses Schug partook. The father and mother died on the following day and Mr. Schug on the second day after partaking of the poisoned liquid, while all the rest recovered. The party, with the exception of Allen C. Laros, were seized with severe vomiting and purging soon after they had drank the liquid. Suspicion was directed against the son, aged twenty-one, and a subsequent discovery of the disappearance of over three hundred dollars belonging to Laros' father and Mr. Schug increased the belief that he had poisoned the family. The accused was promptly arrested and in the hearing of the officers of the law he stated that the money had been secreted in the yard, where it was subsequently found. While in prison he confessed to the murder, but gave no reasons for its commission. He was convicted and sentence of death imposed, but a writ of error, embracing thirty-three assignments, was taken out last March. The case was argued before the Supreme Court in Philadelphia, and to-day it decided against the murderer. The principal ground on which a reversal of the findings of the inferior court was asked was possibly epileptic insanity. On this point the Court says, "Epilepsy is not commonly followed by insanity until a long time after the first attack, and the proof of the disease furnishes no presumption of insanity."

REFORMED DUTCH SYNOD.

EDUCATIONAL INTERESTS DISCUSSED—THE EX-MODERATOR'S HERETICAL SERMON—MORE CATECHISM.

At the opening of the Synod yesterday Dr. W. B. Taylor, owing to ill health, resigned his position in the Board of Education. His resignation was accepted, and complimentary remarks toward him were made by delegates. A report on the professorate was read, giving an account of the college grounds and buildings at New Brunswick, N. J., and also of Hope College. The committee asked and received discretionary power to deny the privileges of the dormitory of Peter Hertzog Hall to students of the college and normal school who shall be found guilty of disorderly conduct. From the discussion that ensued it appears that there are disorderly students in the college and school. As the theological students are all excellent young men, their morals must be carefully guarded.

HETERODOXY AGAIN.

The Rev. Dr. J. B. Thompson, who preached the opening Synodical sermon, presented some heterodox views on doctrines which some of the brethren were anxious should be printed, not at the expense of the Synod, but with its imprimatur; but others did not want to see such views in print with the indorsement of the Synod. They did not believe the statements nor agree with the arguments of the preacher. At length a motion was carried that this with other sermons on systematic beneficence be requested for preservation in the archives of New Brunswick. This was afterward enlarged to include the sermons of former moderators of Synod.

TOO MUCH CATECHISM FOR DUTCHMEN.

At Dr. Anderson's suggestion, a committee of three was appointed to prepare a simplified form of the Heidelberg Catechism to be used in Sunday schools, though in the discussion some brethren did not see where the Catechism could be introduced in Sunday school sessions now with the international lessons; and others, in view of the fact that they had already three catechisms, believed these were enough. The committee are to make translations from the original Dutch and to confine their answers as nearly as possible to Scripture language.

A report was read by P. S. Danforth, setting forth the financial condition of the several educational institutions of the Church. In the evening Dr. J. Howard Suydam preached a sermon on benevolence before the Synod. Dr. John Hall took a back seat in the Synod in the afternoon, and, though invited forward by the Moderator, refused to stir.

CREEDMOOR.

PRACTICE BY THE THIRD CLASS MARKSMEN OF THE SEVENTH REGIMENT.

The third class marksmen of the Seventh regiment proceeded yesterday to Creedmoor for ball practice, and commenced firing at a quarter after ten o'clock. The field and staff numbered eight officers for duty, and the non-commissioned staff six enlisted men. Company A turned out 56 officers, non-commissioned officers and rank and file; B, 63; C, 50; D, 26; E, 34; F, 30; G, 25; H, 50; I, 42, and K, 42, making a total of 431. Colonel Emmons Clark commanded the whole; Major Holland, Second Brigade Inspector of Rifle Practice, had charge of the firing points, and Captain Robbins, Regimental Instructor of Rifle Practice, instructed the men of the different companies. The ranges fired at were 100 and 150 yards, both standing, for third class practice, and 300 and 400 yards, kneeling at the former and lying at the latter, for the second class. In the third class practice 223 men of all ranks qualified to shoot in the second class, and at this class forty-nine made the necessary percentage to entitle them to go before the first class butts. The following are the aggregates of the men who qualified in the third and second classes:—

General Wylie, Chief of Ordnance, appeared on the field to see that the quality of ammunition served to the men was good. Captain Robbins and the officers and privates who participated in the practice report the cartridges (of which 10,500 were used during the day) as of excellent quality.

The troops returned to the city by a special train at six o'clock.

RAILROAD SPEED.

In connection with the starting of a fast train on the Lake Shore route from Chicago eastward yesterday, to compete with the Michigan Central fast train, a report circulated that the latter road would make a still further reduction in its time between Chicago and New York. In response to an inquiry as to the truth of this report Mr. Samuel Sloan said yesterday that he had instructed Superintendent Ledyard not to make his time any shorter, as quicker travelling might prove dangerous. There will, therefore, be no further reduction at present.

FEMALE PICKPOCKETS.

Margaret Murphy, alias Sarah McEvoy, in company with Mary Hughes, alias Mary Ann Taylor, two notorious pickpockets, were quietly strolling up Broadway when Detectives Ferris and Hickey, of the Central Office, caught sight of them. The officers followed for some distance, when the women parted. This was to allow Mrs. E. Fay, of No. 442 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, to get in between them. The pair kept up with the lady, and Margaret made an attempt to pick her pocket. Detective Ferry caught her hand and Hickey stopped the other pickpocket. They were taken to Police Headquarters, and Superintendent Walling, finding nothing on their persons likely to have been stolen, let them go. Both women are well known criminals. The lady whose pocket Margaret attempted to pick refused to make any complaint against her.

SPROUL'S LUCK.

Officer McLaughlin, of the Second precinct, Brooklyn, saw a mad dog running through Sands street last night and shot at him. The bullet killed the animal, passed directly through his body and knocked out two of the front teeth of Mr. William Sproul, residing at No. 235 Bridge street.

THE SUBSCRIPTION ROOMS.

Business at the Subscription Rooms is commencing to look quite lively now, and yesterday being settling day there was quite a large attendance last evening. Everything seemed to be quite satisfactory about the settling, as no complaints were heard, and by nine P. M. the members began to turn their attention to the race of to-day. Judith appeared the favorite among the two-year-olds, and Fawn was entrusted with considerable money at 3 to 1, so much so that at the close only 5 to 2 was offered. For the mile and a half, Fugitive, Fraud, Lucifer, Cardinal Wolsey, Dalgasian and Major Barker were all backed, and Grecian Maid, Rattan Colt, Spotted Fawn and Vermont appeared to have the call on the mile dash. For the Woodburn Stake even was offered against Parole without finding any takers, and Virginius and Fiddlestick were both backed at 5 to 2. The following were the latest quotations:—

CLOVERBROOK AND BAZIL MATCHED FOR TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Mr. E. A. Clabaugh and Mr. P. Lorillard have matched their colts Cloverbrook and Bazil to run a dash of one mile and a quarter at Jerome Park, on Saturday next, for $5,000 a side, half forfeit. The race will be run before the regular races of the day. The above match will be a sensation.

POLO.

The members of the Westchester Polo Club will play a match game this afternoon on their grounds directly after the conclusion of the last race. There will be a large attendance of the members, and consequently a good game may be anticipated. The sides will probably be selected from Mr. Howland Robbins, Mr. C. W. Scott, Mr. Hermann Oelrichs, Mr. Harry Oelrichs, Sir Charles Dodsworth, Mr. S. S. Rowland, Mr. L. Bryce, Mr. De Meissnier, Mr. August Belmont, Jr., Mr. Fairman Rogers and Mr. Belmont Purdy. The grounds will, as usual, be open to all members of the Jockey Club or friends of the members upon application at the gate.

FLEETWOOD PARK.

The management of Fleetwood Park have determined on giving another trotting meeting, the first having been so satisfactory to all parties concerned. The coming meeting will begin on the 26th inst., and be continued on the 27th, 28th and 30th. The programme is a very interesting one. On the first day there will be two purses given, the first for $1,000 for horses that have never beaten 2:39; the second, a purse of $1,000 for horses that have never beaten 2:22. On the second day there will be a race by horses that have never beaten 2:35, and another for 2:25 horses, each for $1,000. On the third day there will be trotting by horses that have never beaten 2:31, and a saddle race, free for all, at catch weights, best three in five. The fourth day horses that have never beaten 2:28 will contend in the first race, and the closing event of the meeting will be for a $1,500 purse, free for all. With the exception of the saddle race all the others are mile heats, best three in five, in harness. The quality and quantity of trotting horses at present awaiting engagements will insure large fields for all the above purses.

BROOKLYN DRIVING PARK.

The first spring trotting meeting at the Brooklyn Driving Park, Parkville, L. I., closed yesterday with two events—the "thirty-eight" and "twenty-seven" purses. There were four heats in each, McMahon's bay mare Grace proving the winner in the former and Gilbert's sorrel gelding Harry Gilbert in the latter.

THE NURSERY BREEDING FARM.

A GLANCE AT MR. BELMONT'S FAMOUS BROOD MARES AND FOALS—THE SALE POSTPONED UNTIL NOON TO-MORROW.

The fifth annual sale of thoroughbred yearlings and other horses bred by Mr. August Belmont at his stud farm, The Nursery, near Babylon, Long Island, was to have been held yesterday, but owing to the rather doubtful condition of the weather it has been postponed until Wednesday, June 13, at twelve M. A small party of gentlemen left Hunter's Point by the nine o'clock train yesterday morning, and, arriving at Babylon at twenty-three minutes to eleven A. M., were driven over to The Nursery, a distance of about three miles. Mr. Belmont; his two sons, Mr. Perry Belmont, Mr. August Belmont, Jr.; Mr. Purdy, Mr. Withers and Mr. S. S. Howland were waiting to receive them, and, in order to pass the hour intervening before the sale, the stud groom opened the boxes where the yearlings were stabled and gave the new arrivals a chance to look at them. Among those present were Captain Conner, whose services had been secured as auctioneer; Mr. Galway, Messrs. Byrnes, Mr. Brown, trainer for Mr. P. Lorillard; Mr. Wyndham Waldron, trainer for Mr. G. Lorillard; Mr. Jeter Waldron, Mr. Charles Reid, Mr. Racey and a few others.

THE YEARLINGS REVIEWED.

After a short consultation with his friends Mr. Belmont finally decided to postpone the sale until Wednesday at noon, as he concluded that the limited attendance was owing to the statement in the catalogue which read:—"In case of bad weather, the sale will take place on the following Wednesday (13th)." In the morning the weather had rather a gloomy aspect, and there was a slight sprinkling of rain, sufficient to cause a query, after reading the above, as to whether the sale would really take place. Captain Conner then announced that the yearlings would be exhibited to those present, and Maronite, a good looking bay colt with two white feet and a star on the forehead, was walked out. This was quite a lively colt and is by Kingfisher, out of Maroon, by imp. Glencoe. The next was Saladin, a bay colt by Kingfisher, out of imp. Salamis, by Asteroid, son of Stockwell. Salamis was by Salamanca (Pero Gomez's dam), by Student. Then came Electrifier, a very gamey looking colt, with three white feet and a star on his forehead. He is by Kingfisher, out of Electra, by Kentucky. Lord Lytton, a bay colt by Kentucky or Kingfisher, out of Lady Blessington (dam of Lord Byron, Count D'Orsay and Countess), by imp. Eclipse, came next, and was followed by Baptist, a small but perfectly symmetrical bay colt by imp. Ill Used, out of imp. Babta, by Kingston. It would be hard to find a better strain of blood, as the sire is by Breadalbane, son of Stockwell, out of Ellermire, by Chanticleer. The want of size is probably owing to ill health, as the colt is only just recovered from a rather severe illness. Anodyne, a big chestnut colt by Kingfisher, out of imp. Adosinda, by Beadsman, showing great strength in the chest and shoulders, was then walked out and, presently followed by Lucky Hit, a chestnut colt with white feet and blazed face, by Kentucky, Kingfisher or Count D'Orsay, out of imp. Fluke (dam of Silk Stocking, Scratch, &c.,) by Womersley. The remaining yearlings were Pirate, a bay colt by Kingfisher, out of imp. Felucca, by Buccaneer (sire of Kisber), and King James, a bay colt by Kentucky or Kingfisher, out of imp. Nellie James, by Dollar, the well known sire of many French winners.

The two-year-old bay colt Elector, by Kingfisher, out of Electra, by Kentucky, was not shown, as he had been sold at private sale to go to Mexico.

The three-year-old chestnut gelding Sir Alfred, by Kinfisher, out of imp. Nellie James; the three-year-old bay colt Bagdad, by Kentucky, out of imp. Babta; the four-year-old bay horse Killarney, brother to Kildare; the five-year-old bay horse Matador, by Gladiateur, out of imp. Iron Parcille, by Kingston; the six-year-old gray horse Steel Eyes, by Planet, out of Eagless, by imp. Glencoe; the seven-year-old chestnut horse Count D'Orsay, by Kentucky, out of Lady Blessington, and the five-year-old trotting gelding Bohemian, by Idol (son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian), out of the trotting mare Gipsey, were also shown.

THE BROOD MARES AND FOALS.

The party were then invited to lunch by Mr. Belmont, and after satisfying their appetites and taking a look at the sporting pictures in the house they were taken for a walk over the farm. Mr. Belmont first gave them a glance at his magnificent imp. horse Ill Used, by Breadalbane (son of Stockwell, out of Ellermire, by Chanticleer). He is a picture of a horse, and his immense shoulders and chest were much admired. Kingfisher, whose record is too well known to require comment was then walked out. He has grown into a grand looking horse and appeared as kind and docile as a lamb. Mr. Belmont then led the way to the brood mares, that are in comfortable quarters, having a large paddock, with a roomy horse-box in one corner for the special accommodation of each. The first was Toque, by Monarque, out of La Toque, with a bay foal by Kingfisher, that was born May 7. The imp. Nellie James, by Dollar, was in the next paddock with a foal by Kingfisher, born April 29. Then came Camilla, by King Tom, with a promising looking chestnut filly by Ill Used trotting by her side. The filly was born on February 21. Walking into the adjoining paddock the party found Lady Mentmore, a fine looking mare by King Tom, and full sister to Corisande. She had a bay filly foal by Kingfisher, born February 25. The next was Beatrice, with a chestnut filly by Ill Used, born February 14. Bernice was in the next paddock, but without any offspring this year; and then came her daughter Electra, with a lively looking bay colt by Ill Used, born March 10. Woodbine, a fine looking mare by Censor, out of Fleur de Champs, had a handsome bay colt by Ill Used, born April 3, and in the next paddock was Lady Blessington, who is barren this year. Imp. Polonta, by Macaroni, had a bay filly, May 4, by Kingfisher, and imp. Salamis, by Asteroid, was accompanied by a chestnut colt, born April 20, by Ill Used. The handsome mare, imp. Fleur de Champs, by Newminster, had a bay filly by Kingfisher, born April 21, by her side, and imp. Filigree (dam of Fiddlestick) by Stockwell, was followed by a bay filly born April 26, by Kingfisher. The well-bred mare imp. Babta, by Kingston, had a nice looking chestnut filly by Ill Used, born April 19, and imp. Fluke, by Wormesly, was accompanied by a chestnut colt born April 17, by Ill Used. The imp. mare Adosinda, by Beadsman (sister to Pero Gomez, winner of the St. Leger), had a nice looking chestnut filly foal by Ill Used, born May 15, that was much admired. The party were also shown two mares belonging to Mr. G. Lorillard, Black Slave, by imp. Eclipse, out of the Greek Slave, with a chestnut colt foal by Leamington, born in February, and Columbia, by Ringgold, with a bay colt foal by Ill Used, born in February. Both the above mares are now in foal to Ill Used.

The party then got in the stages and returned to Babylon in time to catch the 2:33 P. M. train for the city.

YACHTING.

ANNUAL REGATTA OF THE ATLANTIC YACHT CLUB—THE SCHOONERS AND FIRST CLASS SLOOPS FAIL TO MAKE A RACE—THE GENIA WINS THE PRIZE FOR SECOND CLASS SLOOPS.

The twelfth annual regatta of the Atlantic Yacht Club took place yesterday over the New York Club course. The wind that blew fresh from the east in the morning augured well for the day's sport, but it was feared that the water would be so rough outside as to perhaps prevent some of the yachts from going over the course. The wind, however, went down as the morning advanced, and when the start of the yachts was made the clouds parted, and the sun came out. As far as racing was concerned it made the affair a comparative failure. Only one of the races could be completed. The winner in that was the Genia. The sailing was excellent throughout, and under the circumstances some of the yachts made good time. The catamarans were about, and the Amaryllis and John Gilpin accompanied the fleet down the bay, but the wind was even too light for them and they did not turn the Lightship.

THE COURSE.

The course for schooners and first class sloops was from the anchorage off Bay Ridge, down through the Narrows to and around the stakeboat at buoy 8½, on Southwest Spit thence to and around Lightship, rounding the same by the eastward and southward, thence home, going to southward and westward of beacon on Romer Shoal.

For second class sloops, the same course, to and around stakeboat at buoy 8½, on Southwest Spit, thence to and around a stakeboat near a buoy in Gedney Channel, rounding the same from the southward, thence home, passing to the westward of beacon on Romer Shoal.

Restrictions.—All yachts to pass to westward of Fort Lafayette, to the eastward of buoys 11, 13 and 15 on West Bank, both going and returning; around stakeboat at Southwest Spit by the westward and southward, and at home stake between the two stakeboats marking the line.

The following is a list of the entries:—

SCHOONERS.

Name.	Owner.	Mean Length. Ft.	In.
Triton	Com. G. A. Thayer	65	1½
Peerless	J. Maxwell	70	9
Agnes	W. R. Vermilye	59	5½
FIRST CLASS SLOOPS.
Niantic	R. H. Huntly	64	9
Orion	William Cooper	50	6¼
SECOND CLASS SLOOPS.
Kaiser Wilhelm	W. H. Field	41	8
Lizzie L.	J. G. Johnson	41	5½
Genia	T. P. Fiske	40	3
Hope	F. C. Swan	38	8½
Nimbus	J. H. Biglow	34	7½
Mab	Richard Arnold	25	8

The Mab did not start.

The prizes were a silver cup for each class and the "Livingston memorial" prize, to be awarded to the first yacht of the first class sloops in at the home stakeboat, without time allowance, to be held on the conditions of its presentation. The Regatta Committee consisted of Messrs. F. T. Feet, H. S. Manning and G. A. Weber. The judges were Messrs. William H. Thomas, Ira L. Beebe and Richard W. How. The steamer William Fletcher carried the judges, while the steamer Americus accompanied the fleet down the bay, with about five hundred ladies and gentlemen.

THE RACE.

The first gun echoed along the shore of Long Island at 11h. 9m. 20s., and the cluster of yachts that appeared far back in Gowanus Bay separated and made for the starting point. The wind was southeast, light, and the tide was the first of the ebb. The second gun was fired at 11h. 12m. 30s., and the third at 11h. 21m. 20s. The yachts were timed in starting as follows:—Peerless, 11h. 16m. 25s.; Agnes, 11h. 9m. 42s.; Triton, 11h. 18m. 31s.; Niantic, 11h. 25m. 22s.; Orion, 11h. 25m. 40s.; Genia, 11h. 23m. 10s.; Hope, 11h. 24m. 36s.; Kaiser, 11h. 26m. 11s.; Lizzie L., 11h. 24m. 5s.; Nimbus, 11h. 26m. 10s.

DOWN THE BAY.

As Fort Lafayette was neared the Kaiser had drawn ahead of the sloops, and also had the advantage of being well to windward. The three schooners were far in advance, and owing to a puff of air were showing their heels to the smaller craft. The wind freshened as the water became more open. Off the hospital the Peerless took in her staysail. The Agnes and Triton were about a quarter of a mile astern. Off Coney Island Point the Peerless went on the starboard tack, and shortly afterward went about again. The other two schooners kept on their course, and finally the Peerless, the Triton and the Agnes were standing on the port tack, about half a mile apart, the Peerless to windward. The Triton continued on the port tack, while the Peerless made several short tacks off Coney Island shore, the Agnes all the while falling astern. The sloops were coming up slowly, most of them keeping well in the channel. The Hope on the port tack off Coney Island Point led all the second class sloops. The Niantic, leading all the sloops, held an average channel course and made few tacks. Off the Hospital Ship the Peerless made another port tack and stood well over to the Coney Island shore. The positions of the schooners were now—the Peerless standing to the eastward, the Triton keeping in the channel, leading the Agnes by a half mile, the latter being well on the lower end of the west bank. As the Southwest Spit buoy was neared the wind was more to the eastward, and the Agnes and the Triton found it almost impossible to reach the buoy. The Peerless came down in good style on the starboard tack, rounding it very prettily. The Triton made three or four short tacks and bore up for the mark. In the meantime the Agnes fairly drifted down upon the line and her time was taken, but she did not cross until after the Triton, which, in point of fact, crossed the line several seconds ahead of her by catching a stray capful of wind. The Niantic came around in excellent style. The Genia, Kaiser and Hope in the order named came around slowly and the Hope, to be odd again, after turning, stood right on in the same tack for at least a mile.

The time at buoy No. 8½ was as follows—Agnes, 12h. 55m. 40s.; Peerless, 12h. 53m. 15s.; Triton, 12h. 57m. 56s.; Niantic, 1h. 4s.; Orion, 1h. 5m. 53s.; Genia, 1h. 7m. 12s.; Hope, 1h. 25m. 24s.; Kaiser, 1h. 16m. 38s.; Lizzie L., 1h. 24m. 30s.; Nimbus, 1h. 30m. 15s.

OFF THE LIGHTSHIP.

At 1h. 15m. the Peerless went about on the port tack off the point of the Hook, and six minutes later the Triton and Agnes commenced their beat to windward for the lightship. The second class sloops also beat to windward to the stakeboat in Gedney's Channel. At 2h. 45m., when the head of the fleet reached Gedney's Channel the Niantic was leading, with the Triton in her wake, the Agnes a quarter of a mile astern of the Triton, and the Peerless about a quarter of a mile to windward. The wind now rapidly died out, and the boats slowly drifted for hours.

The second class sloops went around the stakeboat in Gedney's channel as follows:—Genia, 4h. 56m. 30s.; Kaiser, 5h. 36m. 40s.; Lizzie L., 5h. 26m. 40s.; Nimbus, 5h. 22m. 35s.

A DRIFTING FLEET.

The schooners drifted toward the lightship, very slowly approaching it. The owners of the Peerless and Agnes, with patience exhausted, went about and stood away for home without attempting to turn the ship, at that time not far off. The Niantic also put back and the race was left to the Triton and Orion, who courageously pushed on and turned at 6h. 6m. 12s. and 6h. 16m. 12s., respectively.

HOME.

The Triton and the Orion, homeward bound, had a run before the wind, with tide in their favor. It was impossible, however, for them to reach the home stakeboat in the allotted time for the race. Their arrival was not noted, and the judges decided it no race. The same decision was made in regard to the first class sloops. The second class sloops stood for home, and came in as follows, the Genia winning the race:—Genia, 7h., 0m., 6s.; Kaiser, 7h., 44m., 32s.; Lizzie L., 7h., 32m., 9s.; Nimbus, 7h., 37m., 14s. Time of race, 7h., 42m., 50s.

THE CATAMARAN NEREID.

The catamaran question will soon be settled, as far as the New York Yacht Club is concerned, by the calling of a meeting to decide the point at issue. In chapter 4 of the bylaws of the club there is the following section:—"On the written representation of any two yacht owners to the secretary, that the measurer has granted a certificate to a yacht unfit to be represented in the club, such certificate may be cancelled by a majority of votes at any general or special meeting."

In consequence of the written protest of two yacht owners Secretary Minton has issued the following circular:—

SECRETARY'S OFFICE, NEW YORK YACHT CLUB, June 9, 1877.

DEAR SIR—A special meeting of this club will be held at Delmonico's, Broad street, on Wednesday next, 13th inst., at three o'clock P. M., for the purpose of considering certain protests which have been made against the admission into the club of the schooner Nereid and of taking such action in relation thereto as may be deemed advisable. Respectfully yours, CHARLES A. MINTON.

This meeting will decide whether the Nereid is eligible to compete with the second class schooners on Thursday, June 14, in the regatta of the New York Yacht Club.

PHILADELPHIA YACHT CLUB.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11, 1877.

In the annual regatta of the Philadelphia Yacht Club to-day, of the first class boats, the Kate Baisley was the winner; of the second class, the Ida May, and of the third class, the Scholey. The course was up the Delaware to Delanco and return, a distance of about thirty miles.

SILVER LAKE REGATTA.

BOSTON, June 11, 1877.

The Silver Lake regatta on Wednesday promises to be the event of the season. The single scullers embrace Hanlon and McCann, of Toronto; Biglin and Plaisted, of New York, and all the prominent local oarsmen.

HANLON, THE OARSMAN.

TORONTO, June 11, 1877.

Hanlon, the champion oarsman, accompanied by his brother, started for Boston to-day to participate in the Silver Lake regatta, which commences on Wednesday.

BASEBALL.

Several hundred spectators assembled at the Union Ground yesterday to witness the second meeting this season between the strong local professional teams of the Hartford and Chelsea clubs. A number of the spectators were in anticipation of seeing a game between the Indianapolis and Hartford clubs, a mistaken impression being circulated that the former would play in Brooklyn. Those who came, however, were not disappointed. An equally as fine a game as could have been expected was played by the Hartfords and Chelseas. The former outbatted the latter, but were not as lucky in run-getting, making but four runs on eleven clean base hits, five of which were made in succession in one inning, while their opponents scored three runs on but three safe hits, no two of which were made in one inning. The Chelseas played a fine fielding game, the second base play by Laughlin being particularly brilliant. Following is the score:—

Hartford	1	0	0	2	0	0	0	1	0	0—4

A game was played at Philadelphia between the Bostons and Athletics, in the presence of fully 2,000 spectators. The game was so well played that it elicited hearty demonstrations of approbation. In the first three innings neither side scored a run. As each side was retired with ciphers the multitude gave token of their appreciation of the playing. The contest was close and exciting throughout, and resulted as follows:—

Boston	0	0	0	2	1	0	1	0	0—4
Athletic	0	0	0	0	1	0	1	0	0—2

One of the best professional games on record was played at Chicago between the champion Chicagos and the Louisville club, thirteen innings being played before the contest was decided. This is the third League championship game of note in which the Louisville club has taken part, the other two being the famous fifteen inning tie game and sixteen inning game with the Mutuals last season. The following is the score of yesterday's game at Chicago:—

Chicago	0	1	1	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	1—4

The Eries defeated the Crickets at Binghamton, by a score of 11 to 7.

At Providence, the Buckeyes, of Columbus, beat the Rhode Islands by a score of 1 to 0.

In a game at Lowell, the Lowells defeated the Maple Leafs, of Guelph, Canada, by a score of 9 to 1.

To-day the Hartfords and Bostons play on the Union Ground, Brooklyn.

The Tecumsehs, of London, Canada, in a game with the Stars, at Syracuse, came off the victors by a score of 2 to 1. The Tecumsehs scored their two runs in the first inning, and the Stars their one in the seventh.

At Rochester the Indianapolis club defeated the Rochesters by a score of 4 to 1.

At St. Louis—St. Louis, 11; Cincinnati 2. Only eight innings played.

THE POOL SELLERS.

Judge Hoffman rendered a decision yesterday in the Court of Quarter Sessions, at Jersey City, in the case of the pool sellers whose examination took place on Friday. The Judge held that pool selling was a violation of the law, and all the parties arrested—Messrs. Lovell, Bliss, Kelly and McDougall—were committed in $1,000 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. Johnson gave up the business and left the State, and it is doubtful whether any proceedings will be instituted against him. The accused pool sellers are taking desperate chances, for they resumed operations on their return to Hoboken to meet the racing at Jerome Park to-day. The Court was somewhat surprised that bail was so promptly tendered, as several parties who were solicited to become security for the pool sellers positively declined.

THE TALLY HO.

The Tally Ho drew up at the door of the Brunswick at ten minutes to ten yesterday morning, and the passengers came out and climbed up on the roof. Count de Choiseul, Mr. Dorna, Mr. C. R. Hone and Mr. J. H. Hamersley were among the passengers. The drive was quite pleasant, notwithstanding a slight sprinkling of rain in the morning; but coming back the weather was clear and pleasant. Colonel Delancey Kane pulled up on the return trip sharp on time, and everybody appeared to be delighted with the trip.

ASSAULT WITH A STILETTO.

Charles Farron entered the saloon of Charles Peters, No. 360 Fulton street, Brooklyn, yesterday, with two friends, and asked for drinks. They were refused on the ground that he had once created a disturbance there. It is said that Farron then turned upon Peters, and the latter seeing him with a stiletto in his hand sought refuge in the back yard. Young Farron then ran behind the bar and made an assault on the bartender. The latter, however, was the stronger of the two and succeeded in gaining possession of the stiletto. Farron was arrested on a charge of felonious assault.

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, JUNE 12, 1877.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

In future all advertisements presented for publication after eight o'clock P. M. will be charged double rates.

From our reports this morning the probabilities are that the weather in New York to-day will be cool and partly cloudy, or cloudy, with occasional light rains, followed by rising temperature.

WALL STREET YESTERDAY.—The stock market was very active and business was well distributed. Railroad stocks were, as a rule, strong, with the exception of the coal stocks, which touched the lowest points yet reached. Government bonds were weak and lower and railroad bonds quiet and irregular. Gold opened at 105 and closed at 104⅞. Money on call was easy at 1 a 2 per cent.

AN UNUSUAL PIECE OF NEWS comes from Central America this morning—the country is quiet.

JERSEY HAS ROUTED the pool sellers. The principal offender left yesterday, and the rest will soon follow.

THE TRUNK LINES have entered into another arrangement to "pool" western bound freight. It goes into operation next month; but no one can tell how long it will last.

THE FIRST UNITED STATES ARTILLERY is growing beautifully less. There is no money to pay the bold troopers and they decline to remain in the service of an ungrateful country.

THE ANNUAL REGATTA of the Brooklyn Yacht Club takes place to-day. All the yachts of the club have been invited to compete for the principal prize, and some exciting racing may be expected.

THE UNSAVORY SUIT of Crimmins vs. Crimmins for the possession of the only child that was born to them was wisely sent yesterday by Judge Barrett to a referee. This saves the public from a good deal of scandalous reading matter.

THE ANNUAL REPORT of the American Silk Association shows an encouraging condition of that branch of trade. This industry is growing so rapidly that English silk manufacturers are beginning to be alarmed and fear the competition of American silks in their own markets.

PIUS THE NINTH gave a warm reception yesterday to the Canadian pilgrims. Mrs. General Sherman, of Washington, and other representative Catholics of Philadelphia, St. Louis and other cities have been presented with medals in recognition of their services and devotion to the Holy See.

THE LIBERAL PARTY in Rome has won a significant triumph over the ultramontane or clerical party. At the election yesterday, which took place in that city for provincial councillors, the Church party was beaten by more than a thousand votes. The radicals, of course, voted with the liberals.

THE AMERICAN MINISTER to Central America throws some light on the interoceanic canal question. Mr. Fish was anxious to make a treaty with Nicaragua on the subject, but that country modestly insisted upon the right to build forts along its banks and defeated the project. A Nicaraguan statesman only could make such a proposition.

PENNSYLVANIA has a long list of candidates for the gallows. One of them was bunglingly despatched yesterday in Philadelphia, and another, Laros, who attempted to poison his father, mother, five brothers and sisters and two or three other persons, will follow in a few days. Then come the Molly Maguires. The Keystone State starts the second century of the Republic pretty well in the hanging line.

THE EIGHT HOUR LAW.—An important decision has been given in the Supreme Court of the United States on the Eight Hour law, or rather upon one of a number of cases involving claims against the government for a large amount of money arising out of a conflict as to the construction of the statute. Workingmen generally, and particularly those who were employed on the Post Office in this city, will be interested in the decision.

THE WEATHER.—The depression which brought us so much rain on Saturday and Sunday has now moved off the continent over Newfoundland and is followed by a minor disturbance which is central over Lake Michigan. This low area is attended by light rains and brisk winds, the former extending eastward as far as Lake Erie. But yesterday on its southerly margin at Cincinnati a violent tornado, accompanied by heavy hail, occurred. In the Eastern Gulf States the pressure indicates the movement of another depression, and light rains have prevailed along the Atlantic coast as far north as Cape Hatteras. The highest pressures are now in the South and Southwest and also on the Middle Atlantic coast and in Upper Canada, but the two latter areas will pass away during this morning before the advancing low barometer from the westward. The pressure has fallen again on the Pacific coast, giving promise of another storm from the northwest within three or four days. The temperature has fallen generally, except in the South and on the Southern and Middle Atlantic coasts. The coldest area is now over Lakes Superior and Huron. The warmest area is on the Gulf coast. The weather in New York to-day will be cool and partly cloudy, or cloudy, with occasional light rains, followed by rising temperature.

The Tammany Demonstration.

Governor Lucius Robinson, to whom the great Tammany ovation was given in Union square last evening, is a well preserved gentleman, in the sixty-seventh year of his age, and will have nearly completed threescore and ten at the expiration of his three years' term. He has reached the summit of his ambition, and is, therefore, free from one of the chief temptations which beset younger politicians who aspire to higher honors than they have reached. Governor Robinson is a solid, steady going business man, with talents better fitted for use than for show, and, although he has belonged in turn to both political parties, he has maintained an enviable reputation for strict integrity. His nomination for the Governorship last autumn was an unexpected honor, to which political accidents contributed quite as much as a sense of his merits. The favorite candidate of Governor Tilden was Mr. Dorsheimer; but this gentleman was not acceptable to John Kelly, and as a means of heading him off the Tammany Boss utilized the popularity of Horatio Seymour and caused him to be nominated by acclamation. Mr. Seymour did not choose to be made a football in such a game, and his resolute refusal to accept created a fiasco and a crisis in the democratic party. In the interval between the adjournment and reassembling of the State Convention John Kelly adhered with customary pugnacious stubbornness to his determination to defeat Dorsheimer, and it was owing to his activity and intrigues that the nomination fell to Lucius Robinson.

After concealing his hand for some time Mr. Kelly at last allowed it to be known that Clarkson N. Potter was his candidate, and at Saratoga Mr. Potter was put fairly in the field against Dorsheimer. Every effort was then made by Kelly to induce the anti-Tammany leaders to unite with him on Potter, and at one time the movement came near being a success. The Tilden managers had become alarmed at the Potter programme, and saw that they could no longer hope for Dorsheimer's nomination. In consultation with Mr. Tilden before the Saratoga Convention met, it had been agreed, under certain circumstances, to bring forward Lucius Robinson, and this was done in the Convention, the anti-Tammany delegates remaining aloof at first and casting their votes for A. Schoonmaker, Jr. Mr. Kelly and his adherents supported that "elegant gentleman," Clarkson N. Potter, and, to give force to their opposition to Lucius Robinson, some of them added, with emphasis, to his name the words "a democrat." But Kings county deserted Tammany and voted for Robinson, and then anti-Tammany wheeled into line and our present Governor received the nomination, much to Tammany's chagrin. Nevertheless, it is true that, but for John Kelly's bitter and determined fight against Dorsheimer, Robinson would not have been the candidate. Hence it may be truly said that the Governor owes his office to John Kelly's antipathies to Mr. Tilden's favorite candidate.

Governor Robinson is a man of too much character to acknowledge such a debt by his official action, however deeply he may feel the obligation. It is even doubtful whether, if left to his own sense of rectitude, he would favor the designs of Kelly in the management of the democratic party of the State. Mr. Kelly, therefore, thought it necessary to appeal to a different side of the Governor's character. It was hoped that flattering personal attentions might have some effect on a man who has no further ambition to satisfy and is averse to political intrigues. Hence the great ovation was planned which made Union square the scene of a brilliant spectacle last evening. It was a studied attempt to make Mr. Robinson think himself the most popular Governor we have ever had, and, by thus working on his vanity, convert him into a pliable instrument of Tammany politics. There is a proverb against looking a gift horse in the mouth, and Governor Robinson is bound in all courtesy to accept this demonstration in the spirit in which it professes to be given, but lookers on are not bound to ignore the motives of so unwonted and interested a proceeding.

Why, of all the Governors that have filled the office in our time, is Lucius Robinson singled out as the recipient of a greater compliment than has been bestowed on any of his predecessors? What has he done during the five months he has been in office to entitle him to an ovation the like of which was never bestowed on Seymour, or Morgan, or Dix or Tilden so early in their terms, or at all? It cannot be pretended that he is a man of higher political standing, nor that he has yet rendered any great or resplendent service to the State. If Governor Tilden had received such an ovation after the close of the session, when he made his formidable assault on the Canal Ring, the compliment might have seemed justified by the facts; but nothing of the kind was thought of. If Governor Robinson were five months from the end of his term instead of five months from its beginning such a demonstration might be intelligible as a device of his friends for promoting his re-election; but it is not so timed as to be in the interest of the Governor, but only in the interest of the political schemers who have gotten it up. They want his co-operation, and, as he is not a man to be approached with ordinary vulgar bribes offered to selfish interest or ambition, they try the seductive influence of attentions and flattery. This treatment of a Governor who is respectable, but not eminent, is so disproportioned and unusual that he must be very much blinded by vanity if he does not see through the motives which it would not become him to expose. If he is the man we take him for he will not hold himself bound by his acceptance of these attentions to pay the expected price.

The address of welcome was a little too frank to be quite discreet. When Sam Ward, the accomplished "king of the lobby," gives one of his charming dinners to members of Congress whom he designs to capture he is too skilful to let the slightest intimation escape him that he invited them for any other reason than his pleasure in their good fellowship. This is a chief point in the art by which flattery is made effective. But the Tammany orator who welcomed Governor Robinson was not so wary. He almost paraded the differences between the Board of Aldermen and Mayor Ely, insisting at great length and in strong language on the mischief that would result from giving the Mayor the sole power of appointment. This topic came in with the worst grace possible, considering that Governor Robinson has had precisely the same experience with the Senate that Mayor Ely has had with the Aldermen. But Tammany is too much occupied with its grievance against the Mayor to pay much regard to fitness or decorum. The fact that Tammany seized this occasion to declare its want of confidence in Mayor Ely is a significant clew to the motive of these extraordinary attentions to Governor Robinson. But the Governor was too discreet to make any direct response to this virtual attack on the chief executive of the city.

Secretary Sherman's Fiscal Operations.

An evening contemporary regrets that the whole proceeds of the new sale of bonds to the Syndicate are not to be set aside for redemption of greenbacks, instead of a small proportion of them. This is a hasty judgment. If only the four and a half per cent bonds could be disposed of at par the criticism of our contemporary would be pertinent, because their amount is limited; and even if the whole three hundred millions authorized by law were put on the market the residue now unsold would bring in no more gold than may be needed for redemption purposes. But the demonstrated salability of the four per cents at par gives a wider scope for fiscal operations. It is quite possible for the refunding process to go on without obstructing the necessary preparations for specie payments in 1879.

With the four per cents at par it would be a blunder for the Treasury to stop refunding in the hope of facilitating resumption. Secretary Sherman will probably get more gold available for resumption by continuing the refunding operations than he would if he should drop them, because the sales will proceed so much more rapidly that there will be a more diffused eagerness to invest in the new bonds when it is seen that the supply is likely to be exhausted. The people who will take the bonds consist of two classes—namely, those whose money is already invested and those who have money at command for new investments. It is only from the latter class that gold can be obtained to form a reserve for redeeming the greenbacks. The other class, consisting of people whose money is already well invested, will not voluntarily disturb their investments to purchase the new bonds. But the owners of the five-twenty sixes can be made to do this by compulsion. The Secretary of the Treasury can call in the six per cent bonds at pleasure. Most of the holders will prefer to take the new bonds rather than gold, because they would be puzzled to find any other equally good and safe investment. Without this coercion they would never surrender their six per cent bonds. If the Treasury should stop refunding the public debt it would not thereby acquire any gold for resumption. It is only by the purchase of new bonds with capital not already invested in our government securities that a redemption fund can be accumulated. The refunding will consist for the most part in exchanges of the old bonds for the new, and will not interfere with the investment of fresh capital in the four per cents. Instead of interfering it will promote it by exhausting the supply of new bonds so rapidly as to quicken the efforts of capitalists to get them while they may. It implies an oversight of fundamental facts or a want of discrimination to suppose that with the four per cents at par refunding will impede resumption. The wise thing for Secretary Sherman to do is to set apart for resumption purposes the excess of what he receives over a virtual exchange of bonds. It would be absurd to stop these exchanges in the hope of thereby acquiring gold.

Mexico.

The arrival of General Escobedo, the military arm of President Lerdo, at New Orleans en route for the Rio Grande border, together with the announcement that his chief of staff is at Laredo—probable in itself, though coupled with the erroneous statement that the General himself is also there—and that he is about organizing a force to attack New Laredo, opposite, is significant of the opening of the campaign of the Lerdistas for the recovery of the government from which they were so summarily expelled by the onward march of Diaz toward the national capital. To a casual observer the selection of a remote, thinly settled and illy provided section on the northern frontier as the initial point of effort would seem indicative of weakness, promising slight hope of success. The truth is, however, that here Escobedo is on his own fighting ground, and between him and Monterey—doubtless his immediate objective point—lie many of the haciendas and ranches from whence his cohorts were recruited in the old time contest with the Empire under Maximilian. Should he be successful in capturing New Laredo, which is without natural or artificial defences, poorly garrisoned and with a population in sympathy with him, his bugle blast sounding along the line of march to Monterey would call to his side hundreds of his old followers, which would render the fall of the chief city of Nueva Leon highly probable. In the States of Saltillo and San Luis Potosi, through which his continued march toward the capital would naturally lead him, the Lerdista element largely predominates, and this, added to the popularity of Escobedo in these States, over both of which he has been Governor, constitutes another important element in estimating the probabilities of success. Indications of well organized Lerdista movements in Western and Southwestern Mexico are also apparent, which, taken in connection with the efforts being made under Escobedo's immediate direction in the Central States, evince that lively times may be anticipated within the borders of our sister Republic during the coming season.

An Important Case Considered—The Ladies' Dresses.

We are not surprised to find that the supposed discrepancy of our two correspondents as to the dresses worn by two distinguished ladies on the occasion when General Grant was received by Mr. Pierrepont has excited attention and bids fair to provoke an animated and even energetic discussion. It is a subject of very great importance, as the attention given to it by our contemporaries indicates, and we take this occasion to acknowledge their indirect recognition of the deep interest of our despatch. Our lively neighbor, the Graphic, says that the difference between the accounts of Kate Field and Olive Logan is a consequence of their writing for a paper that is "carelessly edited." Are we to understand, then, that if these ladies had sent their letters to our neighbor, his conception of careful editing would have induced him to make such changes in the words sent by cable as would have reconciled the descriptions? That is not our notion of the duties of an editor. Perish the thought that we would tamper with the cable despatches in that style and fritter away the fidelity of a chronicle! To add or take away words in such a manner as to make a correspondent say what he or she does not say is to trifle with the reader in an inexcusable way. Besides, which statement would the Graphic have changed? It might have modified the one that was most strictly accurate, and how would it feel, then, when the inexorable coming of the papers by mail should convict it of absolute false statement? That plan would never do. It is better to leave the responsibility with the correspondent. One correspondent may err and the world be none the worse; but if the HERALD is found clearly wrong the faith of the American people in first principles is shaken. If the correspondents who have differed thus were mere men we might account for the discrepancy by that lapse of observation which from time to time troubles masculine humanity as to the number of moons that figure in the average midnight sky; but in the case of ladies that easy explanation is of course excluded. Several ladies, experts in problems of the toilet, have written to say that the variations are not irreconcilable, and there is some hope, certainly, in that direction. There are, for instance, four variations. One says cream, the other canary color. Now, what is the color of cream? This depends on the breed of cows, the excellence of pasture and the time of year, and the hue may vary from a golden yellow in good samples to that of a dirty white scum in samples from the Blissville distillery stable. Canaries vary in color within nearly the same limits. Here, then, is one discrepancy fairly run down and stamped out. The next is claret color and brown. If you take cheap claret there is no brown in it. If you rise to the glories of Lafitte, Pichon Longueville and Margaux, your man of accomplished eye will tell you that you want to see in your wine the color peau d'ognon. Now, an onion skin varies in its red toward brown. HERALD correspondents know that brown. Indeed, it is our opinion, from an occasional view of their accounts, that our correspondents never trouble themselves with cheap claret. Moreover, it appears that silks which are brown, viewed directly, dazzle with a more brilliant hue in an oblique aspect. Another difficulty is between cherry and scarlet. Now what kind of cherries shall they be? There was a man who sold a "plum-colored coat," and it proved to be green, and when he produced his specimens of "green gages" in court he obtained a verdict. There was a man who contracted to furnish a cherry-colored cat, and he brought a black, and said he meant black cherries. Is not the commonest kind of some cherries the brightest possible scarlet?

Very Slow Dogs.

A mad dog occasioned an excitement in Brooklyn yesterday and cost a citizen a wound in the mouth from a bullet discharged from a frightened policeman's revolver. We have fortunately had no marked cases of rabies and hydrophobia in the city very recently, but that must be attributed to our luck and not to the precautions of our authorities. Hundreds of dogs are running at large, many of them miserable half fed curs, just the sort to go mad and bite people; yet a dog law has been in operation for some weeks and it was supposed that the dog days would find us tolerably safe from the dreaded and horrible disease. Our worthy city authorities move very slowly. At the rate they have heretofore adopted we may probably hope that a pound will be in readiness and dog catchers appointed somewhere in the neighborhood of Christmas, and that the duty of putting muzzles on the mouths of vagrant curs will be enforced about the time that their tails are in danger of being frozen off. Seriously, if the people are to be protected at all from a horrible danger, it is the duty of the Mayor to see that the dog law is enforced at once and strictly, and that every unmuzzled or unchained dog is driven from the streets.

The Recent Earthquakes and Tidal Wave.

By mail from the Peruvian coast comes a tale of disaster and ruin which happily it seldom falls to our lot to publish. The earthquake that recently disturbed the bed of the Pacific Ocean from Japan to Peru, and which was followed by terrific waves on the coast of South America, has brought destruction to many thriving towns and death to hundreds of their populations. In the account which will be found on another page this morning the cause of the great tidal wave, as it is called, is attributed to the eruption of the volcano of Ilaga, on the frontier of Peru; but such eruptions are the effects, not the causes, of volcanic disturbances. The enormous pressure developed by the generation of steam or gases beneath the earth's crust along certain cavities that extend for thousands of miles and connect the volcanic regions of the Old and New worlds together cause the upheavals and rendings of the surface called earthquakes. The volcanoes are the outlets, or what may be termed the safety valves, of these subterranean generators and reservoirs of pressure, and it is from their craters that much of the superabundant gases and molten matter are emitted during eruptions. But after long periods of rest these safety valves become clogged with igneous matter that has cooled into solidity; then, when the pressure is suddenly increased, the outlets are closed and a gigantic rupture takes place along the line where the force of internal expansion has accumulated. Often this rupture or upheaval takes place simultaneously with the eruptions. We know from accounts received from Peru and the Hawaiian Islands that the volcanoes at each place were extremely active during the progress of the convulsions on the 10th of May. But the volcanic waves that swept the coasts of South and Central America with such disastrous effects have been developed by a direct upheaval, possibly followed by a great subsidence, of the bed of the Pacific Ocean. The melancholy results chronicled in our correspondence must draw toward the sufferers the practical sympathy of the world. It is only by desolations of this character that we can realize how feeble man is, with all his intelligence, in presence of the incalculable forces of nature.

Progress of the War.

At length the silence which has so long reigned over the Russian lines along the Danube has been broken and the thunder of the cannonade between Giurgevo and Rustchuk is heard. This warlike music sounds like the signal for a general advance of the Russians; but then it may be but an alarm to divert the attention of the Turks from some quarter where they least expect an attack. The bombardment of Rustchuk in itself would mean nothing, because at long range the Russians could not hope to damage the defences and inflict any permanent injury on the Turkish stronghold. The idea that they will attempt to cross the Danube at Rustchuk is simply ridiculous. Movements of this kind are among the most difficult in war, and are always made at a safe distance from the centres of the enemy's strength. The reported success of the Turks in removing Russian torpedoes at Matchin and Lom Palanka, below Widdin, indicates as much that the Russians are freely planting these obstructions at every favorable point along the river as that the Turks are active in removing them.

From Asia Minor as well as from the Danube private despatches reach Constantinople, giving an account of the hopeless condition of the Turkish army. The men are miserably led, fed and clothed, although well armed. Mukhtar Pacha may be said to be in full retreat before the Russians and can barely save himself from being overwhelmed by the activity of his cavalry. As the Russians will by this time have practically concentrated in the valley before Erzeroum the fall of that city is now a mere question of time. The Turks recognize the inevitable and their civil authorities have already abandoned the doomed city. At the Turkish capital the revolutionary element is still giving the government much trouble. The softas continue to buzz like hornets about the ears of the Commander of the Faithful, and he makes frantic snatches at them now and then to crush them between his imperial fingers. The removal from office of the Minister of War and the Sultan's father-in-law is demanded. The first named official can certainly be superseded, but it is rather questionable about disposing of the second.

Getting at Bottom Facts.

According to the HERALD'S special despatches from Washington the Indian Ring is threatened anew with exposure and prosecution. Secretary Schurz is said to be resolved to dive deep into what has undoubtedly been a very dirty pool, and to find out, if possible, the iniquity that lies at the bottom. The committee of investigation, which has been set to work by the Secretary, is exhibiting much determination and the Indian Bureau is said to be in a ferment of excitement and terror. The custom of drawing supplies on a census furnished by the Indian agents is one peculiarly open to fraud, and the rumor is that the numbers of Indians entitled to clothing, rations and other allowances have been enormously overstated. By this means the Ring is supposed to have made vast sums of money, and no doubt, from the reckless character of those engaged in the nefarious business and the necessary extent of the combination, the frauds will be found to have been startlingly large in amount. It is also rumored that the Land Department has had its share in the robberies. Scrip supposed to have been issued for the Indians is alleged to have been used by the Ring. The land covered thereby would be stripped of its timber, and then by collusion in the Washington office the same scrip would be lifted from the stripped land and located on a fresh piece. These stories are by no means new, but the exposure and punishment of the delinquents would indeed be a novelty. The people will wish Secretary Schurz success in his good work.

Parties in Ohio.

Our special despatch from Cincinnati foreshadows the platforms upon which the two parties will present their candidates to the people of Ohio. It will be found that in the main the declarations will be the same on both sides, and but for the cheap luxury of denouncing the fraudulent character of President Hayes' election, in which the democrats will indulge, the several candidates might change sides without any loss of principle. The democrats will indorse the President's Southern policy as sound and as unavoidable, because growing out of the necessity of circumstances, and the republicans will do much the same. Indeed, the "necessity of circumstances" part of the indorsement might afford a good hint to the republicans as to a method of satisfying those of their party who are not disposed to be too enthusiastic over the Southern situation. The democrats will demand the silver dollar, but as an additional inflation and not as a substitute for the greenback, while the republicans will also demand the remonetization of silver, although, as our correspondent says, "as an additional help toward the speedy resumption of specie payments." However, as both parties will commit themselves to the repeal of the anti-silver law' the flimsy pretence of "speedy resumption" will scarcely frighten the inflation republicans from their party ticket, unless they have other and stronger motives for abandoning it.

We are not disposed to place reliance on the rumors of republican defection in Ohio. The people of that State are thrifty, and the republican portion of them will do their best in the first election since the Presidential contest to prove that they deserve some consideration at the hands of the administration. In all probability the election will be decided more by the personal character of the candidates put in nomination than by the principles advanced on their behalf. Platforms mean but little nowadays, and are getting more and more into disrepute. Horace Greeley, when he expressed his willingness to spit on the platform of his party, was only a little ahead of the rest of the world, as he was in most matters. Few people would hesitate to commit such an act of indignity now, for the time is rapidly approaching when the people will despise all platforms of principles that are not written on the foreheads of the candidates they are called upon to support.

AMUSEMENTS.

"WAVES" AT WALLACK'S THEATRE.

Another evidence of the magnanimity of the American public was found last night in the reception of Major Myers' drama of "Waves" at Wallack's. It was often applauded and the principal actors were repeatedly called before the curtain, but why these compliments were paid it is not easy to comprehend. Perhaps it was because of its extreme antiquity, for many persons are so faithful to the past that they prefer old acquaintances in the drama, as well as in real life, to new ones. This large class must have been delighted with "Waves," for it does not contain one situation, one character, one idea or line that cannot be found elsewhere. Among our old friends of boyhood's happy time we recognized the honest merchant who becomes a bankrupt, and afterward recovers his wealth from the gentlemanly villain, who, in the last act, is arrested by the English detective, assisted by the reformed burglar, who is supposed to marry the comic servant girl, while we are also gratified by the sight of the noble wife and grieved by the abduction of her infant child. We even see the good old dame Mrs. Malaprop, more eccentric than ever in her misuse of the English language. With these familiar personages it would be impossible to expect anything new in the way of a plot; but the author has managed to excite a certain kind of curiosity by dispensing altogether with a plot during the first part of the play. The first two acts are inscrutable, and the explanations in the last two sadly need to be explained themselves. The play is profoundly mysterious, and the only clear conception we gain of the story is that the forged draft was traced to the villain, while the will was found in the jewel box, that the revolver was loaded with priceless gems, that the aged banker got his house again, that the husband, who had not been seen throughout the play, returned just before the curtain fell, and that vice was punished and virtue rewarded in a manner to gratify the most exacting moralist in the gallery. If the literary merit of "Waves" was equal to its moral tone it would be one of the best plays of the century, but unfortunately this is not the case. The dialogue is destitute of fancy or wit, and full of repetitions. The drama was well set on the stage and fairly performed. Miss Lettie Allen is an actress of feeling and intelligence, but her deficiency of power was decidedly evident in the emotional scenes. Mme. Ponisi, as Mrs. Leslie, and Mrs. Baker, as the Mrs. Malaprop of the play, were admirable. Mr. J. B. Atwater ranted too much as Mr. Leslie, the merchant, and Messrs. Theodore Hamilton, W. R. Floyd and Thomas Whiffin were excellent in their respective parts.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC NOTES.

Miss Arabella Root will receive this evening at Chickering Hall a complimentary concert in recognition of her services to the poor of the city during the season. The entertainment will be brilliant, and she will be assisted by a number of eminent artists.

Mr. P. S. Gilmore has tendered the use of his band of seventy-five performers to the Commissioners of Charities and Correction, free of charge, for the purpose of giving a concert to the inmates of the hospitals on Blackwell's Island. The generous offer of Mr. Gilmore has been gratefully accepted, and the band will perform this afternoon, from two to five o'clock, at the Lunatic Asylum and the hospitals.

THE WAR.

Startling News from the Danube Hourly Expected.

BOMBARDMENT OF RUSTCHUK.

The Russian Army Ready to Break the Turkish Quadrilateral.

ROUMANIA SHALL BE FREE.

Hopeless Condition of the Turkish Defence.

ARMENIA VIRTUALLY LOST.

Threatened Revolution in Constantinople.

[BY CABLE TO THE HERALD.]

LONDON, June 12, 1877.

The special correspondent of the HERALD at Oreageuth telegraphs that the Russians commenced to bombard Rustchuk yesterday evening. Their batteries opened a vigorous cannonade at an early hour, and it was continued with little intermission throughout the entire day. The Turks returned the fire with interest, but the amount of damage done at either side is not yet known.

THE CROSSING OF THE DANUBE EXPECTED.

This bombardment of Rustchuk, taken in connection with the feints recently made by the Russians to cross the river and the general activity manifested at all points along their line, would seem to indicate an early attempt to force the passage of the Danube at two or more points. The attack may be expected at any moment, and the Turks are actively preparing for a vigorous resistance.

WHERE THEY WILL CROSS.

A special despatch from Vienna has the following:—"It would appear that the Russian points for crossing the Danube will be chosen east and west of the Turkish quadrilateral, and that while the eastern column keeps in check the Turkish forces massed in and about the fortresses, the western column will act as a field army operating against the flank or rear of the Turkish position.

THE ROADS.

"The line chosen for the operation of the western column is the most advantageous one, for along it lie some fair roads over the Balkans—one from Plevna to Sofia, and another from Sistora over the Sifka Pass, toward Philippopolis. Although the Turks are outnumbered by the Russians, and although with the greatest exertions they will scarcely be able to oppose anything like an equivalent force to the four corps concentrated by the Russians on that side, yet, by taking up a central position between Plevna and Bela, with the help of monitors and batteries, they may throw considerable obstacles in the way of crossing."

THE DANUBE SUDDENLY RISES.

A special despatch from Vienna says the Danube suddenly rose on Sunday, overflowing its banks. The rise was caused by the melting of snow and ice on the Carpathian Alps. This will again delay Russian operations.

PEACE TALK ALL NONSENSE.

The HERALD correspondent at Bucharest reports that the peace rumors which have been recently in circulation are entirely groundless. They would seem to have been founded upon the delay of the Russians in crossing the Danube; but this delay is now understood to be the result of the floods and other physical obstacles, which would have made the passage of the river an extremely hazardous undertaking. The chances of concluding a peace before fighting at least one or two decisive battles on the Turkish side of the Danube it is now known were never even considered by the Russians.

ROUMANIA SHALL BE EMANCIPATED.

The fact is pretty generally understood that Russia is determined to emancipate Bulgaria at all hazards from the rule of Turkey. It is said that the Czar has come to a perfect understanding with Germany and Ausrtia on this point. The only obstacle, therefore, would be the Turkish army, which the Russians undertake to give a good account of in a very short time.

DANGEROUS WORK.

The Vienna correspondent of the HERALD announces that on Friday last divers from the Turkish ships succeeded in picking up the torpedoes placed by the Russians in the Matchin Channel and at Lom Palauka, below Widdin. The Danube has been so thickly set with torpedoes by the Russians as to neutralize to a great extent the presence of the Turkish iron-clads.

THE EGYPTIAN CONTINGENT SAILS.

From Alexandria the HERALD correspondent sends the intelligence that the Egyptian contingent is at last beginning to start for Turkey. The Turkish war ships having arrived to escort the transports the Khedive has no further excuse for delay and 4,000 men of the contingent started for Constantinople yesterday, under the command of Prince Hassan, the Khedive's son.

IMPORTANT, BUT BRIEF.

Mukhtar Pacha, under date of June 10, telegraphs as follows:—"The garrison of Kars made a successful artillery sortie and pursued the enemy."

THE AGGRESSIVE MEASURES OF TURKEY.

The insurrection in the neighborhood of Soukgoom Kaleh, among the Circassians, is reported to be spreading. The Turkish commanders are vigorously attempting to cut the Russian communications.

THE SOFTAS AGAIN AT WORK.

The HERALD correspondent at Constantinople reports that the softas are again becoming troublesome, and the Porte, in addition to having a foreign war of immense proportions on its hands, has also to deal with internal disaffection, which may at any moment culminate in a bloody revolution. The influence of the softas over the populace is beyond all question, and if these troubles end in a triumph for the government it will be something almost without precedent in Constantinople.

PETITIONS AGAINST THE MINISTERS.

The government is endeavoring by vigorous repressive measures to stamp out the softa agitation against the present ministry. On Friday a number of unsigned petitions to the Sultan were seized by the police, which show that the friends of Midhat Pacha are still active and powerful. These petitions prayed for the speedy downfall of Redif Pacha, the Minister of War, and Mahmoud Pacha, the Sultan's father-in-law, on the ground of incompetency, but the usual demand for the recall of the exiled Midhat seems to have been left out.

HALF-HEARTED REPRESSION.

Ten softas, who are supposed to be the ringleaders of the agitation, were arrested, but it is not considered probable that the removal of such a small number of men will interfere materially with a movement which has evidently taken deep root among the population of the Turkish capital and counts sympathizers in almost every branch of the public service. The Ministry is obliged to temper its severity with discretion, and fears to inflict a punishment which, while intended to strike terror, might result in provoking a popular uprising which would sweep the government out of existence.

ANOTHER TURKISH LOAN.

On Sunday the Turkish Chamber of Deputies voted a loan to be raised within the Empire. The Porte is at its wits' end to raise the necessary funds to carry on the war, and the resources of the country have been drained to the utmost. The HERALD correspondent compares the Turkish Empire to a sucked orange. It is not thought probable that any more money can be raised by loan.

TURKISH RETRENCHMENT.

The Chamber of Deputies have voted the credits required by the Ministries of War and Marine, and adopted a resolution in favor of suppressing a number of superfluous posts in various departments.

SAD PLIGHT OF THE TURKS IN ARMENIA.

Private accounts received in Constantinople from Erzeroum represent the Turkish army in Armenia as being in a sad condition. It is ill clothed, ill fed and badly commanded, and the only thing to make up for these very important deficiencies is the fact that it is well armed. The Turk, when fighting against the infidel, can endure many hardships without murmuring; but the most indomitable patience and spirit can scarcely counterbalance the absence of the most necessary requirements of an army, especially when opposed to superior numbers, organization and discipline.

RETREATING BEFORE THE RUSSIANS.

The Turks are rapidly retreating before the Russians in Armenia, and are evidently determined not to risk a general engagement, if possible, under such disadvantageous conditions. Erzeroum is not expected to hold out six weeks, and its occupation by the Russians is a foregone conclusion. The Turkish civil authorities of the city have already withdrawn, and a feeling of the greatest despondency prevails.

NO HOPE FOR TURKEY ON THE DANUBE.

Private reports from the Army of the Danube received in the Turkish capital are of the most discouraging nature. The spirit of the men is good and they are well armed, but there is no organization, and little hope is entertained of offering an effectual resistance to the Russian advance. A stubborn fight will doubtless be made, and heavy losses inflicted on the Russians; but one or two decisive battles must result in making the Czar master of the greater portion of Bulgaria. The prospect is gloomy in the extreme.

TAILORS AND DIPLOMATISTS.

At the Banquet of the Merchant Tailors' School last evening Lords Derby and Salisbury made speeches in which they assumed a remarkably pacific tone. The Marquis of Salisbury said:—"I am far myself from sharing many of the apprehensions which I hear around me. It may be our duty in possible contingencies to put forth our strength to defend indirect interests, but when I say this I would recommend that when any one comes to you with a tale of our indirect interests being threatened to cross-examine them before you believe their statements. Caution, and extreme caution, is necessary before the government risks wealth prosperity and freedom, and breaks the peace of the world not in pursuit of real honor, but for a theory and a dream. It has generally been acknowledged to be madness to go to war for an idea, but if anything it is yet more unsatisfactory to go to war against a nightmare. I will not say that we have an enemy, although it is generally supposed that this war has been concocted against English interests. I believe it may be looked at in another light. Be steadfast and calm. Do not mistake panic for real danger or phantoms for realties. But if real danger arises, if our interests are threatened, we will effectually defend them at any cost.

Lord Derby said he could only repeat the Marquis of Salisbury's excellent arguments—after all, we must remember this that the greatest of all British interests is the interest of peace.

RUSSIA'S ENERGY NOT RELAXED.

The correspondent of the Times at Berlin sends the following:—Orders have been issued by the Russian government to accelerate as much as possible the levy of 218,000 men. Despite this the opinion continues to prevail here that Russia wishes to settle with Turkey on the basis of the nominal integrity of Turkey in Europe and that some such settlement will be advocated by powerful persons at Constantinople if the Russians succeed in crossing the Danube and assuming an energetic offensive in Bulgaria.

ROUMANIA AND THE WAR.

Prime Minister Bratiano, accompanied by the Minister of Foreign Affairs, has gone to Ploejesti to make definite arrangements concerning Roumanian participation in military operations.

The question whether the Roumanian army is to take an active part in the war seems to have been decided in the negative. The forces now mostly concentrated in Little Wallachia are to maintain, at any rate for the present, their defensive attitude confronting Widdin and forming the extreme right of the Russian army.

SERVIA TRIMMING.

The Times' Belgrade correspondent states that, in order to avoid all occasion for collision with the Porte, Servia has cancelled the mission of M. Marinovics, who was appointed to wait upon the Czar at Ploiesti. Nevertheless, Servia seems to be preparing for war. The militia is everywhere drilling, and severe punishments are inflicted on deserters. It is announced that the Empress of Russia has sent 300 Napoleons to alleviate the extreme distress among refugees at Alexinatz and in Southern Servia, where people are dying from want.

MORE MONEY FOR SERVIA.

A Berlin special says Slavonic journals state that the Moscow Slavonic Committee has just sent considerable sums of money to Belgrade. An insurrection is expected in the Turkish province of Old Servia.

AN AMERICAN TAKEN PRISONER.

A special from Sulina reports that one of the prisoners taken by the Turks at the repulse of the torpedo boat attack on the Turkish iron-clads is an American.

THE BULGARIAN LEGION.

The Bulgarian Legion in Roumania now numbers 10,000 men. A special despatch from Ploejesti says the Bulgarians are reluctant to enter the Legion, half of which is composed of foreigners, especially Servians.

FOUR RUSSIAN STEAM LAUNCHES SUNK.

Admiral Mustapha states that five Russian torpedo boats were destroyed in the attack made on the Turkish iron-clads at the Sulina mouth of the Danube.

THE MONTENEGRIN CAMPAIGN.

A telegram in the Political Correspondence from Cattaro reports that all the Turkish forces near Krstaz are concentrating and preparing for an attack for the relief of Nicsics.

POTI DESERTED.

Under date of May 28 Lloyds' agent in Poti writes:—"The town of Poti is deserted. The shops are closed and the inhabitants have fled to the interior. Only a few soldiers remain to oppose the landing of Circassians from the Turkish transports."

TOO MANY BY HALF.

A letter from Bucharest says there are 320 newspaper correspondents in Roumania.

A MISTAKE.

The Political Correspondence of Vienna has a telegram from St. Petersburg denying that Prince Gortschakoff has obtained leave of absence for a six weeks' tour.

THE PORTE WANTS TO KNOW.

A special from Constantinople affirms that the Turkish Minister at Athens has received a despatch ordering him to ask for an explanation of the war preparations. The despatch, however, has not yet been presented to the Greek Cabinet.

GREECE STILL THREATENS.

The partial insurrectionary movements in Epirus and Thessaly are assuming a more decided character.

CRETE SHALL BE FREE.

A telegram from Athens says:—"The Porte having finally rejected the demands of the Cretan Assembly the Christian population of Crete are now firmly resolved to defend their rights by force of arms. A general rising is expected."

OFFICIAL DENIAL OF MASSACRES.

NEW YORK, June 11, 1877.

Aristarchi Bey, the Turkish Minister, furnishes to the Associated Press the following telegram from Constantinople:—"Some journals have pretended that Christians have recently been massacred on the Danube, in Bosnia and Thessaly. These reports are without foundation."

INDUSTRY OF TURKEY.

THE SYSTEM OF OBTAINING REVENUE—METHOD OF TAXATION ON AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS—THE TRADE WITH THE UNITED STATES.

WASHINGTON, June 11, 1877.

In the course of a report on the trade and industry of the Turkish Empire, prepared by Eugene Schuyler, Consul General at Constantinople, for embodiment in the forthcoming annual report of the Secretary of State on our commercial relations, the following graphic description is given of one of the Turkish systems of obtaining revenue:—

The taxes form the great obstacle to agricultural improvement in Turkey. Besides an impost of four per thousand on the value of real estate and four per cent on its revenue, the tithes are very onerous. Nominally they are ten per cent, except when an additional half or quarter is imposed; in reality they sometimes amount to twenty-five or thirty per cent, as they are usually collected by tithe farmers who greatly oporess the people. The peasant, after having reaped his crop, must leave it on the ground until the tithe farmer comes and takes the large sheaf out of every ten. These sheaves the peasants must bring to the common threshing floor at their own expense and must then thresh them. In this way the carts and oxen and the threshing floor of a village are sometimes occupied for all the good autumn weather, then the peasants will be lucky if they be not compelled themselves to carry the grain of the tax farmer to market. In many cases the grain rots on the field before the tax farmer arrives. By law the tithe farmers and their guards must pay their own expenses, but this is rarely done. The party live for weeks at the cost of the peasants, demanding a receipt that they have paid in full before they estimate the harvest. The peasant submits in order to avoid greater loss. Add to this the taxes on cattle, the oppressive land law, the bad roads and the difficulties thrown in the way of introducing machines, and it is easy to understand the standstill of agriculture here.

TRADE OF CONSTANTINOPLE.

In the same report appears a statement of the trade of Constantinople with this country for the year ended June 30, 1876, showing that the total imports from the United States amounted to $2,655,426, and that the total exports to this country were valued at $154,248. The articles imported were valued as follows:—

Rifles	$1,515,888
Carbines	26,136
Ammunition	922,020
Petroleum	187,571
All others	3,811
Total	$2,655,426

This was an increase of $940,637 as compared with the preceding year.

EXPORTS TO UNITED STATES.

The principal items of the exports to the United States were:—

Opium, about	$52,000
Ottar of roses	43,000
Rags	21,000
Rugs	6,000
And miscellaneous "bazaar articles"	17,000
Total	$139,000

During the year only seven American vessels cleared from the port of Constantinople as against no less than 2,134 British vessels, 1,732 of which were steamers.

JEALOUSY AND VENGEANCE.

A WIFE KILLED AND HER SUPPOSED PARAMOUR SHOT PROBABLY FATALLY.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

GARRET CITY, Ind., via CHICAGO, June 11, 1877.

A terrible domestic tragedy occurred in this place at a late hour last night. One George Nevins, a well-to-do citizen, returning home under the influence of liquor, commenced to quarrel with his wife, whom he accused of being too intimate with one Charles Thomas, a clerk in a hotel here. It is said that Mrs. Nevins in her fright made a confession that such was the truth, whereupon her husband knocked her down and inflicted wounds with a knife from the effects of which she died to-day. After committing this deed he went to the hotel and fired one or two pistol shots at Thomas, one of which took effect, and the wound is considered dangerous. Nevins is now under arrest.

CHICAGO'S COURT HOUSE RING.

STARTLING DEVELOPMENTS OF MUNICIPAL FRAUD AND PECULATION.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

CHICAGO, Ill., June 11, 1876.

The work of investigation into the fraudulent contracts relating to the construction of the new county Court House daily reveal the most startling facts of enormous swindling on every hand, and before the investigation is completed it is safe to say that a number of other commissioners besides those who have already been indicted for the crime of defrauding the county in various ways will also be before the Grand Jury in the same unfavorable light. The building is nearly completed, and another investigation will no doubt reveal the knowledge of the most gigantic frauds ever perpetrated upon the people of this city.

FIRE IN PATERSON.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

PATERSON DEPOT, N. J., June 11, 1877.

A fire occurred here to-night that threatened for awhile to be a general conflagration. It was evidently the work of an incendiary, the flames bursting up at once from the four corners of the Danforth coal shed, near the Morris Canal. The place stands as high as the reservoir and no water could be got from the near hydrants. Sparks flew in showers and threatened a thousand houses, which were only saved by their inhabitants continually wetting the roofs. Many partially moved out their furniture and much excitement prevailed. The whole Fire Department was called out. One thousand spectators were on the ground. There came near being a panic in the Opera House from the sudden alarm. Many rushed out. One lady fainted, but none were seriously hurt. By the most strenuous exertions the fire was prevented from spreading, and the loss is probably not over $2,000. The whole neighborhood is thickly built with frame structures.

DESTRUCTIVE STORM.

CINCINNATI, June 11, 1877.

The Commercial's Leroy (Ill.) despatch says a terrific hail storm swept over that portion of McLean county to-day. In a few moments the ground was covered several inches deep with hailstones as large as pigeons' eggs. Great damage must inevitably result to corn and fruit. In many places the trees are stripped almost bare of foliage and fruit. The severe rains and cold of the past few days are doing much injury to all kinds of crops.

FLOODS IN NEBRASKA.

OMAHA, June 11, 1877.

The Elkhorn River continues very high, overflowing the cotton lands and damaging the crops, as well as preventing planting. The Missouri River is now seven feet one inch, and is still rising. The bottoms are entirely overflowed. The railroad company has been obliged to move its engines and cars from the shops to the high ground. Reports from above show at least six inches more coming.

FLOODS IN TENNESSEE.

MEMPHIS, June 11, 1877.

A flood in Wolf River has caused a break of over one mile in length on the Memphis and Louisville Railroad, and now there are no trains running on either of the five roads leading out of this city. The damage on the Little Rock Railroad will be repaired to-day and trains are expected to go out this evening.

LANDS OVERFLOWED IN ARKANSAS.

LITTLE ROCK, June 11, 1877.

The town of Argenta, opposite this city, is entirely overflowed, including the depots of the Memphis and Little Rock and Fort Smith railroads. The river is three feet deep near the depot. On the opposite side the plantations above and below not entirely above the danger line are overflowed. The levee of Zeb. Ward, protecting over 1,000 acres of cotton and corn above the city, broke this evening, submerging the whole. Old citizens say the present is as high a rise as any ever known here. The worst is not yet known. The river is higher by eighteen inches than last year.

THE MISSOURI RIVER.

OMAHA, Neb., June 11, 1877.

The river has risen here about twelve inches since Saturday, and is now seventeen feet six inches. It is about stationary at Sioux City, there having been no change since Saturday. At Yankton it has risen five inches and is falling at Bismarck.

THE CANADIANS IN ROME.

Medals from the Pope for American Catholic Ladies.

DEFEAT OF THE ROMAN CLERICALS

Public Instruction in Germany.

GENERAL GRANT'S ENGAGEMENTS.

[BY CABLE TO THE HERALD.]

LONDON, June 12, 1877.

The HERALD correspondent in Rome telegraphs that forty-three Irish-Canadian pilgrims arrived in that city yesterday and are stopping at the Minerva Hotel.

HALTING AT LOURDES.

They halted one day on their journey through France for the purpose of making a pilgrimage to Lourdes, and they attended mass and received communion in the chapel of the famous grotto. They also presented several valuable offerings at the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes, and then proceeded on their way to Rome.

MEDALS FOR AMERICAN LADIES.

Yesterday His Holiness gave a number of medals commemorative of the Jubilee, to be presented to a number of American ladies in recognition of their services in representing the American Catholics on that occasion. Among the ladies thus honored are Mrs. Sherman, of Washington; Mrs. Patterson, of St. Louis, and Mrs. Sayter, of New Orleans. Mr. Esling, of Philadelphia, was also given a medal, and will convey the others to the United States and present them to the ladies on the Pope's behalf.

THE ROMAN ELECTIONS.

The municipal elections in Rome came off yesterday and the contest between the clericals or ultramontanes on the one hand and the united liberals and radicals on the other was very exciting. The full strength of both parties was put forth and no effort was spared to secure success.

TRIUMPH FOR THE LIBERALS.

The result is a triumph for the liberal and radical coalition. Not a single clerical candidate was elected, and the utter defeat of the party at this juncture, when so much is said about a strong reaction in favor of ultramontanism, is of peculiar significance.

A SIGNIFICANT FACT.

The majority against the clericals was over one thousand, notwithstanding the fact that the whole influence of the clergy was exerted on the masses of the population. This is the most crushing blow the clerical party has received in Rome for many years, for at previous elections many of the party abstained from voting, and it was naturally imagined that if these abstentionists could be brought to the polls the result would be disastrous to the liberals. The present contest has settled that question.

GENERAL GRANT IN ENGLAND.

General Grant has accepted an invitation to a fête which is to be given at the Alexandra Palace on June 19.

CRUSHING THE LEFT.

The Paris France asserts that the French government have resolved to prohibit the projected plenary meeting of the groups of the Left before the reassembling of the chambers.

PUBLIC INSTRUCTION IN GERMANY.

A special despatch from Berlin says:—"A bill introducing a new system of public instruction in Prussia, which is to remodel the famous institutions dating from the beginning of this century, has just been completed by a special commission. By the new bill the classical tendency of liberal instruction will be somewhat modified, while regarding elementary instruction advantage has been derived from American experience of the free school system."

AN ALTERCATION BETWEEN SAILORS.

The Berlin Reichsanzeiger states that official intelligence has been received from Yokohama, June 5, that an affray had taken place between some men belonging to the German man-of-war Elizabeth and a party of French sailors. One of the latter was killed and two mortally wounded. The provocation, apparently, came from the Frenchmen. Steps have been taken to institute a searching and impartial inquiry into this lamentable occurrence.

GERMANY'S GOOD INTENTIONS.

The Messager de Paris announces that Prince Hohenlohe, the German Ambassador, gave the French government on Sunday the most satisfactory assurances of Germany's pacific intentions.

HIS IMPERIAL HIGHNESS.

The Grand Duke Alexis has arrived at Paris from Brest.

A THAMES BOAT RACE.

A boat race took place on the Thames yesterday for $1,000 a side between T. Blackman and John Higgins. The latter won on a foul. The course was from Putney to Mortlake.

THE PAINTER OF "QUATRE BRAS."

Miss Elizabeth Thompson, the well known painter, was married yesterday to Major William Butler. The ceremony was performed by His Eminence Cardinal Manning.

MEXICO.

THE LERDISTA CAMPAIGN TO RECOVER THE PRESIDENCY—PRONUNCIAMENTOS FOR THE CENTRAL STATES—ESCOBEDO'S PLAN OF OPERATIONS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 11, 1877.

General Escobedo, accompanied by his son, Colonel Escobedo, arrived here Saturday night to confer with General Mejia. An agent of the Lerdo government left for Vera Cruz on the Sunday steamer, carrying pronunciamentos to be distributed in the central States. This proclamation calls upon the people to rally around Lerdo as the only legal constitutional President. It denounces Diaz as a usurper who, while pretending to uphold the constitution of 1857, threw it overboard and had himself declared President.

Escobedo leaves for San Antonio to-morrow, and it is positively stated a movement will take place in a few days.

NO AMERICANS WANTED.

It is positively denied, however, that any American assistance will be used, General Escobedo declaring that this is a Mexican fight, and one only in which they should take part. If Americans were used the Diaz party would raise the cry that it was an American invasion in the interests of this government, which would cause all Mexico to be aroused against Lerdo.

THE LERDISTA PLAN.

The present plan is for General Escobedo, with only several hundred Mexicans, already recruited in Mexico, to raise the Lerdo standard on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande. The personal popularity of Escobedo and the cause it is expected will gain enough adherents for a start, after which recruits will be easily obtained. Efforts have been made to purchase arms and ammunition, a large amount of which has already been sent. Before the 1st of July look out for stirring events on the Rio Grande.

REPORTED LERDISTA SUCCESS IN ACAPULCO—THE DIAZ GOVERNOR CAPTURED AND SHOT.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11, 1877.

The steamer Newbern, from Mazatlan the 3d inst., brings a report that Alvarez, formerly Governor of Acapulco, who was deposed by Jiminez, a partisan of Diaz, has declared for Lerdo and defeated Jiminez in an engagement; and that the latter was captured and shot. This occurrence is reported to have taken place May 9, which throws doubt on the report, as the Costa Rica brought news from Acapulco to the 20th ult.

On Sunday last Señor Canadas was elected President of the State of Durango.

GENERAL ESCOBEDO ABOUT TO OPEN OPERATIONS ON THE RIO GRANDE—NEW LAREDO TO BE ATTACKED BY HIS FORCES.

GALVESTON, June 11, 1877.

The News' special from Laredo says General Escobedo and Colonel Sain, of his staff, arrived here yesterday. General Escobedo has not yet made his appearance in public, but his staff officer is actively engaged organizing a force to attack New Laredo, opposite this place. Two hundred men are reported to be enrolled. Colonel Quintera will command the attacking party. The DIAZ officials are much alarmed. Colonel Estrada, the commandant, who is absent, has been hastily summoned to his post and 150 regulars have been ordered to New Laredo from Piedras Negras.

CUBA.

POSTAL TREATIES WITH THE UNITED STATES DISREGARDED.

HAVANA, June 10, Via KEY WEST, June 11, 1877.

The Havana Post Office officials set at defiance the provisions of the international postal treaty of Berne, and continue to charge extra postage of about twenty-five cents in gold coin upon letters prepaid in the United States, and which should be delivered here postage free.

This, of course, is in violation of the treaty entered into by the mother country.

HEATED TERM ON THE PACIFIC.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11, 1877.

Unusual heat has prevailed in this city and throughout the State for several days past. At various points in the interior the thermometer has ranged from 95 to 115 in the shade. The atmosphere has been very dry, and during a portion of the time a north wind has prevailed, doing some damage to wheat, though on the whole but little injury was reported. In this city the heat reached the unusual degree of 90 to 99. A fatal case of sunstroke, that of a railway laborer, has been reported from South Vallejo. He had been drinking ice water freely.

PROBABLE MURDER.

FORT FAIRFIELD, Me., June 11, 1877.

The body of Thomas Underwood was found in the woods near Little River on Friday last. The head was crushed and the body otherwise mutilated. It is supposed that he was murdered.

OBITUARY.

THOMAS B. STIRLING, M. D.

Thomas B. Stirling, a well known physician, died suddenly at his residence, in Spring street, on Sunday night. He was a member of the New York Academy of Medicine, the Medico-Legal Society and the County Medical Society. His funeral will take place to-morrow, in St. John's Church, Varick street.

MGR. FELIX FOURNIER, BISHOP OF NANTES.

A cable despatch from Rome says that Mgr. Felix Fournier, Bishop of Nantes, France, has died in that city. The deceased bishop had a rather remarkable career. Born of a family of colonists in St. Domingo he was educated in France, and, having concluded his classical studies, was appointed Professor of Literature and Philosophy at the Seminary of Nantes. Subsequently he entered the priesthood and became Vicar of St. Nicolas. Later he became editor of the Union de Nantes and under the régime of Louis Philippe was a strong partisan of the legitimist opposition. After the revolution of February, 1848, he was elected to the Chamber by a large majority, and his election was the signal for terrible riots by the workingmen of the city. He voted generally with the Right, but after the election of Louis Napoleon as President he sustained the policy of the latter. After his promotion to the episcopacy he seldom meddled in politics, but was always a vigorous defender of the principles of the ultramontane party.

THE DIVORCE RECORD.

Ann Stallknecht, as administratrix of her dead husband, Charles Stallknecht, brought in the Supreme Court, in this city, a suit to recover damages to the extent of $30,000 against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. It was alleged against the company, as the basis of the suit, that through the carelessness of the defendants' officers a collision of its trains occured and her husband was killed. The act took place in the State of New Jersey, under whose laws a suit is permitted by the legal representatives of the deceased person when such death is caused by wrongful act, neglect or default, provided such action be brought within one year after the death. The suit came on for trial before Judge Van Brunt, in the Special Term of the Court, and the complaint was demurred to on the ground that the action could not be maintained in the courts of this State. The Judge, in his opinion rendered yesterday, after reviewing all the cases cited to sustain the demurrer, concludes as follows:—"It appears from the allegations in the complaint in this action that the act of New Jersey is in entire consonance with the policy of the State of New York as declared by its acts of 1847 and 1849. Such being the case, none of the reasoning of the Massachusetts and Ohio cases can apply to the case at bar, but, upon the contrary, they expressly sustain the reasoning of Judge Denio in the case mentioned. The rule, therefore, to be deduced from the cases cited seems to be that causes of action of the kind set forth in the complaint in this action are not recognized by the common law, and that statutes of any particular State giving such rights of action have no extra territorial jurisdiction; that causes of action of this character arising under statutes of one State may be enforced in another State, provided it is made to appear that the maintenance of such causes of action is in conformity with the policy of the State in which the action is brought and are recognized by the laws of that State. It follows, therefore, that the demurrer must be overruled, the defendants to have leave to answer upon payment of costs."

MR. DELMONICO IN COURT.

Mr. Delmonico, of restaurant fame, in 1875 discovered, as he alleges, a ring formed among his waiters organized for the purpose of defrauding him of sums of money by the old system of "knocking down." Mr. Delmonico employed Detective George F. Dilks to "spot" the more prominent of the suspected parties, and supplied him with marked money for his use to order refreshments and with which to pay the waiter attending on him. On the 19th of November, 1875, Conrad Ackerman, a waiter in the restaurant, received $3 for Dilks' breakfast in the marked money. After some time it was ascertained that Ackerman made no return of this money, after which he was arrested, and the marked money found on him. Mr. Delmonico asked Ackerman for his bank books, which he promised to give up. The detective went to Ackerman's residence, where the bank books were procured. They then proceeded to the Metropolitan Savings Bank and to the Bowery Savings Bank, but payment was refused, as the deposits were in Mrs. Ackerman's name. Ackerman then went after his wife, and they both repaired to the banks in question and drew therefrom $1,968, which they took to Delmonico's. There was also a deposit in the Seamen's Savings Bank which it was too late to draw out that day. A consultation was then held, when Ackerman confessed to having taken $500, and no more, of Mr. Delmonico's money. Mr. Delmonico charged him with having taken a much larger amount, and gave Ackerman to understand he knew the manner and amount of his peculations, when Ackerman confessed to "knocking down" $1,000, but said some of the money represented by the bank books was his wife's saving. In the Seamen's Savings Bank there was a sum of over $1,000, which was to go to Mrs. Ackerman. Ackerman then gave over the $1,968, which he acknowledged to have embezzled. Mrs. Ackerman subsequently demanded the return of the $1,968, which she had jointly surrendered, as she claims, under threats that Mr. Delmonico would prosecute and imprison her husband on the charge of stealing the marked money, $3. On the trial yesterday brought in the Marine Court, Part 3, before Judge Sinnott, the defendant, Mr. Delmonico, testified as to his manner of doing business, and on this point he said that although he knew that Ackerman went to Europe on the proceeds of his peculations from him, he took him again into his employ in the expectation of compelling him to refund some of the alleged stealings. Counsel for the plaintiff made the point that Mr. Delmonico compounded a felony and was himself liable to criminal prosecution therefor—in settling the matter with Ackerman in the first instance. John D. Townsend appeared for Mrs. Ackerman and Mr. Larocque for the defendant. Case still on.

OLD WHISKEY CASES.

On motion of Assistant United States District Attorney Foster yesterday, in the United States Circuit Court, by authority of the Attorney General of the United States, nolle prosequis were entered, by order of Judge Benedict, in the cases of the following defendants, indicted in 1872 for alleged "crooked" whiskey transactions, the indictments in some cases being defective and the evidence being insufficient in others:—

Norman M. Finley, Edward Innis, Richard K. Holden, Samuel Secor, Ephraim Miller, Marcus Levi, Nicholas Henri, Jacob Fox, John M. Hudner, William H. Lynch, William Chambers, Thomas O'Callaghan, Samuel H. Lyons, Leopold Seldner, Leopold Korn, Lewis Seldner, James W. Carroll, Philip H. Tuska, M. Goldman, John Merbank, Bernhard Kupter, Jacob Engelhardt, George F. Green, W. H. McCarthy, Abraham Dreifuss, Leopold Haas, E. Leipsiger, Solomon N. Sonneborn, James F. Dezendorf, Max Berringer, James E. Coulter, Joseph Moon, John McQuade, Calvin E. Pratt, Joseph Kugelman, Henry Richard, Henry Frank, Samuel Brehm, Morris Prince, Joseph Bacharach, Simon Herman, Peter Stafford, Frank Stafford, Michael Stafford, Stephen Stafford, Joseph Campbell, Cornelius Campbell, Daniel McCarthy, John D. Ottwell, Edward M. Tyler, Michael J. Farrell, Thomas E. Smith, James Marshall, William H. Andrews, Charles Johnson, Samuel Brower, George Hoffman, Curtis P. Upton, Samuel N. Pike, Joseph Filmer, John Griffiths, James F. Steinfeldt, George W. Kidd, Moritz Augustine, Samuel Boehn, Simon Herman, James McElroy, Peter McArdle, Ethan L. Watson, George D. Craig, S. Nuedlinger, John C. Tallman, Norris Loge, Jacob Englebardt, Henry Wood, John Osborn and William H. Craig.

THE GARBAGE WAR.

There has already appeared in the HERALD from time to time full reports of the conflict which existed some time past between the Brooklyn and New York authorities as to the right of the latter to dump the city garbage in the lower bay and the assumed right of the former to stop it. The conflict of authority was for a time put at rest by a temporary injunction against the Brooklyn authorities. The suit in which that temporary order was made was brought in the name of The Mayor and Commonalty of the city of New York against Winchester Britton, the District Attorney of Kings county, Mr. Ferguson, the Shore Inspector, and the Police Commissioners, and in the complaint a permanent injunction was asked for restraining all the defendants from interfering with the dumping rights of New York. The case came before Judge Donohue, in Supreme Court, Special Term, yesterday, on a motion on behalf of defendants to dismiss the complaint on the ground that the action could not be maintained. On the part of District Attorney Britton it was argued by himself that it was absurd to seek to perpetually restrain a district attorney from performing his duty in prosecuting violations of the law. On the part of the others it was argued by the same officer that Ferguson, the inspector, was a State officer, performing only his duty under the law, his right to do which could not be doubted. The fact of the garbage being a nuisance in New York gave no right, he said, to transfer it to a place under the equally sensitive noses of the people of Brooklyn.

The act under which the Brooklyn authorities had acted in the matter was passed in 1875, and this act, it was contended on the part of the city of New York by Mr. McLean, counsel to the Police Commissioners, was unconstitutional. This was denied on the part of the Brooklyn authorities, and both sides were allowed the privilege of handing in briefs on this point, the Court reserving its decision in the meantime.

THE CROW CONSPIRACY.

There has already appeared exclusively in the HERALD, in advance of the trial being reached, a report of an alleged conspiracy between a number of merchants in the Western part of this State, of whom William A Smith was alleged to be the head and Moses R. Crow the tool, to defraud New York merchants. The case was reached for trial and was continued several days during last term, before Judge Lawrence and a jury, in Supreme Court, Circuit, but owing to the sudden illness of the Judge was then discontinued. Yesterday the trial was commenced over again before Judge Barrett and a jury in Part 1 of the Court. This suit, which is but one out of nine or ten others brought by different firms in this city against the same parties, is brought by the firm of William C. Browning & Co. to recover a balance on goods sold to Crow, amounting to $2,600. The suit is prosecuted by Messrs. Armstrong & Briggs, of this city, and Smith, who is the chief and most responsible defendant, is defended by J. W. Dinning, of Addison. The case excites considerable interest, it is asserted, on the part of the plaintiffs, not only among merchants in this city, but elsewhere in this State and in the State of Pennsylvania, where the parties have been known and have had dealings. Master Crow, comparatively a youth and presenting no indications of unusual viciousness or cunning, was on the witness stand yesterday, and by his testimony confirmed the story as it has already appeared in the HERALD. The case will, in all probability, occupy a week or more.

A DEAD MINSTREL'S PROPERTY.

George Harrington, better known as George Christy, and his wife Hannah, were at one time during the life of the now long dead minstrel the owners of a small piece of property in this city. George confessed a judgment to Benjamin Wood, under which the property was sold. That judgment was subsequently set aside, and now Mrs. Harrington has sued Mr. Wood to recover from him her interest in the property, estimated at $1,300, which she claims to have lost by the sale. The defendant interposed a demurrer to the complaint on the ground that it did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. A decision was rendered on this demurrer yesterday by Judge Van Hoesen in Common Pleas, Special Term. He says the complaint is by no means artistically drawn, but that with great care he has been able to "spell out" a cause of action in it. He, therefore, overrules the demurrer, but with leave to the defendant to put in an answer on payment of the accrued costs.

THE DIVORCE RECORD.

In the suit of Thomas E. Crimmins against Jennie C. Crimmins, his wife, the particulars of which have already appeared in the HERALD, a decision was rendered yesterday, in Supreme Court, Chambers, by Judge Barrett, on the conflicting affidavits submitted to him in favor of and in opposition to the application of the father to get possession of the only child of the parties to the suit. The Judge says:—"Without attempting to minutely analyze these very conflicting affidavits or to determine at present upon the weight of testimony, it is sufficient to say that there are evidently two sides to the case, and that the truth can only be ascertained, not by ex parte statements, but by a cross-examination of the witnesses. Let it be referred, therefore, to a referee to take proof, which may be offered upon the charges and countercharges contained in the papers now before me, with liberty to cross-examine each of the witnesses who may be produced on either side, and to report thereon, with his opinion, with all convenient speed." Mr. George Putnam Smith is suggested as referee.

In the case of Herman Brandshagan against Anna Brandshagan, in which he charges her with a violation of her marital vows, and to which she makes no answer, Judge Donohue, in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday made an order sending the case before Philo T. Ruggles, as referee, to take testimony as to the plaintiff's charges.

In the suit of John against Hannah Paisley, for divorce, application was made on behalf of the wife to Judge Donohue, in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, for an order directing her husband to pay her a weekly allowance of alimony. The Judge referred the case to William A. Boyd to take testimony as to the amount proper to be allowed.

In the divorce suit of James R. Hepburn against Margaret Hepburn, Judge Van Hoesen, in Common Pleas, Special Term, yesterday rendered a decision refusing to amend the order of reference. It appeared on the papers that the application was not made until the conclusion of a long reference, and the confirmation of the referee's report was about to be moved for.

In the case of Robert Cushing against Catharine Cushing, to obtain a divorce, on the ground of adultery, in which a motion was made, a few days since, for an allowance of alimony to the wife, and on which occasion the attorney for the wife was charged with offering to "step aside" from the case if the husband paid him a certain sum of money, the accused attorney, Mr. William Riley, handed to Judge Gilbert, yesterday, an affidavit of flat denial of the charge. He not only denies it, but asserts that Cushing came to him with the offer, which he promptly refused and ordered Cushing out of his office. The latter, Mr. Riley says, retired uttering threats against him if he continued the prosecution of the suit.

SUMMARY OF LAW CASES.

The Court of Oyer and Terminer, which had been adjourned to yesterday, was formally opened by Judge Donohue and adjourned for the term, there being no business before it. The next term will not be held until October next.

In the suit of Morgan Jones to recover rent from the city, the particulars of which have already appeared in the HERALD, Judge Donohue, in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday denied a motion on behalf of the plaintiff to have the case sent to a referee.

In the suit of Simon Friedberg against Isaac Stern to recover $5,000 damages for having been assaulted by Stern in his (Stern's) store on Sixth avenue, the particulars of which have already appeared in the HERALD, a sealed verdict was rendered yesterday in favor of plaintiff for $300.

Judge Barrett, in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday made an order appointing Elliott F. Shepard, Nevin W. Butler and Louis Mesier, commissioners of estimate and assessment for the opening of 127th street from the "north side of Lawrence street to a certain road."

In the case of Francis Covert, indicted for forgery, a motion was made in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, by his counsel, Mr. John M. Flynn, to have the trial removed from the Court of General Sessions to the Court of Oyer and Terminer. Judge Westbrook found the application to be in conformity with the statute and granted it.

In the matter of the estate of Martin Walsh, deceased, Mrs. Mary Hamilton yesterday presented a petition to Surrogate Calvin on behalf of the minor children of the deceased Walsh. In it she represents that the children are suffering for the necessaries of life, and that John O'Brien, the executor of the will of the deceased, holds adverse possession of the property that was left to the children. Mrs. Hamilton is the aunt and guardian of the children, and O'Brien, the executor, is a grand nephew of the deceased. Counsel for O'Brien, in reply, stated that the whole matter relating to the estate was before a referee, whose decision he must be bound by. Under these circumstances the Surrogate dismissed the petition.

In the suit of Catharine Nesta Ennismore (Countess Heinruch) against the executor of the late Dan Marley, recently tried in Supreme Court, Special Term, before Judge Van Brunt, John S. Craft testified that be would not believe the Countess on oath. She immediately commenced a suit against Craft to recover $5,000 for defamation of character. In Supreme Court, Chambers, a motion was made to compel the Countess to give security for costs as a non-resident. Yesterday Judge Gilbert, before whom the motion was made, denied it.

DECISIONS.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

By Judge Donohue.

Weld vs. Strong; DePyster vs. Beekman; Braudshagen vs. Braudshagen; Gebhardt vs. Limbert.—Granted.

Paisley vs. Paisley.—Referred to W. A. Boyd to fix amount.

Jones vs. The Mayor, &c.—Motion denied. See memorandum.

Griffin vs. Taylor; Washington Life Insurance Company vs. Tupper et al.—Orders granted.

By Judge Barrett.

Low vs. Ramsey.—Orders as settled.

Jackson vs. Kitchen and another.—The adjustment of costs is affirmed and the order is settled.

Richardson vs. Clark.—By mistake of fact the plaintiff has sold the interest of the defendant in property which had been previously conveyed. Thus nothing was sold, and it requires no citation of authority to show that a judgment and execution cannot be thus satisfied. But the cases are all one way, holding that relief will be granted. In some of them there had been misrepresentations. The decisions, however, are not placed upon that ground, but upon the broad principle that in reality there had been no satisfaction. At one time it was held that relief could only be afforded upon bills filed, but a long current of later authorities uphold the power and the right to grant relief upon motion.—This motion must be granted.

Sheridan vs. Kitchen.—No. 1 and No. 2.—Same order as in Jackson vs. Kitchen.

Weir vs. Vail.—Mr. Sheppard's criticisms upon these findings appear to be in the main correct. Provision should be made for Vail's expenses in the Liverpool matter. The $4,000 has nothing to do with that. It is intended, however, to charge Vail with interest upon his receipts as found and to allow him interest upon these expenses from the date when they were made. Further, the plaintiff's counsel has not noted his assent or dissent to the defendant Vail's proposed findings. I have noted upon the margin of Mr. Sheppard's memorandum some further suggestions.

Vega vs. Jaffe.—Upon these papers I should, if the defendant had appeared upon the original motion, have appointed the plaintiff as receiver. The defendant's interest, according to his own showing, is very slight and on the plaintiff's showing his conduct has been reprehensible and such as to require that the plaintiff rather than he should be protected. The defendant seems to have protected himself pretty thoroughly if not over scrupulously. Upon the whole it is plain that the defendant was not misled in the or by the omission of the date in the copy of the original order served; that the order which followed was substantially just, and as the receivership has been in great part executed, and no complaint is made of the security furnished, the motion should be denied, with $10 costs, and to abide the event the injunction against the plaintiff as receiver vacated and a reference ordered to superintend the delivery by the defendant of the assets in his possession. Defendant must appear before such referee and be examined with respect thereto.

Mulock vs. Mulock.—It is quite clear that the attorney has no lien, and that the only question is as to whether the parties have really settled the suit. The defendant did sign a discontinuance, but he avers in his old affidavit that he did not do so advisedly, and that promises were made to him which have not been fulfilled. He makes no affidavit in opposition to the motion. The statements are fully met by the opposing affidavits used before Judge Van Vorst, and, indeed, the defendant has no reason to complain of a discontinuance except possibly with regard to his alleged counter claims. These may be protected by a provision in the present order similar to that inserted in the order made by Judge Van Vorst. The motion must be granted, without prejudice to defendant's counter claim, if any he has.

Gillilan vs. Mittacht.—I have no papers in this matter. Apply in Chambers.

Crimmins vs. Crimmins.—Without attempting to minutely analyze these very conflicting affidavits or to determine at present upon the weight of testimony, it is sufficient to say that there is evidently two sides to the case, and that the truth can only be ascertained, not by ex parte statements, but by a cross-examination of the witnesses. Let it be referred, therefore, to a referee to take the proof, which may be offered upon the charges and counter charges contained in the papers now before me (with liberties to the parties to cross-examine each of the witnesses who may be produced on either side), and to report thereon with his opinion with all convenient speed.

Davidson vs. Alfaw.—The first, second, third and fifth amendments are allowed. The fourth and sixth amendments are disallowed. The case and amendments are settled accordingly.

Gral vs. Rosenberg.—Order settled as within.

Matter of 127th street.—Order granted appointing Messrs. E. T. Sheppard, N. W. Butler and Louis Mesier as commissioners of estimate and assessment.

Matter of the petition of Morris and another.—The question at present to be considered is not as to the validity of the judgment, but assuming their validity on these papers as to the propriety of the appointment of the receiver. The Code, section 298, provides that before the appointment of a receiver it shall be ascertained whether any other supplementary proceedings are pending against the judgment debtor, and if so that the plaintiff whose supplementary proceedings were first commenced was deprived not only of the carriage of the receivership, but even of a voice in the selection. The order appointing Mr. Hewitt must, therefore, without any reflection on that gentleman, be vacated, and an order appointing a receiver (after hearing all parties who have a right to be heard) will be made.

Matter of the regulating, grading and improving the Eighth avenue, between Fifty-ninth and 122d streets.—I presume, as nothing has been heard from the petitioner's counsel, that they are satisfied that this proceeding cannot be sustained. It so seems to me after going over the papers. The application is therefore denied, with $10 costs.

By Judge Lawrence.

Matter of the Southern and Atlantic Telegraph Company.—These papers were passed upon by me on the 22d day of November, 1876, and have been with the clerk ever since. See memorandum filed on that day. There is no objection to counsel's withdrawing the application if he so desires.

By Judge Gilbert.

Foley vs. Rathbern.—Motion denied, with $10 costs.

Stoddard vs. Stoddard.—Confirmed except as to allowance for alimony.

Matter of the Metropolitan Collar Company.—Order granted.

Woodman vs. Western Railroad and others.—Motion granted and Able Denison appointed receiver on filing a bond in $2,000, unless defendant within five days file an undertaking with two sureties in the sum of $2,000, to be approved, to pay the judgment in this action within a time to be fixed. Order to be settled.

Spaulding vs. Cudlipp.—Motion denied, without costs and without prejudice, &c. Memorandum.

Lyons vs. Lyons.—Decree of divorce granted.

Brox vs. Humboldt Iron Works.—Order granted.

Hicks vs. Graft.—Motion denied, without prejudice.

Rogers vs. the Mayor, &c.—Motion denied.

McLea vs. McLea; Schwartz vs. Schwartz.—Decrees of divorce granted.

Spaulding vs. Waldo.—Motion granted, with $10 costs to abide the event.

Tullis vs. Miller.—Motion dismissed.

McGowan vs. Quinlan.—Motion denied, with $10 costs. Matter set up does not constitute a defence.

GENERAL SESSIONS—PART 1.

Before Judge Sutherland.

A YOUTHFUL OFFENDER OVERHAULED.

Frederick Levy, of No. 37 Grand street, who went to board at the house of Mrs. Bridget White, No. 155 Baxter street, on the 27th of November last, and stole jewelry, valued at over $200, and who, last week, was convicted of the charge preferred against him, was yesterday summoned for sentence. Judge Sutherland, after giving him a wholesome lecture—the young man's antecedents being very damaging to his character—sentenced him to five years' incarceration in the State Prison.

SHOP LIFTERS.

Miss Emma Jones, alias Miss Johnson and Miss Mary Larkin, paid a periodical visit to the store of Ridley & Co., No. 311 Grand street, and gracefully stowed away pieces of silk and other articles for which they forgot to pay. A restaurant keeper in the immediate vicinity, to whom the damsels paid a visit for the purpose of refreshing themselves, furnished the information that led to their arrest. When arraigned at the bar yesterday for trial by Assistant District Attorney Rollins, the prisoners pleaded guilty to the crime of petit larceny, and Judge Sutherland sent them to the Penitentiary, each for the term of four months.

FORGERY.

Henry Hall, who gave his address as No. 9 Henry street, was arraigned for trial, charged with forging an order on L. Whetmore & Co., No. 502 Broadway, by which the accused obtained four gross of braid. On a similar order it was averred that the prisoner obtained three gross of braid from Messrs. Merritt & Walker. On being called to the bar the prisoner pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence.

GENERAL SESSIONS—PART 2.

Before Judge Gildersleeve.

A NEW YEAR'S DAY'S EXPERIENCE.

An old man named Timothy O'Neill was deputed by some friends as a commissioner to procure whiskey—fifteen cents' worth of the best—from Patrick Green, whose saloon on the natal day of 1877 was situated at Forty-sixth street and Second avenue. Tim went with his bottle as directed, but on obtaining the requisite amount of fluid objected to the sum tendered to him in change. The old man protested that he had been wronged financially, but Mr. Green forcibly illustrated that he was exceedingly verdant by knocking him down and by finally ousting him in no friendly spirit. The result was that O'Neill had to be conveyed to the hospital, where his bruises were attended to. The prisoner, Green, was yesterday arraigned for trial by Assistant District Attorney Herring on the charge of felonious assault. Mr. Price, his counsel, produced several witnesses as to the good character of the accused, and submitted that the complainant himself was the origin of the quarrel. The jury found the prisoner guilty of assault and battery, with a recommendation to mercy, and Judge Gildersleeve in consequence imposed the mitigated sentence of two months in the Penitentiary.

THE KNIFE AGAIN.

John L. Townsend was charged with stabbing George McKinley, of No. 51 Hester street, on the 23d of May last and inflicting serious wounds upon him. The prisoner pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to four years' imprisonment.

JOHN DOWLING NOT GUILTY.

The trial of John Dowling, in the United States Circuit Court, Brooklyn, upon an indictment charging him with forging the name of another person of the same name as his own to a postal money order, was concluded yesterday. The jury found a verdict of "not guilty."

A MISSING BROOKLYNITE.

Julius Symons, thirty years of age, a tailor, of No. 444 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, left his home on May 3 for the purpose of taking a walk. He has not since been heard from. Soon after his disappearance it was found that he had drawn from bank the sum of $1,600 just before leaving his house. The missing man owned the house in which he resided and one in Myrtle avenue. Counsellor Baldwin F. Strauss made application to Court yesterday for the appointment of Mrs. Symons, wife of the missing man, as trustee of the estate. The matter was referred to Mr. H. S. Rosquin to take testimony as to Mr. Symons' disappearance.

VALUE OF A CHILD'S LIFE.

An infant daughter of Patrick Sharkey was run over and instantly killed by one of the horse cars on the Brooklyn and Newtown Railroad line on May 26, 1876. Yesterday the father of the child sued the company in the City Court to recover $5,000 damages for the loss of his little girl. The case was tried before Judge Reynolds, and the jury found a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $300.

THE STOKES MORTGAGE SUIT.

Justice Pratt of the Supreme Court, Kings county, rendered a decision yesterday in the suit of J. A. Bostwick and another suit against E. S. Stokes and others. Cassius H. Read foreclosed a mortgage on the oil works occupied by the plaintiffs, in the Eastern District, and owned by Nancy Stokes, and bought them in at the sale for $120,000. The Messrs. Bostwick have begun an action to set the judgment aside, making Read and Edward S. Stokes and his mother defendants. They allege that the foreclosure was a fraudulent scheme between the defendants for the benefit of the former, and that the sale and purchase were not in good faith, and that the whole thing was done for the purpose of extorting money from the plaintiffs by holding out a threat of ejectment. The defendants deny all these allegations, and moved before Justice Pratt to dissolve an injunction procured by plaintiff to restrain them from further action under the judgment in foreclosure. The Judge denies the motion to dissolve the injunction, on plaintiffs stipulating to refer and take short notice of trial. Defendant has leave to move again on further answering and controverting the equities of the bill; $10 costs to abide event.

CONTINENTAL LIFE INSURANCE.

Justice Pratt, of the Supreme Court, Kings county, yesterday confirmed the report of William Allen Butler, the referee in the case of Hoyt against the Continental Life Insurance Company. The Court confirmed the entire report, so that the ex-receiver is not to go without compensation.

Application was made by counsel for Bertha Metzger, in the Supreme Court, Kings county, yesterday, before Justice Gilbert, for an order to compel William R. Grace, late receiver of the Continental Life Insurance Company, to show cause why he should not pay the plaintiff $12,000, for which amount she has obtained judgment. It was decided by the Court that the motion must be made in the Third District Court, another receiver having been appointed in place of Mr. Grace.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

THE EIGHT HOUR LAW—ITS EFFECTS UPON GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS FOR LABOR.

WASHINGTON, June 11, 1877.

The Supreme Court of the United States has rendered the following decision:—

No. 401. The United States, appellant, vs. Arthur Martin—Appeal from the Court of Claims.—On the 25th of June, 1868, Congress passed an act (15 stat., 77), declaring "that eight hours shall constitute a day's work for all laborers, workmen and mechanics now employed, or who may hereafter be employed, by or on behalf of the government of the United States." (Revised Statutes, sec. 3, 738.) This was a direction by Congress to the officers and agents of the United States establishing the principle to be observed in the labor of those engaged in its service. It prescribed the length of time which should amount to a day's work when no special agreement was made upon the subject. There are several things which the act does not regulate which it may be worth while to notice.

First—It does not establish the price to be paid for a day's work.

Skilled labor necessarily commands a higher price than mere manual labor, and whether wages are high or low depends chiefly upon the inquiry whether those having labor to bestow are more numerous than those who desire the service of the laborer.

The English statute books are full of assizes of bread and ale, commencing as early as the reign of Henry II., and regulations of labor, and many such are to be found in the statutes of the several States. It is stated by Adam Smith as the law in his day that in Sheffield no master cutler or weaver or hatter could have more than two apprentices at a time, and so lately as the 8th George III., and which remained unrepealed until 1825, an act was passed prohibiting, under severe penalties, all master tailors in London, or within five miles of it, from giving, or their workmen from accepting, more than 2s. 7½d. a day, except in the case of general mourning. (Smith's Wealth of Nations, 125, 6 Oxford ed. of 1869.) A different theory is now almost universally adopted. Principals, so far as the law can give the power, are entitled to employ as many workmen and of whatever degree of skill and at whatever price they think fit, and except in some special cases, as of children or orphans, the hours of labor and the price to be paid are left to the determination of the parties interested. The statute of the United States does not interfere with this principle. It does not specify any sum which shall be paid for the labor of eight hours, nor that the price shall be more when the hours are greater or less when the hours are fewer. It is silent as to everything except the direction to its officers that eight hours shall constitute a day's work for a laborer.

Second—The statute does not provide that the employer and the laborer may not agree with each other as to what time shall constitute a day's work.

There are some branches of labor connected with furnaces, foundries, steam or gas works, where the labor and the exposure of eight hours a day would soon exhaust the strength of a laborer and render him permanently an invalid. The government officer is not prohibited from knowing these facts, nor from agreeing when it is proper that a less number of hours than eight shall be accepted as a day's work. Nor does the statute intend that where out-of-door labor in the long days of summer may be offered for twelve hours at a uniform price the officer may not so contract with a consenting laborer.

We regard the statute chiefly as in the nature of a direction from a principal to his agent that eight hours is deemed to be a proper length of time for a day's labor, and that his contracts shall be based upon that theory. It is a matter between the principal and his agent, in which a third party has no interest. The proclamation of the President and the act of 1872 are in harmony with this view of the statute. We are of the opinion, therefore, that contracts fixing or giving a different length of time as the day's work are legal and binding upon the parties making them.

In the case before us the claimant continued his work, after understanding that eight hours would not be accepted as a day's labor, but that he must work twelve hours, as he had done before. He received his pay of $2 50 a day for the work of twelve hours a day, as a calendar day's work during the period in question, without protest or objection. At that time ordinary laborers under the same government received but $1 75 per day at the same place, and those engaged in the same department with the claimant in a private establishment at the same place received but $2 for a day's work of twelve hours, and the finding adds, "they had more work to do than the claimant had while similarly employed." The claimant's contract was a voluntary and a reasonable one, by which he must now be bound. In 1873 the claimant applied for the same arrears of pay as are here in question, and received from the Auditor an award of $205 63. That amount was paid to the claimant, and he receipted in writing in full for the account. This has often been held in this court to be a bar to any further claim. (U. S. vs. Justice, 14 Wal., 535; U. S. vs. Child, 12 Ib., 232.)

These principles require a reversal of the judgment of the Court of Claims. The case is remanded to the Court of Claims, with direction that the petition of the claimant be dismissed.

Mr. Justice Hunt delivered the opinion.

AN APPARITION ARRESTED.

Thomas Hardgrove stood looking at the door of No. 9 Gold street on Sunday night admiring the painting, when suddenly there appeared, through a hole above the door, two large feet. Mr. Hardgrove started in astonishment, as he knew the premises to be empty. Presently the feet slowly descended, revealing a long pair of legs, and soon after came in sight a human body on which was a frowsy head. The apparition turned, and, seeing the looker on, fled, but a policeman tripped it up. The apparition was yesterday accused at the Tombs Police Court of stealing $25 worth of lead pipe, and gave the name of Thomas Curley. It was held in $2,000 bail.

LUDWIG DOUBLY HELD.

A man named Ludwig Held accidentally drove a horse and cart over the body of Sophia Priestley, an aged lady, on the 11th inst. Mrs. Priestley was badly injured and taken to the Baptist Home for Aged Persons, and was yesterday confined in bed, suffering from the injuries received, when Held was arraigned at the Fifty-seventh Street Court. The case was set down for further examination to await the appearance of witnesses. Mrs. Priestley will no doubt lose one of her limbs. The prisoner is loud in protesting it was purely accidental on his part.

ELLIOTT STILL AT LARGE.

The whereabouts of the forger Elliott, who made his escape on Saturday last, still continues unknown to the authorities. The police appear not to have a single clew upon which to work and the general belief is that he will not be recaptured. This is based upon his large experience as a fugitive and his conceded smartness as a criminal. Warden Quinn yesterday appeared before the Board of Commissioners of Charities and Correction, and made his official report of the prisoner's escape and asked for an investigation. In the meantime both keepers, Van Tine and Mack, remain suspended from duty, with a likelihood of not being reinstated. An additional incident in Elliott's remarkable career came to light yesterday. In the summer of 1873 he, with two others (Americans), swindled the Ottoman Bank of Bayreuth out of 27,000f. by means of a forged letter of credit. The forgery was not discovered until after they had played a similar trick on Todd, Rathbone & Co., bankers, of Smyrna, for 20,000f.

BROOKLYN HIGHWAYMEN.

John Henderson, alias Butler, who was arrested on Sunday for robbing John Rahl on the highway, was arraigned in the Third District Court yesterday and pleaded guilty. The prisoner is held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

No. 620 Flushing avenue is a resort known as the "Barracks," and there Michael Roth, a notorious character, was yesterday arrested on a charge of highway robbery. The crime was committed on the night of January 1 at the corner of Broadway and Ridge street, Eastern District, when the prisoner assaulted Henry Valentine, with intent to rob him, as alleged. Valentine resisted, and though he managed to shoot the fellow in the leg the rogue escaped.

A PEST SPOT NEXT THE TOMBS.

In the neighborhood of the Tombs Prison, in Centre street, and around the immense freight depot of the New York and Harlem Railroad Company, a sickening stench prevails. In damp weather pools of mud form about the depot tracks, the filthy mess splashing over passers-by as the cars jolt over the badly laid rails. In dry weather dust and dirt accumulate, the particles and clouds of which fill the mouths and nostrils of the residents in the vicinity, rendering their houses almost uninhabitable. The people in the houses may, however, move away, but the prisoners in the Tombs cannot escape the malarious exudations from the depot, and at night the pestilential gases fill their cells and poison their blood. In addition, it must be remembered that the Tombs itself is situated in a filled-in swamp, badly ventilated, damp and unwholesome.

A BABY WITH THE CHILLS.

The reporter visited several houses in the vicinity of the depot, mostly of the tenement order. He found the women delicate and wan looking, the children pale and attenuated. One little girl in a dirty hallway was carrying a child almost as big as herself, and the baby looked to be in the last stages of illness. Its little eyes were half closed, great black rings were around them, the nose was pinched, the lips were bloodless and the yellow skin was drawn tightly over the cheek bones; the little nails on the little hands were blue, and the labored breathing gave indication that life was nearly ready to depart and the little heart stop beating.

"What is the matter with the baby?"

"Chills and fever" was the answer of the young nurse.

"Where did you live before you came here?"

"In Paterson, N. J."

"Was baby sick there?"

"Oh, no, sir, as well as could be; we've only been here three months, and two weeks afterward baby was taken; she has a shake every day. Doctor says it's a bad neighborhood, but father's got work over there and we can't move."

"Have many people got the chills here?"

"Oh, yes, sir, most all of 'em. I had 'em, but I'm most cured; I only have one a week now." And the little thing looked as pleased when she made the announcement of "only one a week" as if she had won a prize at a fair.

On the southern side of the depot, on Franklin street, the Board of Health would do well to make an inspection. Piled up against the wall are heaps of filth, mud, old bottles and refuse of every description.

THE HERALD AS A DETECTIVE.

On the 4th of this month, in the house No. 345 Fifth avenue, in which General S. Rocha was residing, a watch and chain valued at $400 and a gold pen and case, which belonged to that gentleman, were stolen. No traces of the robber could be found, and it was thought that the property was lost beyond recovery. An advertisement, however, was inserted in the HERALD describing the watch and offering a reward for its return, and a day or two later an anonymous letter was received by the General, stating that such a watch had been pledged in a pawnbroker's in Philadelphia. The letter was sent to the Central Office, and as inquiry failed to discover where the pawnbroker's place referred to was located, Chief Jones, of the Philadelphia police, was notified, and telegraphed back that he had recovered the stolen property. General Rocha had it returned to him yesterday by the headquarters' officials. A watch stolen from a gentleman named Singleton was recovered from a Canal street pawnbroker in a similar way.

"POOLING" WEST BOUND FREIGHT.

Receiver Jewett, of the Erie Railway, has entered into an agreement with the other trunk lines to "pool" the earnings on West bound freight traffic, to go into effect July 1. The following is the scale of division on such freight:—Erie, 33 per cent; New York Central, 33 per cent; Pennsylvania, 25 per cent; Baltimore and Ohio, 9 per cent. This agreement can be modified or cancelled only on three months' notice in writing by either of the four trunk lines who are the contracting parties.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

Robert Somerville, auctioneer, at No. 74 University place, has been adjudicated an involuntary bankrupt on the petition of three creditors, and the matter has been referred to Register Dayton to take further proceedings. Henry Somerville has a claim for $4,200 for money loaned and rent due. John Ortgeis has a claim for loans to the amount of $2,650, and there is due William Wellington on a promissory note $1,035.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed by Bernard Frankl, laces, at No. 428 Broome street. His liabilities amount to $34,604 and no assets appear in the schedule. The principal creditors are the following:—Thomas Drew & Co., $2,177; Paton & Co., $2,009; Jaffray & Co., $2,200; Cochran, McLean & Co., $1,550; S. Baron, $1,614; Manges Brothers, $2,050; Dudon Freres & Co., $1,749; Guggenheimer & Loeb, $1,840; Claflin & Co., $1,475.

The creditors of George B. Watts, stockbroker, of No. 49 Exchange place, held a meeting at the office of Register Little and elected Adolphus D. Pape assignee in bankruptcy. The liabilities are about $34,000 and there are no assets.

"I'LL PUT AN END TO YOU!"

In the saloon at No. 36 Rivington street Alice Strickland, of No. 73 Delancey street, met an acquaintance named Burke, who sometimes assumes the name of Stacy. He had just returned from serving a term in State Prison, and, being intoxicated, began to abuse the woman, and followed her into the street. Here he again approached her, and the altercation was renewed, when he suddenly drew a knife, and saying, "I'll put an end to you!" plunged it into her body, and then ran out. The woman was taken home, and Dr. Ward, of Forsyth street, was summoned. He found a deep and serious wound in the abdomen.

SHIFTING POLICE CAPTAINS.

The police captains have begun again their almost diurnal rotation under the new system inaugurated by the Commissioners a couple of weeks ago and continued almost without interruption ever since. Captain McCullagh was transferred from the Fourteenth back to the Seventeenth, Captain Caffrey from the Seventeenth to the First and Captain Tynan from the First to the Fourteenth.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

The Stock Market Very Active---Decline in Coal Stocks and Advance in Railroads.

GOLD 105 A 104 7-8.

Government Bonds Weak and Lower, and Railroad Bonds Quiet.

MONEY ON CALL EASY AT 1 A 2 PER CENT.

WALL STREET, MONDAY, June 11—6 P. M.

Of the transactions, which to-day aggregated more than 264,000 shares, nearly one-half was from dealings in Delaware and Lackawanna alone. It must be remembered, however, that as this stock is issued in $50 shares, the total sales recorded should be halved before being added in with those of the generally active stocks. Taken either single or double, they were lamentably large, since they were the expression of a painful scurry to sell rather than an eagerness to buy. As the traditional pudding was proved in the eating, so was the above fact proved in the decline in the market price, which fell off 2 per cent during the session. The experience of Morris and Essex and Delaware and Hudson was even worse still, the former falling off 5 and the latter 3 per cent. In the afternoon matters looked better and a decided rally set in, which, however, failed to hold, though at the end some recovery was made upon the worst figures of the day. A most unmistakable growl is given vent to by the coal people in respect to the action of the Pennsylvania Company in offering 200,000 tons at auction in face of the present depressed state of the market. It is claimed that they are thereby making bad worse and that, as a corporation well able to stand the racket of ruinous prices, they are using this advantage to drive rival companies to the wall. It is possible that there may be more truth than fiction in this belief, but it by no means follows that the Pennsylvania Company is entirely a free agent in the matter. The policy of the Reading Company appears to be to market the greatest amount of coal possible at whatever price it will bring, and in this endeavor, it is said, they have invaded the territory occupied by the customers of the Pennsylvania Company and have supplied them at cheaper rates than the latter company have been willing to make. Such action is acknowledged to be a casus belli the world over, and the Pennsylvania Company can scarcely be expected to rest quietly and see the ground cut away from under their feet. Still further, this company, well to do as it is, is scarcely in a position to stop work and leave its coal unmined until the advent of better times. Apart from the loss certain to occur from the flooding of mines and the disuse of machinery, they are under contract to furnish the Erie Railway Company with a stated amount of coal freight per annum, or, failing to do so, to pay fifty cents per ton upon such quantities as may fall short of the stipulated amount. Under these facts the Pennsylvania Company appears upon the warpath, satisfied to endure present ills rather than to fly to others it knows not of. While the anthracites were depressed the railroads were strong and better. Mr. Vanderbilt having returned safe and sound, his mere presence is supposed to exhale a peace-creating influence and to restore to arithmetical symmetry the sixes and sevens into which the trunk lines have fallen in his absence. Among the strongest stocks on the list was Western Union, at least up to the time when it was known that the Executive Committee had met and recommended a dividend of 1½ per cent to be declared by the Board on Wednesday next. Afterward the price unaccountably fell off and the quotation was only moderately firm at the close. Government bonds were fractionally off from Saturday's price, the only news concerning them being that Secretary Sherman would call for $15,000,000 five-twenties to-morrow.

THE MONEY MARKET.

Money was easy at 2 per cent on call, the closing rates being 1 a 1½ per cent. The following are the rates of exchange on New York at the undermentioned cities to-day:—Savannah, buying 3-16, selling 5-16; Charleston steady, openings light and obtainable at 1-5; Cincinnati, holders firm, buying par, selling 1-10; New Orleans, commercial, par a ⅛ premium, bank nominal; St. Louis, 90 premium, and Chicago, 50 premium. THE GOLD MARKET.

Gold opened at 105 and closed at 104⅞, with all the sales to day at these figures. The borrowing rates ranged from flat to one-sixty fourth per cent per diem. The decline was due to the Syndicate negotiations and the talk about contraction and specie payments.

UNITED STATES TREASURY.

The revenue receipts to-day were $670,000; customs receipts, $360,000; bank notes, $1,100,000.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

The London advices report consols and United States bonds strong and higher, the former rising to 94⅞ a 95 for both money and the account, and the latter to 104⅜ for new 4½'s; 109¾ for 1867's; 109⅛ for ten-forties, and 107¾ for new fives. Subsequently the new 4½'s reacted to 104¼, and recovered to 104⅜. The strength of our securities is accounted for by a despatch which says:—"The American bond funding scheme is favorably received both in London and on the Continent." American railway shares are lower for New York Central and Illinois Central, which have sold down to-day to 87 and 49½ respectively, with a recovery in the former to 87½. In Paris rentes are a shade lower. The Bank of England gained £350,000 bullion on balance to-day, and the specie in the Imperial Bank of Berlin increased 345,000 marks during the week. The closing prices in London were:—Consols, for money and account, 94⅞ a 95; new 4½ per cent bonds, 104⅜; five-twenty bonds of 1867, 109¾; ten-forty bonds, 109 a 109⅛; new fives, 107⅜; Erie common shares, 6; Erie preferred shares, 16; New York Central, 87½; Illinois Central, 49½.

STATE BONDS.

State bonds at the Board were ⅛ higher for Georgia sevens, gold, ½ lower for Tennessee sixes, old, and steady for Missouri long sixes, to which dealings were confined. District of Columbia 3.65's sold at 72⅜, an advance of ¼.

RAILROAD BONDS.

Railroad bonds were quiet, and the following were the changes compared with the last previous sales:—An advance of ⅜ in Chicago and Northwestern consolidated gold sevens, ¼ in St. Louis and Iron Mountain firsts, and ⅛ in Union Pacific firsts. There was a decline of ¼ in Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific sevens and Erie thirds, and ⅛ in Michigan Central sevens and New York Central sixes of 1883.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

COTTON ON THE SPOT EASIER IN TONE; FUTURES CLOSED WEAK—FLOUR STEADIER—WHEAT STEADY—CORN FIRMER—OATS FIRMER—WHISKEY FIRM—PORK AND LARD FIRMER—PETROLEUM WEAK—SPIRITS OF TURPENTINE FIRM—ROSIN FIRM—OILS STEADY—COFFEE STEADY—SUGAR DULL—FREIGHTS DULL.

MONDAY, June 11—6 P. M.

There was no marked change in the complexion of mercantile affairs as a general thing to-day, although in some cases a better feeling obtained and better prices were paid. On 'Change flour was steadier. Wheat was steady, with a better demand. Corn and oats were scarce and firmer. Whiskey was strong. Pork was firmer. Lard was firmer. Freights were dull. Cotton on the spot was dull and easier; futures closed weak. Coffee was steady. Sugar was dull. Oils steady. Petroleum was weak. Naval stores firm.

COFFEE.—The market for Rio remained quiet but steady. Mild coffee was also quiet. We quote:—Ordinary cargoes, 16½c. a 16¾c.; fair do., 19½c.; good do., 19¾c.; prime do., 20c. a 20¼c.; extreme range for lots, 16½c. a 22c.; Santos, fair to good, 19c. a 19½c., gold, 90 days; Java, government bags, 22c. a 23c.; do., grass mats, 23c. a 24c.; Singapore, 19½c. a 20½c.; Ceylon, 19c. a 21c.; Maracaibo, 18c. a 20½c.; Laguayra, 19c. a 20c.; Jamaica, 17½c. a 19½c.; St. Domingo, 16½c. a 16¾c.; Porto Rico, 18c. a 20½c.; Costa Rica, 18c. a 19c.; Mexican, 18½c. a 20c.; Macassar, 19c. a 21c.; Angostura, 18½c. a 20½c.; Savanilla, 18c. a 20½c.; Curacoa, 17c. a 19c.

COTTON on the spot ruled dull and easier in tone, but not quotably lower. Liverpool came buoyant for spot cotton, and 1-16d. higher; uplands quoted at 6 3-16d., and Orleans at 6⅜d. Sales, 20,000 bales. Arrivals were 1-16d. better. Our market for futures opened 7 a 10 points higher than Saturday's closing, and before the first call a further advance was established. Part of the advance, however, was subsequently lost, and the market closed weak, with an advance for the day of from 6 to 9 points. The closing prices to-day, compared with Saturday's, were as follows:—

WASHINGTON.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, June 11, 1877.

THE INFAMIES OF THE OLD INDIAN RING—RESULTS OF SECRETARY SCHURZ'S INVESTIGATION—STARTLING EXPOSURES PROMISED.

Another important disclosure of the nefarious doings of the Indian Ring is promised the light of day during the course of the current week. It is understood that the Committee of Investigation recently set at work by Secretary Schurz to ascertain further particulars of the operations of this infamous combination will unearth facts of a startling character relative to the issue of Indian supplies upon the basis of false returns as to the number of Indians upon the reservations or in the bands for which supplies were drawn. The committee are assiduously working under lock and key and have already gone through a large number of vouchers furnished by the Indian Commissioner and his chief clerk, Mr. Galpin. It is surmised by those particularly conversant with the details of the inquiry that the committee may be able, with the means before them, to make a comparatively full exposé of the frauds under investigation, unless the old Ring influence should be brought to bear upon them in such a manner as to defeat the reformatory purposes of the Secretary. It is understood that while minor maladministration in the way of manipulating vouchers for small amounts may be shown to have been practised in the Indian Office, the main fraud aimed at by the committee is the overestimating of the number of Indians to be supplied by the government and the drawing of clothing, rations and other allowances under the exaggerated count by Indian agents and by their confederates in the operations of the Ring. While this fraudulent census system may not be fully brought to light here under the present circumstances it is expected that the investigation will furnish such positive evidences of its existence that a more comprehensive and searching investigation will be forced upon Congress the coming autumn.

There is unquestionably great uneasiness among the officials of the Indian Bureau, a fact which may be accounted for upon the hypothesis that wholesale dismissals, if not arrests and criminal prosecutions, will result from the disclosures expected. Grave charges are also made concerning the operations of the Ring in the Land Department. It is alleged that scrip issued to the Indians passed it into the hands of the Ring, by whom it was used to strip the land of its timber, whereupon, by collusion in the Washington office, the scrip was lifted from the stripped land and located on a fresh piece of land, the process being repeated indefinitely, to the great profit of the Ring.

FRACTIONAL CURRENCY DESTROYED.

The committee engaged in considering the question as to what amount of fractional currency circulation has been destroyed will probably make their report to the Secretary in a day or two. THE UNSETTLED ABORIGINES.

THE CAMP OF THE PONCAS STRUCK BY A TORNADO—NEZ-PERCES GOING ON TO A RESERVATION.

WASHINGTON, June 11, 1877.

Major Howard, the agent in charge of the Ponca tribe of Indians who are being removed to the Indian Territory, telegraphs from Crete, Neb., to the department that on the 6th inst. a severe tornado struck their camp on the Blue River, causing great dismay and suffering among the Indians, severely injuring a number and killing one of them. Wagons were overturned and broken, lodges blown down and destroyed, and a large amount of damage done to the supplies and other property. Agent Howard reports that this will cause delay, but that he will repair damages and proceed on the march as fast as possible.

THE NEZ PERCES.

An official communication received at the Indian Office to-day reports that the various bands of Nez Perces Indians, who have caused much trouble for some years in Idaho and Eastern Oregon, are now complying with the arrangements made by Agent Monteith and General Howard for their permanent location on a reservation. They were recently allowed thirty days to gather up their stock and other personal property, and in the meantime General Howard has so stationed his troops as to compel the fulfilment of the arrangement should the Indians manifest bad faith, of which there are no present indications.

ISTHMUS OF DARIEN.

WASHINGTON, June 11, 1877.

Official reports received by the State Department to-day show a large increase in the number of passengers from the East, and in the amount of freight from the West passing over the Isthmus of Darien this year as compared with the last corresponding period.

MINERS' STRIKE.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., June 11, 1877.

On Saturday the miners and boys, to the number of 1,100, employed at the seven collieries of the Lehigh Valley and Wilkesbarre companies, in the vicinity of Coaldale and Lansford, in the Upper Lehigh region, struck against the reduction of wages which went into effect June 1. At noon to-day a mass meeting of the men was held at which a committee was appointed to ascertain the amount of the reduction proposed. The collieries were all idle there to-day.

OHIO POLITICS.

ATTITUDE OF THE RESPECTIVE CONVENTIONS ON THE PROMINENT QUESTIONS—A DISTINCTION WITHOUT MUCH DIFFERENCE.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

CINCINNATI, June 11, 1877.

The Democratic State Convention, it is believed here in well-informed quarters, will adopt a platform of which the first resolution will indorse the President's Southern policy as sound and growing out of the necessity of circumstances, therefore unavoidable. The second plank will denounce the Presidency as fraudulently obtained by the republicans, and call on the people of the State to set the seal of their condemnation on the republican leaders for the wrong, violence and fraud by which they placed their candidate in the White House.

THE CURRENCY.

The currency plank will demand the silver dollar of our daddies, not as a substitute for greenbacks, but as an additional inflation, and there will be an attack on the national banks, with a view to the adoption of a greenback and silver currency.

THE REPUBLICANS.

The Republican Convention will, undoubtedly, approve of the President's policy and will demand the remonetization of silver as an additional help toward a speedy resumption of specie payments. Thus both parties will commit themselves to a repeal of the anti-silver law, but the object will be different, the democrats hoping to catch the greenback vote of the State by their movement.

CROP PROSPECTS.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 11, 1877.

The crop report for May of the Memphis Cotton Exchange embraces 155 responses, of the average date of May 31, as follows:—West Tennessee, 43; North Mississippi, 55; North Arkansas, 57—the aggregate of which shows a decrease of an acreage of one and three-fourths per cent. The first week is reported as unfavorable on account of rain; the remainder were excessively dry, windy and cloudy. Twenty-five report stands very fine; 70, good to average; and 60, early planting poor, but late good to average. Responses indicate a great improvement in the morale of laborers. All report that there were no commercial fertilizers used. One hundred and twenty report the crop well cultivated, 37 report superior condition, and 107 report the crop suffering for rain. The average increase of crop is four per cent, with two and a half per cent additional to be planted in June and in good condition.

In grass, oats and millet there is an increase of five and three-quarters per cent and eight per cent better condition than last year.

The wheat crop shows average. There is a prospect of a better yield of twenty-eight per cent, on nine per cent increase of acreage.

The average increase of hogs is sixteen per cent, and in good condition.

The committee say in reference to the report that subsequent to the average date of the responses it was good, and general rains have fallen, which will improve all crops, except wheat, though great damage must result from thirteen and a half inches of rain which fell on the 7th and 8th insts.

IN NEBRASKA.

OMAHA, June 11, 1877.

The Bee has specials from forty-one places throughout the State to-night, which say crop prospects continue highly favorable and especially so for small grain. The condition of corn is not so good, on account of continued heavy rains and cool weather. In some sections there was a slight frost last night, which caused slight damage. Grasshoppers have done but little damage, and in but one or two places have they done any. They seem to be disappearing from some unknown cause.

THE WILSON-THOMPSON AFFRAY.

EVIDENCE OF INTENDED MURDER ON THE PART OF THE CIRCUS RIDER—DETAILS OF THE AFFAIR—THOMPSON'S CONDITION YET UNCERTAIN.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

CINCINNATI, June 11, 1877.

John Wilson, the four-horse rider, who shot Thompson, the private watchman, at Wood's Theatre, on Saturday night, is still kept in the City Prison, it being uncertain whether Thompson's injuries will prove fatal or not. Thompson is still alive, though insensible from the effects of opiates.

WAS MURDER PREMEDITATED?

Some additional facts were brought to light to-day that make it look as though Wilson premeditated the murder of Thompson. After the first altercation had taken place in the theatre lobby some ten minutes elapsed, in which time Wilson went to the office of the District Telegraph across the street and despatched a boy to bring him a cab to the corner of Vine and Longworth streets, with the significant direction that he might want to use it to get across the water. He then returned to the theatre and sent one of the ushers to Thompson saying he wanted to see him in the lobby down stairs.

THE ENCOUNTER.

Thompson came to Wilson and demanded an apology for his insult to his friend, Cathcart. This was refused, and Thompson laying his hand on Wilson's shoulder, he drew his pistol and fired. The moment it occurred a crowd gathered around the door, and Wilson, unable to break through it, rushed up the street instead of going down to where the hack was standing in readiness for him.

Cathcart, who was detained as a witness, was released to-day on giving $1,000 bail for his appearance when the trial takes place. Wilson's preliminary examination takes place Wednesday.

A POLICE TRAGEDY.

DEATH OF WILLIAMS, THE PRISONER WHO CHARGED OFFICER DOYLE WITH BEATING HIM.

At half-past two o'clock yesterday morning Francis Williams died in Bellevue Hospital. As stated in the HERALD of yesterday he was arrested by Officer Doyle, of the Seventh precinct, who had some difficulty in bringing him to the station house, and at whose hands, according to the statement of the deceased, he received the injuries from which he died. During the hours of his imprisonment Williams kept complaining of his hurts, but he was unheeded as he was believed to be only raving in the delirium of intoxication. It was while in the Essex Market Court that his condition first became known. His groans and writhing soon made it clear that he was in agony, and when the keepers were made aware of the nature of his injuries they at once sent for an ambulance and had him conveyed to the hospital. When the Coroner was notified of Williams' death Deputy Coroner McWhinnie went to the hospital and made a post-mortem examination of the body, which showed that the deceased had been injured in one of the small intestines, which caused peritonitis. All the other organs were found to be in a healthy condition. Death had consequently been caused by peritonitis, due to a rupture of the intestines.

OFFICER DOYLE ARRESTED.

When news of Williams' death reached the Seventh precinct Captain McElwain put Officer Doyle under arrest to await the result of a coroner's inquiry, and at once set to work investigating the case. He said last night that Williams was a low, worthless fellow who had several times been arrested for fighting and had once been committed for thirty days for an assault on an officer.

WILLIAMS' WIFE'S STORY.

Mrs. Williams, the wife of the deceased, made a statement yesterday which differs materially from that made by her husband, and which would seem to show that she, at least, was so intoxicated at the time as to be somewhat oblivious to the hour and some of the details of the occurrence. She says that she was sitting on the stoop in front of their house with her husband when a couple of young corner loungers who infest the neighborhood passed, and one of them pulled her foot from under her. Williams threatened the party if they did not go away, and they in turn began abusing him. At this moment Officer Doyle came along and told her husband to come along with him. Williams remonstrated with him, saying that it was the others he should arrest, and, as he showed an inclination to resist, Doyle fell upon him, struck him repeatedly with his club, and kicked him several times about the body. She seemed, however, to be considerably muddled as to what time this occurred, and said she believed it was about eleven o'clock. At the station house they claim that the woman was intoxicated when brought there, and that she asked next morning how it all had come to pass. The body of Williams still lies at Bellevue Hospital, and the Coroner proposes to have an inquiry into the case as soon as possible.

KICKED TO DEATH.

A CONCERT SALOON GIRL'S DEATH FROM INJURIES RECEIVED IN CATHARINE STREET.

Mary Lockwood was a waiter girl in a Bowery concert saloon, but she resided in Brooklyn, at No. 199 Flatbush avenue. She died last night at her house from severe injuries she had received, and prior to her death made the following statement of how she had come by them:—On the night of Tuesday last she was going along Catharine street, when she was accosted by a loafer, who began to ill use her. She tried to escape him, but he knocked her down and kicked her in the abdomen. She managed to drag herself away, however, and called a policeman who started in quest of her assailant, but arrested another man. She was not aware of the serious nature of her injuries till she reached Brooklyn, but was prostrated by weakness on coming near the house, and with no little difficulty managed to get to her room. She has lain there ever since under medical treatment, gradually sinking till last evening, when she expired.

The case was reported to Captain Turner, at the Tenth precinct, in Brooklyn, and at midnight he sent word to Superintendent Walling of the occurrence and made inquiries as to whether the murderer, for such Mary Lockwood's assailant appears to be, had been taken into custody or not.

A DOUBLE DISAPPEARANCE.

One day last week the wife of Mr. J. Stickland, a lawyer, residing at No. 21 Washington place, advertised for a neat and industrious girl. Such a one presented herself in the person of an interesting young woman who said her name was "Grace," and so favorably did she impress Mrs. Stickland by her appearance and demeanor that the latter at once engaged her. "Grace" proved a valuable acquisition and was most assiduous in her discharge of the domestic duties intrusted to her; but as she disappeared on Saturday last simultaneously with $500 worth of jewelry she is supposed to have been a young lady of dark ways, and the police are now in quest of her.

THE RIVER'S DEAD.

The body found on Sunday afternoon floating in the river at the foot of Chambers street was identified yesterday as Louis N. Maxwell, of New Durham, N. J.

The body of Jeremiah Canary was found floating in the river, yesterday, off Roberts' stores, foot of Furman street, South Brooklyn. Deceased had been missing from his home for the past eight days.

SELF-DESTRUCTION.

An unknown man yesterday walked to the centre of the bridge spanning Gowanus Bay at Third street, Brooklyn, and, climbing upon the railing, deliberately plunged into the muddy water of that turbid stream and was drowned.

George Shamberg, sixty-five years of age, residing at No. 130 Walnut street, Newark, while talking with the flagman of the Walnut street crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the above city, yesterday, flung himself head foremost in front of the five o'clock train from New York. His skull was fractured. He was still alive last night, but will die.

Herman Molock, thirty-two years of age, attempted to take his life last evening by jumping in the North River, at the foot of West Twenty-eighth street. He was rescued and taken to one of the hospital wards.

CHARGED WITH HIS SON'S DEATH.

It having been rumored that little John Keller, a child of six months, who died yesterday, was a victim of its father's cruelty, an officer of the Seventeenth precinct was sent to investigate the case. He learned that the accused, Henry Keller, had quarrelled with his wife on Saturday night and struck at her with a whip. The blow fell on the little one she carried in her arms, and on the following evening it died. Keller was arrested, but as the child was weak and sick at the time, it is thought that death may have resulted from natural causes.

AMERICAN SILKS.

PROGRESS OF THE INDUSTRY—UNDERVALUATION FRAUDS—BRILLIANT FUTURE PROSPECTS OF THE SILK MANUFACTURE IN AMERICA.

The Silk Association of America has issued its fifth annual report. At the last annual meeting, which was held on May 9, Mr. Frank W. Cheney, of the firm of Cheney Brothers, was re-elected president, and Messrs. Thomas N. Dale, of Paterson, A. B. Strange and William Ryle, of New York, vice presidents. The directors include most of the prominent silk merchants of the United States. Among the matters of general public interest contained in the report is the account of the display of American silks at the Centennial Exhibition. This exhibit was displayed in the east end of the Main Building, on the central aisle, and comprised silk goods of every variety, color and style. In Machinery Hall the process of silk manufacture was illustrated on a large scale, including the different processes of reeling, spinning, spooling and weaving. Another display was made in the Woman's Pavilion of silk weaving, including Jacquard work. A large number of awards to American silk exhibitors were made.

The report also states that during the last year Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co., who have long been among the largest purchasers of foreign silks, have established a silk factory in this city, running a large number of looms and producing upward of 2,500 yards per week; also that Messrs. Belding Brothers & Co. have begun silk manufacture in Montreal. Individual silk weavers having each one or two looms in their houses, have established themselves in Paterson and vicinity, and instances of the kind are reported from Hoboken.

FLUCTUATIONS IN SILK VALUES.

The past year has witnessed many fluctuations in the values of silks. With the panic of 1873 the fall of values was precipitated, and at the beginning of 1875 raw silks were selling at lower figures than for eighteen years before. Early last summer prices began to rise. The foreign silk crop was greatly diminished by wet and chilly weather, the Italian crop fifty per cent, the French crop ninety per cent, and the Asiatic crop ten to fifteen per cent. A great rise took place in July. From the end of March to the end of September the average advance in prices of all sorts was over one hundred per cent. In October there was a fall of about ten per cent. Strikes in the Paterson mills of Soleliac & Sons and Dexter, Lambert & Co. were then added to the other difficulties. All these troubles are now happily overcome, and the trade in America is on a healthy basis.

UNDERVALUATION FRAUDS.

The government has been deprived of a large amount of revenue by the undervaluation of invoices. Previous to 1876 this practice was rather the rule than the exception, and silk invoices were undervalued on an average of not less than twenty-five per cent. The estimate for the loss last year may be placed at over $4,000,000. The association prepared a memorial to the Secretary of the Treasury setting forth in detail the methods by which silk goods are imported on invoices of less than their market value abroad, describing briefly some of the losses and damage occasioned thereby to the government and honest merchants, and suggesting a number of remedial measures for affording means for circumscribing this class of frauds.

VALUE OF MANUFACTURED SILKS IN 1876.

The total quantity of silk goods produced in the United States during the year 1876 is stated by the report to be 1,284,860 pounds, valued at $26,593,103. These include all kinds and varieties of silk manufacture, whether in dresses, ribbons, undergarments, neckties and scarfs, sewing and embroidery silks, handkerchiefs or trimmings. The industry is rapidly growing, and bids fair eventually to make American silks an article for export. Indeed, this view was already taken by Mr. J. Walter H. Thorp in a letter addressed to the Macclesfield (England) Courier, dated October 4, 1876, in which he says:—

Our English silk manufacturers have acted wisely in abstaining from exhibiting their goods at the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia, as they would only have exposed their inferiority in quality and price. Instead of wishing any longer to see or use our English silk goods, America, protected by her sixty per cent duty on the import of manufactured silk, is almost entirely supplying her own market with home made goods, and her manufacturers, having proved that they can produce the article and quality required by their markets, are now lending all their efforts to the reduction of cost. Now that the period of inflated prices and extravagant wages is passing away (which last item has hitherto been the great difficulty with manufacturers), and their scale of wages is rapidly falling to the European level, we shall find that the ample labor saving appliances and greater intelligence of the work people will bring us face to face with a competition such as we have never yet dreamed of, and I venture to say that before long England, mother of free trade as she is, will find herself compelled to impose a duty on the importation of American silks in order to protect her manufacturers from being beaten in their own markets.

PETTIT'S PISTOL PRACTICE.

Mrs. Louisa Turner, the lady who was shot by Elbert Pettit on the 6th inst., was sufficiently recovered to appear in the Fifty-seventh Street Court yesterday and make complaint against her assailant. She seemed, however, to be suffering yet, and it was only with assistance that she moved about. She made an affidavit in about these words:—

"On the evening of the 6th of June, at about the hour of half-past seven, I was informed that Pettit was at the hall door of my residence, No. 276 Fourth avenue, and had asked to see me. I went down stairs to see him. As I opened the hall door he suddenly pushed it in and rushed toward me. Immediately I saw a pistol flash, then heard the report and felt a pain, caused by the wound the pistol ball made in my left thigh. Pettit I then saw raise his right arm and in it was the pistol. I thought he was going to shoot again. I threw up my hands and cried, 'Don't! Don't!' Pettit looked at me, opened the door and hastened away."

The reason the lady pressed the charge is on account of the strange way in which her name has been used in the papers. She states she came to court because she had been unjustly dealt with, and was desirous to uphold her good name. Pettit's folks sought her out shortly after the shooting and expressed great sorrow at the son's mad act. They all hold her in the highest esteem and can vouch for her correct behavior while she boarded with them. She says Pettit has never received any encouragement from her, and that it is improbable, as well as untrue, that she, so much his senior, could feel any great liking for him. His past life she also thinks would be against her caring for him. She says he committed an offence some time ago, of what character she did not explain. She is quite a nice looking lady, aged about thirty-seven, is evidently much annoyed at the notoriety Pettit has brought her into and displayed great nervousness, accounted for by this her first appearance in a police court.

Pettit is about twenty-eight years old. He had but little to say. His denial was couched in the following language:—

"I am not guilty, and I don't remember any of the circumstances connected with this case. I have known the complainant for some time, about four or five months. I am not related to her. When the shooting took place I was intoxicated and not in my right senses."

The Judge committed the prisoner, without bail.

BIGAMOUS BRUNO.

Six weeks ago Bruno F. Chederski was arraigned before Judge Wandell on a charge of abandonment preferred by his wife, Josepha Chederski. He was required to produce $3 a week for her support, and was put under $500 bonds to insure it. No bail being forthcoming Chederski was sent to Blackwell's Island. During the first week of his incarceration he wrote a number of letters to his wife, promising to reform and asking her forgiveness. Mrs. Chederski then went to Judge Wandell and begged for her husband's discharge. Judge Wandell refused to grant it, believing that Mrs. Chederski was acting injudiciously. Not satisfied, she went with Counsellor Schloss to Mr. Kellogg, the Superintendent of the Charities and Correction Department, at Eleventh street and Third avenue. Mr. Kellogg listened to Mrs. Chederski, who said that she could not see her husband locked up, and at Superintendent Kellogg's request Chederski was discharged. To requite his wife's generosity, on the 19th of May Chederski married a woman named Ida Maria Theresa Bruckmoer, and discarded his first wife altogether. He was arrested about five o'clock on Sunday morning, and committed in $1,000 bail on a charge of bigamy.

OBLIGING A STRANGER.

"Well, sir, what can I do for you?" said Judge Smith at the Tombs Police Court, yesterday, addressing a seedy looking individual who leaned half over the railing, staring at the prisoners passing to and fro.

"Oh, nothing, Your Honor (hic). I only dropped in to see what was going on. I just come from the country (hic), and I thought I'd like to take a look at the prison."

"We are always anxious to oblige our friends," said the Judge, smiling. "I presume you would like to have an extended view?"

"Oh, nev— never mind," replied the stranger, vigorously endeavoring to steady himself and turning a trifle pale as if just realizing that perhaps he had been a little rash in entering a police court under the influence of liquor, "I guess I'll go."

"Its no trouble at all," said the magistrate blandly; "here officer take the gentleman down stairs and extend the courtesies of the prison to him for five days."

MUNICIPAL NOTES.

Mayor Ely was absent from the City Hall yesterday on a visit to the charitable institutions in company with Lord Clarence Paget.

City Chamberlain Tappan last week received $786,635 77 and paid out $1,268,556 54. The balance remaining in the City Treasury on June 9 was $1,127,337 10.

Comptroller Kelly paid yesterday to the Union Home and School for the maintenance and education of orphans of soldiers $2,063 83, in pursuance of an act of the Legislature.

The flags floated from the City Hall yesterday in compliment to Governor Robinson.

A SHERIFF'S FEES REDUCED.

The Supervisors of Kings county yesterday passed the resolution reducing the rate of board paid the Sheriff for prisoners twenty per cent. This resolution also provides for a similar reduction of the amount now paid to the asylums and private institutions for the maintenance of pauper children committed by the county thereto.

STEAM ON THE BELT RAILROAD.

ANOTHER MEETING OF THE ALDERMANIC COMMITTEE—ARGUMENTS ON BOTH SIDES CLOSED.

A third meeting of the Street Committee of the Board of Aldermen relative to the application of the Cheap Transportation Association to permit steam freight cars to run on the Belt Railroad was held yesterday afternoon. Two lengthy sessions have already been occupied in hearing arguments for and against the proposition. Additional arguments were made yesterday on both sides, when the committee adjourned without day.

THE ARGUMENTS.

Mr. John E. Devlin appeared on behalf of Mr. Rhinelander, who owned four blocks of property on West street. Mr. Devlin argued as to the obstructions which must result from these freight cars in getting blocked up in loading and unloading, running off the track, and also as to the danger to foot passengers.

A very serious objection was the large number of ferries emptying their passengers on both sides of the river on the streets through which the Belt road ran. The sentiments of the people of New York were against the use of steam in their streets. The movement was premature. The Dock Department had projected the widening of West street, and the granting of such a privilege would interfere materially with such work. There were 8,000 licensed carmen in New York, and this movement struck a great blow at their business. Mr. Devlin read from an interview published in Sunday's HERALD with a gentleman connected with the Central Railroad, in which it was stated that not one per cent of the commerce of New York was affected by its terminal facilities. The speaker further contended that the Board of Aldermen had no power to authorize the Belt road to carry freight; a franchise had been given by the Legislature to carry passengers alone. The statute also declared that the Common Council should not pass any ordinance in any way obstructing the operations of this road. The Belt Railroad had not asked for the privilege of running freight cars by steam, and if they wanted such a privilege they would be compelled to go before the Legislature.

Alderman Reilly asked the gentleman's comparison as to accidents on Hudson street, where steam is permitted, and the result upon horse routes, such as Second avenue and other roads.

Mr. Devlin answered that a large number of accidents happened in Hudson street, children being killed and horses run into. Accidents were more likely to occur where passengers were continually getting on and off the horse cars. The gentleman was also of opinion that the value of property on West street would be almost entirely destroyed by the running of steam cars.

Mr. O. Vanderburgh gave a history of steam travel in London and Paris, remarking that New York was more in need of rapid transit for her passengers than of anything else. Freight transportation would take care of itself.

Captain Ambrose Snow and Mr. Benjamin P. Baker followed in support of the plan.

Mr. Theodore F. Lees, Secretary of the Cheap Transportation Association, who had advocated the proposition several times at previous meetings, again spoke. He mainly went over the ground covered at the other sessions. The commercial bodies of the city, composed of from five to six thousand persons, had given this subject their earnest approval. It would annually save several millions of dollars to the business of the city. The use of the Belt road for steam was but a continuance of the trunk lines through this city. It would increase the value of property. Probably not more than an hour and a half would be occupied in transferring these freight cars over the road during the night.

After hearing some further remarks from Colonel Wingate, Mr. Mix and others the committee adjourned.
